"I was raised on a farm," Beitzel said his youth. "I worked for a neighboring farmer milking cows when in high school. I own and work a small farm near Bittinger with my family. I have a very good understanding of the problems facing small family farmers in today's competitive economic environment."

Beitzel has served on the board of directors of American Trust Bank, WM-Bankcorp, and the Garrett National banks, and was chairman of the American Trust Bank audit committee. "These positions provided me with valuable insight into understanding financial statements and accounting principals that are essential to fulfill the fiduciary responsibilities of a county commissioner," he remarked.

Beitzel represents Garrett County on the Upper Potomac River Commission and, prior to his election to his commissioner's seat he was appointed by the governor to serve on the Upper Potomac River Tributary Strategy Team. Beitzel was a Garrett County representative on the North Branch Task Force for the Upper Potomac River.

The candidate has maintained active participation in professional, charitable, and civic organizations throughout his adult life. The Maryland Rural Water Association presented him with its Decision Maker of the Year award in 1995. Beitzel was recently elected to the board of directors of the Maryland Association of Counties, a post he said only two other Garrett County commissioners have filled.

Professional organizations to which Beitzel belongs or serves on boards or committees include the Maryland Association of Counties, Water Environment Federation, Garrett County Farm Bureau, Garrett County Economic Development Corporation, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Beitzel was a founding member of the Deep Creek Business Association, and was a member and past president of the Garrett County-Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council.

The list of charitable and civic organizations to which Beitzel is or has been affiliated includes American Legion Post 71, Whitetails Unlimited, National Rifle Association, and the American Heart Association. He is a former member of the Oakland-Mountain Lake Park and Deep Creek Lake Lions clubs.

Beitzel is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident, where he has served in a variety of capacities, including church council member and church treasurer.

The candidate's political involvement includes service on the Garrett County Republican Central Committee prior to becoming commissioner. He is a sustaining member of the Republican National Committee and the National Republican Congressional Committee, and has served as 1994 Garrett County campaign coordinator for Congressman Roscoe Bartlett.

"I seek re-election not to keep a job, but as an opportunity to continue to give service in return for the many blessings that my family and I have enjoyed as citizens of Garrett County," the candidate stated. "My education, experience, and journey through life have prepared me to continue this challenge."

UNDERCOVER BROTHER

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:23 - Released 5/31/02

You can tell that writer John Ridley (Martin) enlisted the help of Austin Powers scribe Michael McCullers for the screenplay of Undercover Brother. McCullers, who worked on International Man Of Mystery and The Spy Who Shagged Me as well as the new upcoming Powers film Goldmember, has injected Brother with the same style of tongue-in-cheek humor and cleverly self-jabbing nostalgia. The lead character, caddy-driving, orange soda-drinking, afro-wearing '70s throwback and private eye Anton Jackson, played by Eddie Griffin, is like Austin Powers for the African-American community. Under the direction of Malcolm D. Lee (cousin of Spike), this film is just as silly, just as crammed with humorous period references, and just about as funny as the Mike Myers series. And the soundtrack definitely brings da funk.

The title character is introduced when he unwittingly aids a sting operation being conducted by members of the B.R.O.T.H.E.R.H.O.O.D., the spy agency of, by, and for African Americans. Heading up the agency is The Chief (Chi McBride, Boston Public), who orchestrates the movements of his agents, each with his or her own particular area of expertise: Smart Brother (Gary Anthony Williams) wears a white smock and hacks into computer systems while spouting highly technical jargon. Conspiracy Brother (David Chappelle) harps on his theories of how "The Man" tries to keep the brothers down. And Sistah Girl (Aunjanue Ellis), a smart, sexy female agent, is a master of martial arts equipped with lots of nifty spy devices. Also on board is nerdy white boy intern Lance (Neil Patrick Harris), whom the Chief admits he had to hire because of Affirmative Action.

After Jackson is inducted into the organization, we learn that for the first time in U.S. history an African-American could be elected president. A decorated veteran and war hero, the well-spoken and immensely popular General Warren Bautwell (Billy Dee Williams) seems to be the front-runner in the upcoming election. But just as he seems poised to win, he announces that he's dropping out of the race to open a chain of fried chicken restaurants, adopting a southern drawl and an Uncle-Tom-ish attitude. Soon we learn that the general has been drugged with a new mind control formula by "The Man" (yes, there really is one), whose primary agent is Feather (Chris Kattan), a fruity-yet-sinister character whose diabolical schemes include taking James Brown prisoner (yes, the James Brown) and unleashing what he calls "black man's kryptonite," i.e., a sexy white woman (Denise Richards), to foil the Brother and his H.O.O.D.

This movie is just what you'd expect from the talents of those involved. Griffin's style is predictable but funny, and Kattan is his usual over-the-top self. If you like the Austin Powers franchise, chances are you'll like this, regardless of your race. If you don't, we'll, I'd have to say you're just a jive turkey. ★★★★

THE SUM OF ALL FEARS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:04 - Released 5/31/02

I recently mentioned that Ben Affleck is good at portraying flawed individuals. But in Phil Alden Robinson's nuclear arms thriller The Sum Of All Fears, based on the book by Tom Clancy and adapted for the screen by Paul Attanasio and Daniel Pyne, Affleck shows he is equally adept at portraying a straight arrow. Playing CIA new kid Jack Ryan (the younger version of the role played by Harrison Ford and Alec Baldwin in other Clancy-based movies), whose inside information could possibly avert a global nuclear holocaust, he shows the necessary if somewhat bland integrity, and supporting players Morgan Freeman and James Cromwell are no less excellent. This is a thrilling film with good action effects and some impeccable acting, but its writers made an unfortunate choice in trying to avoid political fallout. In this screenplay, the book's original villains have been changed from Islamic extremists (which would not be well-received in light of the current situation) to Neo-Nazis (which is ridiculous in any situation). Unfortunately, director Robinson not only approved this, but chose to portray those villains, especially their leader (Alan Bates), in the most broad manner possible, with cartoonishly sinister Germans who pronounce W's like V's and leer menacingly, summarily execute traitors in their midst, and listen passionately to classical music, air-conducting while their evil plans are enacted. Give me a break.

Affleck's character Ryan is called in to help President Fowler (Cromwell) understand the mind of new Russian President Alexander Nemerov (Ciarán Hinds), on whom Ryan has done extensive study. Taken under the wing of presidential advisor Bill Cabot (Freeman), he informs the cabinet that although Nemerov is usually portrayed as a hard-liner, his policies are really much less agressive. This advice comes into play when a devastating chemical weapon attack is made on Chechnya. While the missile was actually launched by rogue officers of the Russian Old Guard, Nemerov assumes responsibility to avoid looking out of control of his military. Having previously established his opposition to the Russian war there, Pres. Fowler orchestrates the necessarily vague "measured response" by putting ships in the area and promising a counterattack. But the next thing you know, a fission bomb is detonated in a Baltimore sports arena, killing thousands and wounding many thousands more (including the president and his staff), and a missile attack is made on one of the American ships. While denying responsibility would make Nemerov look ineffective, he dares not let the hostilities escalate to nuclear proportions. Meanwhile, Jack, who has proof that the Baltimore attack was not perpetrated by the Russians, desperately tries to alert President Fowler before it's too late.

This movie is exciting the way Thirteen Days is exciting, alternating between action-filled footage of scrambling jet squadrons and exploding bombs, and the inner political workings of a presidential administration under the pressure of the worst possible scenario. If it weren't for the caricaturish performances of the villains, it would have been much more believable as a whole. Affleck, Freeman, and Cromwell all do good work, very well supported by Hinds as Nemerov and several others (Philip Baker Hall, Bruce McGill, Ron Rifkin) as Fowler's cabinet members. Also present are Liev Schreiber as a CIA operative and Michael Byrne as a friendly member of the Russian government. Overall, The Sum Of All Fears is an enjoyably exciting reworking of the kind of cold-war premise author Clancy is known for. It's a tired premise, and it's got its flaws, but the present talent makes it worthwhile. ★★★★

Holly Hare To Present Senior Vocal Recital

Holly Hare, Bittinger, will present her senior vocal recital on Sunday, June 9, at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Mtn. Lake Park, at 3 p.m. Accompanying her on the piano will be Sharon McLaughlin, the singer's middle school music teacher. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Hare, a 2002 graduate of Northern High School, is a voice student of Kathryn Sincell-Corwell. She has participated in the Frostburg State University opera workshop for several semesters. Among her repertoire are classical pieces ranging from operatic arias to contemporary art songs.

Hare is planning to continue her studies at the State University of New York at Purchase Conservatory of Music, where she will major in vocal performance.

She is the daughter of James and Mary Ann Hare.

THE CHANTICLEER CHILDREN'S CHORUS OF WEST VIRGINIA will perform this Sunday, June 9, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. The concert will begin at 7 p.m., and will be free to the public, although a good-will offering will be taken. The Chanticleer Children's Chorus was founded in 1991 with the philosophy of teaching musical skill and understanding through a communal music experience. It was founded by Sarah L. Carr, and is composed of approximately 48 singers, ages 12 through 18, from all over north central West Virginia. Their concert, "A Rainbow of Song" will feature a variety of music, from Vivaldi to gospel, and include folk songs from around the world. The young singers are offered the opportunity of working with adult professional musicians in many areas of artistry. They have presented and toured small operas with members of the Larry Parsons Chorale and have performed on West Virginia Public Radio. In June 2000, they toured Scotland, and recently sang for the Governor's Summit on Volunteerism. They were highlighted as the Honor Choir for the West Virginia Choral Directors Association.

Band Honorees Correction Noted

A list of Southern High School band honorees that was published last week failed to include the name of Allie Richter as one of the freshmen Best Class Musicians award winners. She and classmates Emily Bowman and William Georg were each recognized with that award at the band's recent annual spring concert.

Valley Ridge Theatre Slates 12th Season

The Valley Ridge Theatre of Thomas, W.Va., has announced its 12th summer season of live performance theatre at its main facility on Front Street. The series, titled the 2002 Heritage Theatre Festival, will open on June 7 and run through Aug. 10.

Three productions are planned for the summer months, all running in rotating repertory and all focusing on the heritage of the Tucker County, W.Va., area.

The first show, opening on June 7, will be Coming of Age, a new work by Valley Ridge's own E. Reid Gilbert. The show is based on numerous oral histories, music, and events in Tucker County from the beginning to the middle of the 20th century. The main characters, composites of many tales and rumors, "come of age" during this time, as does the whole county throughout its many ups and downs. This production is being sponsored by the Miners and Merchants Bank in celebration of its 100th anniversary.

Opening on June 21 will be the American premiere of Kalliroi Siganou-Parren's The New Woman. This Greek play, recently translated into English by Stratos Constandinitis, was written in 1907 and represents one of the 35 nationalities naturalized in Tucker County. The "new woman" takes matters into her own hands and demonstrates that feminism "was not initiated in the 1960s," a spokesperson said. The production is being sponsored by New Historic Thomas.

Ten Nights in a Barroom by William Pratt will open on July 4. This show is being sponsored by the Alpine Heritage Preservation, as it celebrates the centennial of the opening of Cottrill's Opera House in 1902. This temperance play was performed in Cottrill's in 1903, and photographs from this production were recently found. According to the spokesperson, by the end of the play, the town drunk has succeeded in sobering up.

In the area of visual arts, Valley Ridge will present a new art installation on Wednesday, June 12, in the Top of Tucker Gallery. This art exhibit will feature five generations of art, all created by the Warner family of Leadmine. The opening reception for this show will be held on June 12 at 7 p.m. The artists will be available for questions about their work, which will be on display through August.

For more information about the art opening or to reserve tickets for the 2002 Heritage Theatre Festival, persons may call the box office at 304-463-3365.

JOHNNY STAATS, West Virginia mandolin master and UPS truck driver, will take the stage with his band, the Delivery Boys, at the Purple Fiddle Coffeehouse and Mountain Market in Thomas, W.Va., this Saturday, June 8. Also performing before this nationally known artist will be the DePollo Brothers, twin accordion players whose father's general store was at one time located where the coffeehouse is today. Opening the show will be Preston County's From the Hip, and performing after Staats will be the Raging Acorns, a folk and bluegrass band from Morgantown. Persons may telephone 304-463-4040 for times and ticket information.

The Non-Accidental Images photography exhibition and competition will be held from Sunday, June 30, through Friday, July 5, at the Flowery Vale Senior Center in Accident. The event is open to photographers of all skill and experience levels, amateur and professional, and all entries and displays must be framed. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded, along with two People's Choice awards.

The works will be displayed at the center the week of the exhibition according to this schedule: Sunday from noon to 3:30 p.m.; Monday and Tuesday from 4 to 8 p.m.; Wednesday from noon to 8 p.m.; and Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The exhibition is sponsored by the Accident Cultural and Historical Society and the Garrett County Arts Council. For more information on entering photographs or attending the exhibit, persons may call Barrie Gregory at 301-746-6115.

Bryson Meyers Will Pitch For Crown, Team Maryland Squads

For only the second time in Garrett County baseball history, a local high school player has been selected as a member of and all-star squad known as Team Maryland.

Bryson Meyers, who just graduated from Southern High School, was named a member of that prestigious squad as a pitcher, as well as a member of the Crown High School All-Star Team, which will play a game at Camden Yards in Baltimore this Sunday. While there have been a number of local players selected for the Crown team, the only other Garrett County player named to Team Maryland was Alan Sebold of Northern High School back in the mid 1990s.

Team Maryland, which consists of the top junior and senior high school players in the state, will compete in a national tournament in Oklahoma the week of June 16-22, where it will face similar all-star squads from Arizona, Texas, Ohio, California, and Oklahoma.

The Crown High School All-Star Team consists of 30 Maryland graduating seniors divided into two teams by region. The North team includes players from Baltimore and counties north and west of the city, while the South team is made up of players from south of Baltimore and the Eastern Shore. The two teams will meet each other at Camden Yards immediately following a 1:30 game between the Baltimore Orioles and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Other Garrett County players who earned a spot on the Crown team were Sebold and Southern's J.R. Bosley (1988) and Jeremy Fitzwater (1995).

Meyers, a left-hander, led the Southern Rams to an undefeated, 21-0 regular season this spring and finished with a personal record of 9-0. He pitched 51 innings, struck out 71 batters, walked only 14, and finished the year with an astounding ERA of 0.82. Coupled with his junior season, the 6-4 Meyers finished with a 16-1 record.

He was named to the All-Area second team last year as a pitcher, and will undoubtedly be a first-team pick this season. He is playing American Legion baseball this summer and will continue his academic and athletic career this fall as a member of the Potomac State College baseball team.

"Bryson is as deserving as anyone for these honors," stated Southern head coach Jim Bosley. "He has put in a lot of time and worked hard during the summer months, and he's a real competitor. He doesn't get rattled like a lot of pitchers do when there are runners on base."

Bosley said that Meyers' best pitches are his fast ball and his curve. "The main thing, though, is his accuracy; he just throws a lot of strikes," he said.

"I give a lot of credit for Bryson's success to Danny Holler, our pitching coach," Bosley said. "He's worked hard with Bryson, and Bryson has really responded to his instruction."

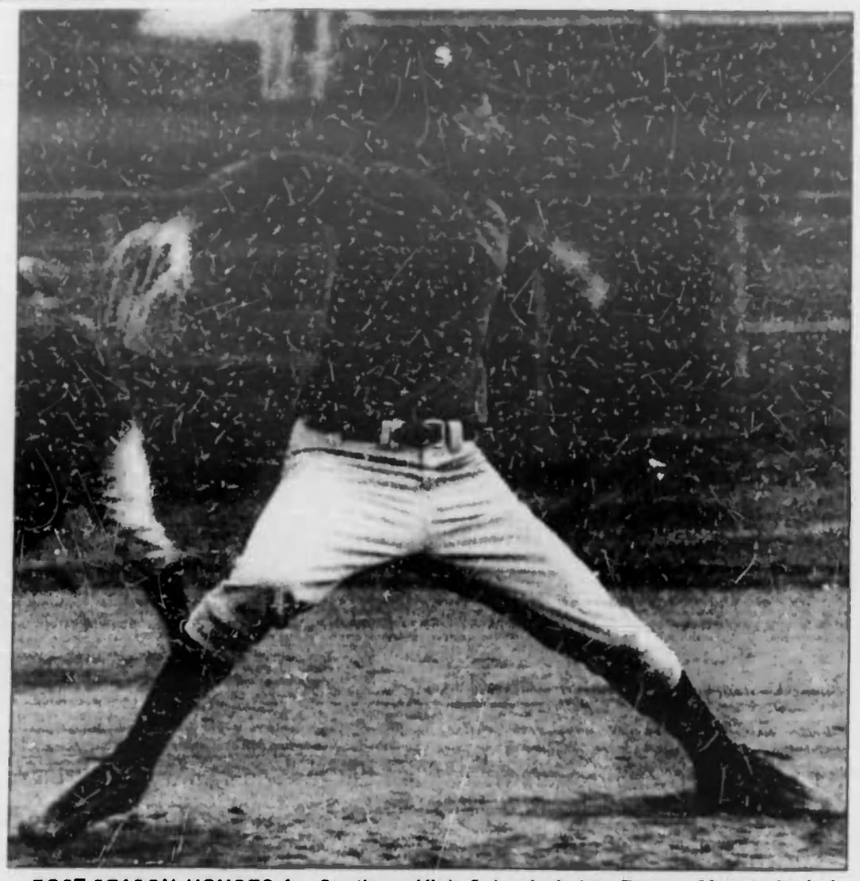
Named a first alternate as an infielder on the Crown team was Southern's Tobi Stoner, another graduated senior, who had a work ethic second to none, according to Bosley.

"Without a doubt, Tobi has the single best work ethic I've ever seen in my years of coaching," said Bosley, who has been the Rams' mentor for over two decades. "He's also one of the most complete players I've ever had. He can do it all — hit, throw, play defense, run, and pitch."

While he excelled as an infielder, he was also Bosley's number two pitcher, and finished this season with five victories.

"Tobi was a co-MVP for us this year with Ricky Reams," Bosley said. "He definitely should have been named one of the starting players for the Crown All-Star team."

Stoner plans to join the Garrett College Laker program this fall.



POST-SEASON HONORS for Southern High School pitcher Bryson Meyers include his being named to both the Team Maryland and Crown High School all-star teams. He is only the second player in Garrett County baseball history to be selected by Team Maryland, which will play in a national tournament in Oklahoma later this month. Two Crown all-star teams, consisting of the 30 most outstanding graduated high school seniors, will be divided into two teams that will play each other at Camden Yards in Baltimore this Sunday. Meyers, who recorded a perfect 9-0 mark for the Rams this season, has a two-year personal record of 16-1. He has already signed to play for Potomac State College this fall. See story for details. ## Oaks Open Pen Mar Play With Twinbill Sweep

The Oakland Oaks took an easy doubleheader sweep over Parkersburg Saturday, 7-1 and 13-2, to kick off the Pen Mar Baseball League's regular season. The contest was played at Northern High School, and a rematch twinbill originally slated for the following day was moved to this Sunday, June 9, at Parkersburg.

The Oaks blasted three home runs during the two games, two by Seth Tressler and one by Mike Shahan, while their pitching staff limited Parkersburg to three hits in each of the contests.

Tressler staked Oakland to an early lead in the first game by belting a three-run home run in the bottom of the first to highlight a four-run inning. Shahan's solo blast came in the third inning, then Josh Bosley rapped out a two-RBI base-hit in the sixth inning to bring the scoring to a close. Parkersburg scored its lone run in the top of the seventh and final stanza.

Oakland starter Chris Smith, a Mineral County, W.Va., native who completed his sophomore season at Frankfort High School recently, struck out 10 of the visitors' college-level batters over his six innings of shutout work. He gave up just three hits in picking up the win, while Chris Harvey tossed the final inning to gain credit for the save.

The Oaks scored three times in the first inning of the nightcap contest, as Shahan doubled in two runs and Jamie Clark drove in another run. Tressler launched a long, high drive in the second inning that cleared the left-center fence with plenty of room to spare, despite a harsh wind blowing against the ball. The grand slam blast put four runs on the board in the six-run inning, which concluded with the hosts holding a 9-0 lead.

Parkersburg scored twice in the top of the fourth, but Oakland answered with four runs in the bottom of that stanza en route to its five-inning win, shorted by the 10-run mercy rule.

Wisp Declaws Lions In 1-Hit, 10-Run Shutout

The Wisp Hot Stove League team skinned the Cumberland Lions with ease yesterday, taking a 10-0 win over the visitors while relinquishing just one hit. The Garrett County squad improved its record to 5-1 with the win.

Three Wisp pitchers combined their efforts for the one-hitter. The Lions got a leadoff single to tally their only hit of the game. Wisp starter Derrick Lowdermilk tossed the first three innings, striking out five along the way, before Corey Carr came on in relief in the fourth to continue the Wisp's mound mastery, and Preston Sisler was summoned for duty in the fifth to clinch the shutout. Carr and Sisler combined for five strikeouts during their two innings of work.

Bosley Raps Out Winning Hit In All-Star Game

Southern High School graduate Jennifer Bosley was hard at work on the softball diamond again this week, as she helped her public school all-stars take a 2-1 victory over the private school all-stars in Maryland's Old Line Classic yesterday. The contest drew the best high school senior softball players from across the state, who represented 10 public schools of all class levels and seven private schools.

Bosley started the game on the mound and tossed the first three innings. She ran into some difficulty in the second inning after she walked a batter. A single followed that included a fielding error on the same play, putting the runners on second and third. A two-out passed ball allowed a run to score before the stanza concluded. Bosley pitched a shutout third inning before being lifted at the start of the fourth.

The former Ram was summoned back to the field in the eighth inning to play second base. With her public school squad down 1-0 in the top of the ninth and final inning, a teammate bunted to reach first base with one out; the next batter slapped a bunt back to the opposing pitcher, who made a throwing error on her toss to first that sent the ball all the way to the fence. While the private school fielders were scampering after the errant horsehide, the runner on first hustled all the way around the horn to score and the batter ended up on third base.

With the score knotted at 1-all, Bosley stepped to the plate and rapped out a single up the middle that brought the runner home from third base with what turned out to be the game-winning run.

Bosley is slated to attend Radford (Va.) University this fall, where she will play softball in the spring.

Atlanta Braves Tryout Set At Laker Diamond

Scouts from the Atlanta Braves professional baseball organization will conduct a tryout session on the Garrett College diamond in McHenry on Monday, June 10. According to Ed Wildesen, GC coach, it will get under way at 10 a.m.

The head scout for the tryout will be J.J. Picollo, assisted by Rick Clendennin. All players are invited to participate. Wildesen reminds American Legion players who plan to tryout that they must have a release form signed by their coach or post commander.

In Loving Memory of my Husband
Earl C. Savage

I go to visit your resting place to place flowers with love and care,
And no one knows the heartache
when I turn and leave you there.
Sometimes I pray for just one more chance
Just to hear your voice or catch a glance.
Not a day goes by that I don't think of you and all the things we used to do.
A thousand prayers can't bring you back,
I know, because I've tried.
And neither will a million tears,
I know, because I've cried.

Your loving wife, Kitty

Pleasant View Flurry Puts Heat On Crellin UM

A pennant race may be unfolding just a month into the Garrett County Men's Christian League campaign, as Crellin United Methodist's undefeated hold on first place is coming under fire from a hot Pleasant View Baptist squad that won all eight of its outings this week.

The week's doubleheader action got under way with a split between Oak Park Church of the Brethren and the Loch Lynn Church of God. Oak Park took the opener, 10-6, behind winning pitcher Ron Gnegy, while Loch Lynn rebounded to win the nightcap 11-7, with Chuck Shreve picking up the victory. Kevin Artice belted two home runs for Oak Park, while Ken Lake, Mike Shreve, and Gnegy each swatted one roundtripper.

Pleasant View cruised to a 13-2, 9-4 sweep over Oakland Church of the Nazarene, as Jeff Murphy tossed both ends of the twinbill to garner a pair of wins. Pleasant View's offense was sparked by home runs by Donnie Horner and Murphy, while Brian Ashby connected for two homers for Nazarene.

Pleasant View made it four in a row by following up with 23-5, 25-12 triumphs over Cornerstone Assembly of God, as Murphy gained two more victories on the mound.

Glade Mennonite took a pair from Cherry Glade Mennonite I in a 25-16, 18-12 sweep. Bill Miller tossed both wins for Glade, and was aided by a home run smacked by teammate Trey Brenneman.

Pleasant View kept on rolling with a 16-14, 25-5 sweep over Maple Glen Mennonite behind two-game pitcher Dave Niner. Donnie Horner took big stick honors by slugging four home runs, while Pleasant View teammate Jason Martin and Ryan Martin swatted one homer apiece.

Cornerstone Assembly downed Nazarene twice, 14-10 and 29-11. Ken Yommer worked the opening win on the mound, and Rick Durst hurled the nightcap victory.

Cherry Glade I put the hammer to Nazarene with a 22-4, 31-13 sweep, as Terry Beal, Karlyn Yoder, and Sheldon Maust smacked one home run each for the winners.

Pleasant View capped its perfect week with 15-7, 14-7 triumphs over Loch Lynn. Niner picked up both pitching wins while Horner kept up the long ball attack by cranking out a pair of home runs, and teammate Poke Winters poked one over the fence himself.

Crellin preserved its perfect mark by downing Mt. View Mennonite in an 18-15, 17-10 sweep, as Mike Fazenbaker took two wins on the mound. Crellin's Ronnie Murphy launched two homers, and teammate Bill Ashby contributed one home run.

Crellin stands alone atop the league standings with a 10-0 record, while Pleasant View close on its heels with a 9-1 mark. Glade and Mt. View are knotted in third place with identical 6-2 records, Cornerstone follows at an even 4-4, Maple Glen Mennonite is 3-3, Cherry Glade is 2-2, and Cherry Glade I is 2-2. Loch Lynn and Nazarene are 1-7 and 1-8, respectively, and still trying to get into the win column are Gortner Union at 0-2, Cherry Glade Mennonite II at 0-3, and Crellin Assembly of God at 0-6.

Local Athletes To Compete In W.Va. Games

Not all of the athletes competing in the Special Olympics West Virginia Summer Games this weekend in Morgantown will be from West Virginia.

Two athletes from Garrett County will be going to West Virginia University with their coaches to participate in the kayaking competition. Special Olympics West Virginia began offering kayaking as a sport in 2000 and remains the only state competition that stages the event. Races will be Saturday and Sunday on the Monongahela River at the Star City wharf.

"It's always pleasing to know that Special Olympics West Virginia can serve as a leader with regard to sports such as kayaking," said John Corbett, SOWV chief executive officer. "I think we've been able to develop a sport that works very well for our athletes and is growing in popularity every year. It's very gratifying we can share our experiences with Special Olympic athletes from other states."

Wayne Caple, one of the coaches from Maryland, said Garrett County Special Olympics began offering kayaking as a practice sport. This will be the first competition for athletes Krista Beiler and Joe Sizemore, Caple added.

"I think kayaking is a great sport for all Special Olympic athletes and their families," he said. "I'm sure we're going to learn a lot when we go to West Virginia, where you have been having competitions for a long time."

Garrett County Special Olympics leaders want to log enough experience before staging a kayaking demonstration in August to convince Maryland Special Olympics officials to include the event in the state's 2003 Summer Games, Caple said.

Beiler and Sizemore will join 21 West Virginia athletes from Monongalia, Webster, Wirt, and Wood counties in the competition, said Nancy Miller, kayaking director for Special Olympics West Virginia.

Competition includes 250-meter races, 125-meter races, and canoe events for both men and women, said Miller, who volunteers through Adventure Pursuit, a nonprofit outdoor pursuits organization that was the driving force behind making kayaking a medal event in the Summer Games.

"I think it's great the athletes from Garrett County are coming," she said. "We are trying to get a few more states involved."

Other states interested in kayaking for Special Olympics include Alabama, Georgia. Ohio, and Virginia, Miller said.

The international Special Olympics committee will offer canoeing and kayaking as demonstration sports during the International Games in Ireland in 2003. This is the first step toward the sports becoming competitive events.

Arsenal Football, MSA To Sponsor '02 Soccer Camp

The Mountaintop Soccer Association and Arsenal Football Associates Ltd. will again host the Internationals Soccer Camp this summer. The camp will take place Aug. 5-9 at the Southern Garrett High School track. The camp is open to youth ages 6-18.

The coaching staff for the camp includes individuals who have coached and/or played at the Olympic or World Cup soccer level. The coaches' program will be structured to develop each camper's technical and tactical skills with close personal attention, a spokesperson said.

A clinic for parents and coaches will be included during the week, slated for Tuesday and Thursday, 6-8 p.m. This clinic is designed to help coaches better prepare their players for the rigors of the game, and to provide parents with the opportunity to learn more about the sport. Coaches and parents may attend the camp at any time to observe, the spokesperson noted.

For a camp application or more information, persons may call Bobbie Rhodes at 301-387-2931 or Ron Petrella at 301-334-1174. Applications are also available at the Ruth Enlow Library.

Registration forms and full payment to the camp are due by July 15.

Wisp Declaws

Wisp's offense was clicking, as the line-up recorded 10 hits on its way to 10 runs. The squad started off with a three-run leadoff inning, and scored twice in the second stanza and four times in the third. The tenth and final run came in the fifth and final inning.

Robert Stark and Lowdermilk both doubled and singled, and Mark Logsdon, Sisler, and Carr each drove in two runs with basehits.

Wisp takes to the road tomorrow to play Frostburg First United.

Corrections Noted To SHS Softball Photo Captions

Two errors were made in the identifications of Southern High School varsity softball players whose photographs appeared in last week's issue. Gina Reeves's name was omitted from the caption beneath the photograph of the six Southern seniors that ran on the front page, while an interior sports page photo incorrectly identified Ram third baseman Autumn Uphold as Erica Green.

The Republican regrets the errors.

Garrett College To Host Women's Volleyball 4's

Garrett College will host a women's volleyball 4's league for experienced players ages 14 and older. The league will meet Tuesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m., beginning June 18, in the GC gymnasium.

Players are required to have at least high school volleyball experience in order to participate. The cost is $10 per person. Teams may have up to six players, and the deadline to enter a team is June 14.

Persons interested in registering a team or being placed on a team may contact Ann Wellham, GC head volleyball coach, at 301-387-3052.

Youth Soccer League Sign-Up Deadline Noted

The Mountaintop Soccer Association (MSA) reminds area residents that MSA is still accepting application forms for the fall 2002 youth soccer season. The mail-in deadline to register for the MSA league is June 15. There is a $5 late fee after that date, and applicants will be placed on a waiting list.

Application forms are available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. Parents are encouraged to register by the June 15 deadline to ensure that their child is placed on a team. Applications, along with a check made payable to MSA, should be mailed to the address noted on the form.

Anyone with questions may contact Ron Petrella at 301-334-1174.

Area Coaches To Speak At Garrett Basketball Camp

The Garrett Community College basketball camp, set for the week of June 17, will feature presentations by two noted area basketball coaches, according to GCC men's coach and camp director Dennis Gibson. Southern High School coach Tom Bosley and Frostburg State University coach Webb Hatch will both be returning to the camp to discuss defensive and offensive strategies, respectively.

"We are always trying to bring in top speakers, and Tom Bosley will be speaking on defensive positioning," Gibson said. "Anyone who watches area high school basketball knows that Coach Bosley's teams are number one in the area on defense, and that is not by luck." Bosley's presentation will include lecture, demonstration, and drills.

Hatch will be speaking on individual offensive drills in shooting and proper footwork. "The kids really enjoyed Coach Hatch's demonstrations and took back some things they could use in their summer workouts," commented Gibson.

"Many of our camp participants have a goal of playing college basketball someday, and they will be able to be seen and evaluated by colleges coaches such as Coach Hatch and myself," the Lakers' skipper stated. "That is a goal of our camp."

Gibson added that Robert Morris University head coach Mark Schmidt, who recently signed GCC standout Duke Cooper, has committed to speak at the camp as well.

Persons interested in registering for the GCC Basketball Camp may call Gibson's office at 301-387-3051, and leave a message with a name and address for a brochure to be placed in the mail. Walk-in registration will also be accepted from 8 to 9 a.m. on Monday, June 17, at the Garrett gymnasium.

Signs With EMU Basketball Team

Northern High School basketball standout Jensen Long, who graduated last weekend, has been recruited to play basketball for Eastern Mennonite University in Harrisonburg, Va.

The 6-7, 210-lb. center averaged 10 points a game last season for the Huskies, and grabbed 8.6 rebounds and recorded four blocked shots per game as well. He garnered Second Team All-Area honors, and was named to the Western Maryland-West Virginia All-Star Game line-up.

"Size and strength are Jensen's assets," EMU coach Tom Baker commented. "He is a pure low-post type player, the sort we lacked last year. We have added some much needed size to our team with him and some of our other recruits."

Long is expected to develop into a strong EMU force under the basket, where he will be joining fellow recruit Brandon Fling, a 6-6 center who just graduated from Hancock High who was a foe of Long's on the WMIL high school circuit.

Huskies Slate Wrestling Camp

Northern High School will host a wrestling camp for students in grades 3 to 12 from Monday, June 17, until Friday, June 21. Each day's session will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m.

Camp directors will be Scott Stough and Bob Moranduzzo. Rob Waller Sr. and Jr. will be the clinicians, as well as other college wrestlers.

Cost for the camp is $75. The deadline for money and permission forms is June 17. All participants will receive T-shirts. For more information, persons may call Stough at 301-746-5080.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

WIND, WIND, AND WIND
by Dan Muss

On Saturday morning the weatherman was calling for winds of 10-15 mph, although it looked more like 5 mph as we were rigging. However, as we left the mooring, it was easily 15 with as much as 20 in the big gusts. It was nevertheless a beautiful day and there were about 30 sails out.

The whole of Flying Scots C Fleet got off to a fine, even start, but I ran into trouble almost immediately. The pin holding my tiller in place had worked loose and everything we did to get it back in place was unsuccessful, mainly because it was blowing so hard. I had to keep pressure on the tiller to keep it from coming out of the rudder slot, so I could not hike out or even sit up on the railing.

On the downwind leg we all had spinnakers up, with Elster in the lead followed by my nemesis Rissell. We were a close third when a blast came from the beam. With the spinnaker up this presents the danger of a broach as the spinnaker swings to the side and tends to pull the boat over on its side. Rissell had very wisely decided to take his in — I let go of my sheet as my spinnaker went flying, but Elster capsized.

We finally did get the spinnaker in, but the port spinnaker sheet was wrapped around the boom and it wasn't until the final windward leg that we had the boat more or less under control — all this with the loose tiller. We managed to finish right side up, and although we were tired it had

Area Speedway Review

by Donna Butler

Nick Jones took season win number two in the Fayette Tire Late Model division. Before Saturday evening's program ended, there was a two-time winner in each division. Jim Bendishaw Jr. in the Caney Valley Sport and Marine Hot Stocks, Mike Hay in the VitaLink-QCOL Classic Lites, and Louie Orris and Marty "Too Tall" Spade in the Fort Necessity Garage Modified and Stock Four Cylinders, respectively, each scored their second of the new season at Roaring Knob Raceway.

In the Fayette Tire Late Models, Doug Horton led at the start, but Jones showed the way over the final 12, followed to the stripe by Gary Dalton, Doug Horton, Nolan Dalton, and Chuck Clise.

The Caney Valley Sport and Marine Hot Stock division is arguably the toughest division at the raceway. Polesitter Sam King led the charge into turn one at the drop of the green. The first two laps belonged to King, who relinquished the top spot to Jim Bendishaw Jr. on lap 3. King kept the pressure on, looking to score a win for "The Mill Run Mafia." It was not to be, as sixth starting Bendishaw was first to view the checkered. King held on to the runnerup spot, followed by Scott Herring, Steve Huggins, and Scott Spade.

Young Mike Hay continues to perform like a veteran, moving from eighth on the grid to take the lead on lap 3. Hay never looked back in scoring his second. John Cogar finished second, with Frank Dunkle, Lynn Knepper, and Matt Hay rounding out the top 5.

Floyd Leonard looked to be the class of the field in the Fort Necessity Garage Modified Four Cylinders. Leonard led the first six, only to fall way off the pace, handing the point to Louie Orris. Orris went on to victory lane, with Jason Boncoski, Ron Ramsey, Leonard, and Charles Hicks in tow.

Marty "Too Tall" Spade led only one lap in the feature event for the Fort Necessity Garage Four Cylinder Stocks. It was the one that counted most, though, and Spade celebrated in victory lane for the second time. Ed Leonard, Bob Miller, Aaron Lucy, and Dave Friend completed the top five.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park will return to action this Saturday, June 8. For more information, call the raceway office at 724-329-306 or 724-329-8196, or visit www.roaringknob.com on the Web.

Sailing Report

really been a fun race. Back on shore we found out that Lee and Joan Coraor had also capsized. It had been a tough day.

The wind blew all Saturday night and was still howling Sunday morning. We heard from the committee boat that it was blowing at 20 mph and gusting to 25. That was too much for me and my fearless crew, and the rest of C Fleet concurred. Even the Flying Scots A Fleet decided not to go. (They were probably more concerned about blowing out their sails than capsizing.) There were only two B Fleet boats, but the Lasers were out in force. There were nine of them and they had a really good time. The Lasers capsized repeatedly (but they are used to that), while the two 'Scots finished in one piece. That's stamina and fortitude!

MVA Mailing Photo ID Cards

The Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) of Maryland began mailing photo identification cards on Monday. The new, anti-fraud security measure will ensure that the information provided is reliable and applies to all applications for identification cards, according to an MVA spokesperson. The new system will allow for completed identification card applications to be immediately processed and mailed statewide within three business days.

The MVA currently issues nearly 500 photo identification cards each day. The spokesperson said that Maryland has always maintained some of the strictest requirements in the country, and joins several other states in implementing this security enhancement.

"We are very serious about our responsibility to make sure the card you're carrying is as true to who you say it is as possible," said MVA administrator Anne Ferro. "It should not be vulnerable to fraud and tampering if lost or stolen."

The requirements to obtain a new or duplicate photo identification card remain the same: proof of age, name, identity, and residence. Applications for corrected identification cards require proof of age, name, identity, residence, and the old ID card. Identification cards are valid for five years.

For additional information, persons may contact the MVA Customer Service Center at 1-800-950-1682 or visit the web site at www.marylandmva.com.

COMPLETING STEPPING STONE PROJECT — The third grade class at Grantsville Elementary School recently designed and completed a stepping stone project for the arboretum during their art class. The project was funded by a Chesapeake Bay Grant, which provided the students with cement, and school custodian Tom Stemple made the mold for the project. Art teacher Carolyn Collen-DuBose also assisted in the project. The students used marbles, seashells, river rock, and many other objects to create a unique stepping stone that will be a part of the arboretum in the near future. Parent volunteers and Stemple mixed the cement to the right consistency. "We hope that one day students will have the opportunity to return to Grantsville Elementary and locate the stepping stones that they helped create when they were students here," said Carol Warnick, of the Environmental Action Team at the school. A trail is being planned through the arboretum, and these stones will be part of the trail. Pictured above, Cody Humberson, left, and Bobby Hay look over their stepping stone.

SGCRW Meet At Mtn. Glade

The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met recently at the Mountain Glade Adult Day Care Center for its May membership meeting.

County Commissioner Fred Holliday was on hand to speak to the SGCRW about Garrett County's fiscal year 2003 budget. He distributed several handouts, including pie charts, that illustrated the revenue process and how the county's tax dollars are spent.

Commissioner Holliday also spoke of progress being made in the development of the county's industrial parks, and how the county is working in conjunction with Garrett Community College to explore opportunities to help the unemployed through new Trades Training programs. He complimented the general overall growth in the county, and said he is pleased to have an opportunity to work for the citizens of Garrett County.

The May club shopping trip fund-raiser was deemed a success, as senior citizens and club members traveled by van to Meadowbrook Mall in Clarksburg, W.Va. Birthday and Christmas presents were purchased for children and grandchildren. The club sponsors at least two such trips per year. The trips are helpful to women who no longer drive, but want to continue the gift-giving experience. The proceeds benefit the SGCRW's political and charity programs.

Club president Bea Crosco led a discussion and a planning session for several voter registration drives. Ways and Means Committee chair JoAnne Glotfelty agreed to explore a "Big Bucks Bingo" fund-raiser effort, as well as a Relay for Life activity.

Glotfelty won the raffle for the gift basket, which was provided by Mary Alice Fries.

The SGCRW club's upcoming meeting is slated for Wednesday, June 19, at the home of Ann Rebele, and will feature a covered dish dinner. Elected officials and candidates for elected positions will be present. To learn more about the SGCRW club, persons may call 301-334-2147.

Correction Noted

Incorrect information was provided in the story about the birdwatcher conference set at the Wisp Resort June 7 through 9 in last week's edition of The Republican newspaper. The artworks of Gary Yoder will not be exhibited at the conference, and Mike Callahan is the statewide conference chairman, not the president of the Maryland Ornithological Society.

Residents should note that more than 300 birdwatchers with binoculars will be in the area searching for birds, a spokesperson for the Maryland Ornithological Society said.

Outdoor Service, Bible Study Set By St. Mark's

The congregation of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, will hold its Sunday, June 9, worship service outdoors at the Broadford Park pavilion located adjacent to the Broadford Lake dam. Contemporary music, led by the Praise Ensemble, will begin at 10 a.m., and the worship service will get under way at approximately 10:15 a.m.

Members who have just graduated from high school, college, and post-graduate studies will be recognized at the service.

Following worship will be a covered-dish picnic. Those attending are asked to provide a covered dish, if possible, plus their own eating utensils. All are invited to attend, and persons should feel free to wear casual clothing.

The 5 p.m. service will be held at the church, using the traditional liturgy, with Marge Lanver preaching at both services.

Beginning on Sunday, June 16, St. Mark's adult Sunday school class will hold a six-week (June 16-July 21) Bible study on the topic "Law and Gospel," based on writings of C.F.W. Walther. The sessions will begin with a light supper following the 5 p.m. worship service, and will end at about 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the 5 p.m. services and stay for the meal and study session.

Anyone desiring more information about the aforementioned schedule or St. Mark's in general may telephone the church at 301-334-2668.

Stats Released For May By Sheriff's Office

Garrett County Sheriff Dick Sanders Jr. recently released the agency's statistics for May 2002. The stats for the month revealed a total of 1,700 control numbers assigned for a variety of different incidents requiring action during the month.

Deputies also reported the following: 18 arrests for driving while intoxicated; 11 controlled dangerous substance complaints resulting in 21 arrests, including 3 juveniles; 9 domestic complaints; 3 domestic assaults resulting in 3 arrests; 16 destruction of properties; 33 disturbance complaints; 34 motor vehicle accidents investigated; 117 traffic citations issued; 39 patrol checks; 489 court papers served by deputies; and 98 individuals arrested on a variety of 134 criminal charges.

Sheriff Sanders reported an increase in the number of drug abuse complaints and persons arrested for illegal drug possession. He attributes this increase to warmer weather conditions that are conducive to outdoor music festivals and parties involving drug activity. Under constructive possession statutes, someone who is not using drugs may be arrested if in the immediate company of drug users. Deputies will continue to monitor and enforce illegal drug activity in the county, he said.

Information concerning illegal drug activity may be reported to the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911.

Parker signs on for new ABC sitcom

By Taylor Michaels
©Tribune Media Services

Q: What is the stunning Andrea Parker up to now that "The Pretender" is apparently history? –Elliott A., Chicago.

A: Rumors persist that a third "Pretender" TV movie may still happen at some point, but meanwhile, I'm delighted to report that Parker, an ace at comedy, joins Sara Rue ("Popular") this fall in "Less Than Perfect," a new Tuesday ABC sitcom set in the world of TV news, created by "Sex and the City" writer Terri Minsky.

Andrea Parker

Q: In several "Hill Street Blues" episodes about gangs, I noticed a redhead who looked a lot like David Caruso. Any chance it was him? –Georgia Clark, Livonia, Mich.

A: Yes, Caruso – who is slated to star in a "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" spinoff next fall on CBS – played Shamrock leader Tommy Mann on several 1981-82 episodes of "Blues." A decade later, executive producer Steven Bochco cast Caruso in his new series "NYPD Blue."

Q: Back in the '40s and '50s, I remember my mom listening to a radio soap opera called "Pepper Young's Family." I think I heard the very distinctive voice of one of the characters on TV just last week. Did actor Mason Adams play on that radio soap? –Judy Gage, Devils Lake, N.D.

A: Yes, the veteran character actor, perhaps best known as managing editor Charlie Hume on "Lou Grant," gave voice to the role of Larry "Pepper" Young on that popular radio soap from 1945 to 1959. Now 83, the indefatigable Adams is starring with Chris O'Donnell in the Broadway revival of Arthur Miller's "The Man Who Had All the Luck."

Q: Partly on your recommendation, our family has been delighted to discover "Gilmore Girls" this season. On a couple of episodes we spotted a young actor playing one of Rory's classmates. Did he play the youngest child on "Picket Fences"? –Kate B., Charlotte, N.C.

A: Well spotted, Kate! Yes, Adam Wylie, now 18, made his TV series debut as little Zachary Brock on the Emmy-winning "Fences," which ran on CBS from 1992 to 1996. If you are in the New York area anytime soon, you can catch Wylie as Jack (of Beanstalk fame) in the current Broadway revival of Stephen Sondheim's fairy tale musical "Into the Woods."

In Focus

The A*Teens, a hot pop group from Stockholm, hosts "Disney Channel's Surf-O-Rama" on Friday, June 14.

The evening begins with the group introducing "Rip Girls," a movie about a girl learning to surf in Hawaii.

That is followed by "Johnny Tsunami," in which a teen is uprooted from Hawaii to live in Vermont.

Then it's "Zoog Movie Surfers Go Inside Lilo and Stitch," the upcoming animated movie in which A*Teens sing.

Sunday

A scientist (Whoopi Goldberg) and her laptop get sent back in time to King Arthur's (Michael York) court in "A Knight in Camelot" Sunday on ABC.

RETIRED??

My neighbor may not be employed any longer, but he sure stays busy. The only difference I have seen in the twenty-three years I have known him is that he used to go out to work and then come home and work. Now he "just" works at home; and it's not that he has no aches or pains. My neighbor just doesn't pay them a lot of attention... doesn't want to give them the satisfaction.

Remaining as physically and mentally active and as positive as possible is essential. Milton Berle said, "I don't think you should quit working, ever. If you do have to retire, find something else to do. You've got to keep your mind busy or you'll spend too much time dwelling on unpleasant things."

Attitude is important. 2 Corinthians 4:16 tells us... "Though outwardly we are wasting away, yet inwardly we are being renewed day by day." The key to inward renewal is faith in God's Word. Worship regularly. "You can be among the very young at heart."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRINCE W. ALIHOUSI

OF HOPE & HELP

Background Scripture: Psalms 42-43
Devotional Reading: Psalms 43

Let's understand this from the beginning: the author of Psalm 42 is not just having a bad hair day. In fact, he is not just having a bad day. He is, as we sometimes are, a person in chronic, deep distress.

So he uses powerful and illustrative words to tell us what is going on with him: "As a hart longs for flowing streams, so longs my soul for thee, O God. My soul thirsts for God, for the living God" (42:1,2)

This is not the thirst I feel because I have been without anything to drink for the past several hours. This is a raging thirst that one experiences in long hours in the desert. Prof. Samuel Terrien renders this as, "So panteth my soul after thee, O God." There is a sense of deep desperation over one of the most basic human needs. But instead of water, the Psalmist acknowledges that it is actually God that he needs and seeks.

The Bottomless Void

The Psalmist recognizes what so many of us find it almost impossible to discern: God is our deepest, most vital need. Very often people who overindulge themselves with food, alcohol, drugs, sex, status or material wealth are searching vainly for something to fill that seemingly bottomless void inside us. We hunger or thirst but nothing ever seems to satisfy that deep longing. Blessed is the person who can discover: "My soul thirsts for God, for the living God."

Note that the Psalmist is very specific—he seeks, not the God of ideas, rituals or reason, but the living God, the God who can be experienced when ideas, rituals and reason fail. He cries: "When shall I come and behold the face of God?" He wants the real God, not someone's speculations. He wants the God who can reassure him in the face of those who taunt him: "Where is your God?"

What is the "mess" in which the Psalmist finds himself? Scholars speculate that this is a man who, for some reason or other, is in exile far away from Jerusalem. The God he once experienced in the Holy City he now calls upon "from the land of Jordan and of Hermon, from Mount Mizar" (43:6). We don't know where Mount Mizar is, but Hermon is the snow-capped mountain far to the north of Jerusalem. Scholars also discern that this man probably was a participant, perhaps even a leader, in worship in Jerusalem's temple. (See 43:4). They also say that he is physically ill as well as homesick.

What's The Matter?

Yet, at that point when it seems he can bear it no longer, he begins to reason with himself: "Why are you cast down, O my soul, and why are you disquieted within me?" (43:5). I can so easily identify with him here because there are times when I ask myself, "What's the matter with you? Why are you thinking this way?" And, often, it is then that I recognize that it is the voice of God challenging me—as I am certain you have.

Because the Psalmist is willing to pursue this question, he at last finds an answer: "Hope in God; for I shall again praise Him, my help and my God." There are times when life crowds in upon us and we realize the importance of all those things—society, technology, theology, ourselves—in which we hoped and are faced with surrendering ourselves either to despair or to God. I inevitably choose God, because although I have not yet beheld his "face," I have known him in other times and found him my only hope.

Thus, while surrounded by nothing but despairing circumstances, we can lay claim on a future that looks back on the help that God will give us. Faith is living on the promise of God's grace that as yet we have not seen fulfilled, but know in our hearts we will see. We need to know that every landscape of our existence is alive with the presence of God. The intrepid explorer, Sir John Franklin was shown maps of areas not yet explored. someone had written at various places on the map, "Here be dragons" and "Here be demons." But Franklin wrote at each place: "Here be God".

Our hope is not that the dragons and demons are not real, but that God is even more real.

Horse Chestnut Seed Extract May Improve Circulation In Legs

Chronic venous insufficiency (CVI) affects 10 to 15% of men and 20 to 25% of women, making it one of the most common conditions afflicting humans. Symptoms include pain, cramps, leg swelling, and feelings of heaviness. In Germany, where herbal medicine plays an important role in both treating and preventing disease, extracts of horse chestnut seed are approved for treating CVI symptoms.

According to a recent Archives of Dermatology report, an extract of horse chestnut consumed for as few as 20 days was shown to be as good as compression stockings in relieving CVI symptoms. The study authors noted that horse chestnut seed extract was "superior to a placebo and as effective as reference medications in alleviating the objective signs and subjective symptoms of CVI." Adverse effects associated with extract use were rare and were not significantly different from those reported by study participants who used placebos.

Nature Connection

by Liz McDowell & Ron Boyer

You're walking on a forest floor littered with the crumpled, brown leaves of last fall. Enough new, green growth has poked its way to the surface that you know spring is in full swing. Then you see them...a cluster of pink lady-slippers against a fallen log. Their color and shape seem more in tune with a tropical rainforest, but here they are on a wooded slope on the Allegheny Plateau.

Cypripedium acaule has many common names, but the ones heard most frequently in Garrett County are pink lady-slipper and moccasin flower. It is a member of the orchid family, which contains roughly 25,000 species. The pink lady-slipper has two large, pleated leaves attached at the base. Its stem, reaching up to a foot high, holds the unique flower with its inflated deep-pink pouch. It thrives in a variety of habitats, from bogs to upland deciduous forests. The common feature seems to be poor, acidic soil.

Pink lady-slippers can be fertilized only with pollen from a different flower. Its sweet fragrance typically attracts solitary bee species. The bee pushes through an opening in the front of the pouch and is directed along a specific route by the plant's inward-pointing hairs. It first must squeeze past the female stigma, where any pollen it carried into the plant is rubbed off. Next the bee "picks up" a new batch of pollen as it moves past the male anther. When the bee finally exits the flower, it has nothing to show for all of its effort, since the pink lady-slipper provides no nectar. The bee will only make this mistake a couple of times before learning to avoid this so-called "lady." The plants must rely on "naive" bees to do their bidding. If you see a hole in a pouch, it's likely from a large frustrated bee that "tired of the game" and created its own exit by biting through the flower.

If the lady-slipper is lucky enough to be pollinated, the resulting seed pod will contain upwards of 20,000 minute seeds. These seeds are easily dispersed by the wind. The flower's luck must still hold, since its seeds must find the right habitat. The soil it falls on must contain one of several types of fungus if the seed is to germinate and grow. The fungus absorbs nutrients for the orchid until its leaves emerge several years later.

Though Cypripedium acaule is not on the state endangered species list, local populations have declined. Habitat destruction is one reason; however, collection by "wildflower lovers" is also a problem. If you know of a patch of pink lady-slippers, it would be best to cherish them where they are. Transplant them only from areas being destroyed due to development. If you are set on adding them to your garden, be careful where you purchase seedlings.

For more information on the correct way to obtain wildflowers for your garden, visit the Maryland Native Plant Society's web site at www.mdflora.org.

State Police Nab Va. Fugitive On Interstate 68

Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack apprehended a Virginia resident driving a reported stolen vehicle Saturday on Interstate 68. Further investigation revealed that the suspect was wanted for a variety of additional charges in his home jurisdiction, including felony escape.

Tony Allen Lambert, 28, Roanoke, was stopped for speeding and a seatbelt violation at approximately 9:45 a.m. along westbound 1-68 west of Chestnut Ridge Road. When asked to produce a driver's license, Lambert reportedly stated that he had lost it, and went on to provide the name of the registered owner of the vehicle and his wife's date of birth.

A check of the vehicle's registration indicated that the 1995 Nissan pickup had been reported stolen from the Roanoke area earlier that same day. When Lambert's true identity was finally established, a criminal check revealed that his Virginia driver's license was suspended and that felony warrants had been filed in that state charging him with escape, second degree assault, and uttering bad checks.

Lambert was arrested and charged with motor vehicle theft, giving false information to a police officer, driving on a suspended out-of-state license, and a seatbelt violation. He was processed through the Garrett County Jail, where he is awaiting results of an extradition hearing in Virginia.

What are my rights as a consumer in a competitive electricity market?

A. There are already specific regulations in place to protect your interests as a consumer.

Although the price of electricity in Maryland will no longer be regulated, the delivery of that electricity will. To help ensure safe power and continued reliable service, all electricity suppliers must be licensed by the MD Public Service Commission. Electricity suppliers cannot switch your electric service without your express permission. You can even cancel a contract with a new supplier within 10 days. An electricity supplier must also tell you the energy sources they use to generate their power, including the emission rates. And if you ask to be taken off their telemarketing list, they can't call you back. Want to know more? Give us a call or visit our web site and request your FREE Consumer Guide to Electric Choice!

• Every year, LEGO makes more than 300 million tires for its toy vehicles. If you consider a toy vehicle to be a vehicle, then that would make LEGO the world's biggest tire producer ... in terms of numbers, if not size.

• It was once widely believed that high-speed railroad travel ("high speed" meaning anything above about 20 mph) would be impossible because people couldn't possibly breathe at such speeds. Some speculated that the first swift-moving steam locomotives would become "death trains" full of gasping, dying passengers.

• The so-called qwerty keyboard, named after the first six keys across its top left, was originally developed to avoid binding up the metal arms that threw the type against the paper. The most-used letters were placed farthest apart, reducing mid-air collisions. So many people learned to use the typewriter in that configuration, however, that now we seem to be stuck with it forever.

• People who are speaking to large groups spend more time looking at the women in their audiences than the men in their audiences. Researchers who study this kind of stuff tell us that this is normal because everybody, male or female, spends more time looking at women than at men.

• Eighty percent of all cars manufactured and sold in the United States now have automatic transmissions. As fewer and fewer people learn how to "drive a stick," manual shifting may one day belong only to a few dedicated aficionados with rare collectible automobiles.

• A "fruit" is the enlarged ovary of a plant, containing seeds. A green pepper is a fruit. So is a tomato. So is a cucumber.

Q. I have about a dozen Hallmark Christmas ornaments, including several that were issued in both the Frosty Friends and Betsey Clark series. How can I find out more about Hallmark collectibles and determine if the ones I have are valuable? — *Susan, Ridgecrest, Calif.

A. In 1973, Hallmark Cards, Inc. introduced 18 holiday ornaments. They were unique in design, dated and manufactured in limited quantities. They were an immediate hit with collectors.

That first series featured designs by Betsey Clark and continued in production until 1985. Frosty Friends debuted in 1980. Other popular issues included Snoopy & Friends, Star Trek, Norman Rockwell and Mary's Angels.

A check of recent online auction results have included Starship Enterprise, 1991, $425; Norman Rockwell's Caught Napping, 1984, $45; Betsey Clark, 1973 first edition, $220; Carousel, 1978 first edition, $600; Star War's Darth Vader, 1997, $35; and Snoopy & Friends, 1982 fourth edition, $155.

As with most collectibles, the first edition of a series is usually the most valuable, and ornaments in their original boxes are especially desirable. Some of the more scarce first issues include The Locomotive, 1982, $650; Frosty Friends Cool Yule, 1980, $650; Holiday Barbie, 1993, $125; and Norman Rockwell's Santa's Visitors, 1980, $200.

Q. We are having a problem with our 1-year-old mini dachshund. He tinkles when he's excited, afraid or around certain family members. We call it happy or excited tinkle. After he does this he then turns immediately and puts his nose down to sniff himself. At that time I say "No!" and he stops. We will be carpeting the house soon, and I don't want to worry about urine on the carpet. Any suggestions would be appreciated. — *Linda M., via e-mail

A. Ah, the happy tinkle. Such an expression of joy, such a mark of your dog's devotion, such a fast way to ruin your shoes!

Tinkling and sniffing are common behaviors in younger dogs, especially puppies (though some older dogs also tinkle). They are indicators of submissive behavior, a way of telling bigger dogs, "Hey, you're the boss." The actions are also habitual because, as a tiny puppy in the litter, your dog only "went" when his mother licked his rear, signaling that it was OK to potty. That's why your dog tinkles when he greets you, and why he sniffs himself immediately afterward.

Changing this behavior takes a different approach than scolding or punishment. Because your dog is trying to appease you by urinating (indicating his submission to your authority), he becomes confused when you get angry. This causes him to continue tinkling, and the problem could become a permanent one.

When you come into the house, don't greet your young dog right away. Instead, toss him a treat and ignore him for 10 to 20 minutes. Greet him after he calms down. Don't say "no" when he starts to sniff himself, but also, don't pet him until he stops the behavior.

Tell guests to ignore the dog as well when they first come inside. After a few minutes, when everyone is sitting down, allow them to say hello by scratching him under the chin (not patting him on the head, a dominant action).

And to be sure that his urinating and sniffing are not a symptom of medical problems, take your dachshund to the vet for a complete exam.

ELCA Bishop To Attend Area Synod Assembly

The presiding bishop of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, the Rev. Mark Hanson, will join the 200 clergy and lay voting members and visitors during the 15th annual assembly of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod. The assembly will be held this Friday and Saturday, June 7 and 8, at the Days Inn Conference Center, Flatwoods, W.Va. This will mark the first assembly visit by a presiding bishop of the ELCA. Bishop Hanson was elected to serve as presiding bishop in August of 2001.

Bishop Hanson will lead the assembly in a discussion of the future directions and mission of the entire Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. He will serve as the preacher for the Friday evening Festive Eucharist. On Saturday morning, he will lead a workshop, which will highlight life in the Lutheran Church in America.

The assembly delegates will have opportunity to hear and respond to the keynote address, which will be delivered by Dr. Brooks Schramm, an associate professor of Old Testament studies from Gettysburg Seminary. Dr. Schramm's address is titled "Scripture and Homosexuality."

The West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod assembly will deal with constitutional changes, a state of the synod address provided by Bishop Ralph W. Dunkin, elections for synod boards, and the opportunity to attend workshops. The Rt. Rev. Michie Klusmeyer, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of West Virginia, will bring greetings on Saturday morning to the assembly.

The Lutheran Church in West Virginia and western Maryland serves over 16,000 members, including all Garrett County ELCA Lutherans, and is the oldest non-Catholic Christian denomination. Martin Luther formed the Lutheran Church in the mid-1500s, and some West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod congregations have been active since 1765 in West Virginia. Today there are 63 active congregations that make up the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod.

A SPECTACULAR DAY — The weather could not have been finer Sunday afternoon for the commencement exercises at both Northern and Southern high schools. The sun shone brightly all day, and a brisk spring breeze kept the nervous graduates cool. The ceremonies began at the Cove in the early afternoon, followed by Southern's at 4 p.m. Anxious Northern seniors are pictured above as they wait to hear their names, and then get their hands on the prize that took 13 years to earn. In all, 299 county students earned diplomas.

SHS Valedictorian Address

"One of the best things about living where we do is the amount of support everyone gives us . . . ." — Laura Hollingsworth, SHS Valedictorian.

I always used to think that I was a fairly good writer. When I was little, I wrote fairy tales about people with magical powers. As I grew older and became an avid reader, I began to imitate other authors — writing a mystery story about the boxcar children or rewriting books, like Bridge to Terabithia, so that they had a different setting. As I said, I used to think that I was a decent writer — until a few days ago when I tried to write a speech to reach out to all of my classmates, their friends and family, and our teachers. At that point, I realized what a load I had on my back. I've been chosen to stand in front of you to give meaning to our four years of high school and the thirteen years of school in general. I hope I fail miserably. There is no way for one person to recap the past eighteen years of 190 unique individuals. We have shared so much — laughter, tears, smiles — and yet, all of our experiences have been distinctly different. Through our decisions, we have chosen the road we want to take in life and who we want to be. But, despite this, all of us, with different backgrounds and different futures, have convened here to celebrate one moment in our lives that we will forever have in common.

From kindergarten to twelfth grade, I have listened to my fellow students ask the same questions. "Why is this important?" "When will I ever use this?" I have watched as teachers came up with surprisingly coherent answers, seemingly out of nowhere. I am here to contradict all that you have ever been told. Who cares if you'll ever use $E = mc^2$ again? High school is as much about living as learning. Truthfully, every single person who has ever asked or answered "Why is this important?" "Why are we here" missed the most significant aspect of these questions. This, our thirteen years together, is important because it is here that we build the base for the rest of our lives. We stand on the edge of a great abyss. A bridge dangles between two worlds — that of carefree childhood and that of adults where our decisions have more weight than they have ever had. The steps that you have made will bring you closer to the man or woman you want to become. That is why this is important. We learn $E = me^2$ because it brings us all that much nearer to the future. No matter where you end up next year, whether at college, a technical school, in the army, or working full-time, you won't regret the time you've spent here in Garrett County. The frustration you felt when you were told that you have to measure "rest mass" in Joules like energy instead of kilograms. The pride you felt when you finally understood that Mr. Leitzel was asking, "Do you have a horse?" as opposed to a more peculiar question, "Do you have any hair?" A realization accompanied by the understanding that the French words for horse and hair are, in fact, pronounced slightly differently. Perhaps you will forget 90% of what you've learned in high school. Even if this is the case, your frustration and pride will stick with you. That is why we are here.

Over the years, we have all known people who have helped us along the way, encouraged us, supported us, and pushed us to do better than our best. Personally, I would like to thank all of the people who have given me advice. Every day, I have had a different classmate come up to me with more inspirational guidance and, surprisingly, their statements have all been quite similar. "Make sure you don't trip, Laura" or even "don't trip, but if you do, I'll still have to laugh." "Whatever you do, don't cry and don't make me cry either." "Don't mention me in your speech; I would be so embarrassed." "Remember, we went to school for thirteen years, not twelve." I always smiled, nodded, and thanked them for their most generous advice.

One of the best things about living where we do is the amount of support everyone gives us — everyone knows who you are and what you're doing. It's not always a bad thing either. We at Southern High School have been blessed to have the support of not only our friends but also our teachers. I have heard many stories about people who graduated from Southern and found that they were far ahead of their co-workers or college classmates. Ironically, I think this really is true. The teachers and administration do their best to make our four years here worthwhile and fun. Whether a relative or a friend, there are always a few people in our lives who do more than anyone else. I want to especially thank my family for all of their love and support. Staying up until midnight helping me make an Egyptian mummy (due the next day) whose wrappings don't seem to be hardening, quizzing me for a big test and hugging me when I finally get the grade I wanted, staying home to do my hair before every dance, playing cards with me when I'm worn out from working too much. Jeanne, Scott, Shar and Krista, I owe you everything.

If you retain anything today, let it be this — these past thirteen years have been filled with unbelievable memories, both good and bad. Never forget them. I send with you millions of best wishes for your journey into the real world. You will make many more memories, but don't ever lose the ones that took place in these very halls. Thirteen years ago, we didn't even know the meaning of the words "success" or "study" much less the word "graduation." Seven years ago we were graduating from fifth grade, and that was all that mattered. Four years ago, we were too scared about being shoved in a locker by the big bad seniors to care. But today, we are finally achieving something that we have worked on for the past thirteen years. Congratulations, class of 2002 and good luck.

NHS Valedictorian Address

". . . we should . . . swim ahead at full speed into the vast ocean outstretched before us." — Todd Foley, NHS Valedictorian.

On Thursday morning, after brushing my teeth and getting dressed, I performed my usual duty of feeding my fish. However, as I bent down to fetch the container holding the special blend of highly nutritious tropical food flakes, I saw that upon the rocky bottom of the aquarium, my goldfish named Cornelius had quietly passed away. Immediately I became overcome with grief, and I collapsed onto my bed. As I lay there and began to reflect upon the death that had visited my tank, I soon discovered that the loss of Cornelius marked the end of an era for my aquarium.

The next day, when I sat down to write this speech, I realized what a perfect parallel this anecdote is to our high school graduation. Today, just as Cornelius has, we are marking the end of an era in our lives, although thankfully we are not going belly-up as he tragically did. Thus, it is important - that after our time of reflection upon our last four years at Northern, we focus on the future, because that is what matters. Yes, I took a few moments to ponder the short life of my fish, but I must still work to improve the state of my aquarium community. There will be other, healthier fish to replace Cornelius that will further improve my collection, just as there will be many new people we will meet in our lives on an adult level who will help us to grow and fill the spaces left by our departing high school friends.

Overall, our time in high school may be compared to the lifespan of Cornelius, which was brief and only one constituent of my early tank community that will continue to improve. Upon the conclusion of this comparison, we should take with us the lessons we have learned at Northern, the positive memories we have accumulated, forget the rest, and swim ahead at full speed into the vast ocean outstretched before us.

Thank you every one, especially my parents, Grandmother Ault (who was the valedictorian of the Accident High School class of 1934), sister and brother-in-law, and Susan [Bell], and congrats grads!

SHS President's Address

"Class of 2002, today is a day of closure as well as a day of remembrance." — Edward Clemons Jr., SHS Class of 2002 President.

Good afternoon. Welcome to the fiftieth graduation ceremony of Southern High School. Half of a century of graduates have passed through this school. As president of the fiftieth class I would like to say to those of the first class who have joined us today, thank you for what you did; without you laying the path and aiming toward the future, we as the class of 2002 would not be able to do what we have done.

Class of 2002, today is a day of closure as well as a day of remembrance. Many of you have known each other since the first day of kindergarten. That day was the seed to the beginning of our school career. That seed has blossomed into the tree of success that is now fully grown into this day of graduation. Also a special thanks to all those who have been an inspiration to us during the past thirteen years. Without those who stood by and urged us on, we would have never come this far.

During the past four years, we as the class of 2002 have coexisted as a group in harmony, all striving for success. Today is the day that commemorates all the hard work of the past four years. I will always remember the fun times with friends, the hours of hard work, and all the times that we as a class stood together. The world has changed around us and we have grown with it. We came here as ambitious young people, who now have become fine young adults. Today is the first day of the rest of our lives.

No matter what each of you have chosen to become, good luck and God Speed. Remember life is not measured by failure, success leaves the lasting impact. Most importantly be who you are and be happy with what you are. Today may be the last time that we all will be together as a group. Never again will these be moments be relived.

In closing I would like to say, I am proud to be your president, and proud of each of you. We have accomplished so much and I know we will continue to do so. I live each day in the belief that a superior being is looking down on us and watching over us. Have faith in what you believe and always remember where you came from. Try your best, do not give up and live each day believing in yourself. We did it, class of 2002.

Congratulations.

SHS Salutatorian Address

"Although occasionally we may have a rough idle, we must all keep a steady throttle and in the end we will make a full pull." — Chase Ashby, SHS Co-Salutatorian.

Ladies and Gentlemen, Fellow Students: I stand here in front of you today — and I thank you for your attention and I thank God for this beautiful day to celebrate our academic achievements. The only other place I'd care to stand today ... would be behind this class, proud to be a parent, proud to be a friend, proud to be a teacher, and proud of these special students, young adults, and graduates. I'll not claim to be the spokesman for the class of 2002, but I hope to express what some might say.

Graduation is a time for reflection and remembrance of past endeavors and accomplishments. We have dedicated the past thirteen years to this one extraordinary moment, which marks the pre-stage of our future. We have accumulated friends, memories, and wisdom, which will inevitably aid in our future success. We have also developed the courage and ambition to endure through life's challenges.

Graduation has both its high and low points. The low end of the spectrum embodies all of the memories and friendships, which often fade after this momentous day. The high points of graduation are the lifelong skills and hobbies which we have fine-tuned in high school. I entreat you to remember the little moments in school life. Today, I recall special memories for me such as walking in the halls before class or lunch, studying for major exams in a treestand, and listening on the radio to my brother and friends play football while at a tractor pull. Whether our learning consisted of working on engines, composing essays, welding, studying projectile motion, or calculating the time value of money, it will all combine to bring us future success. Although occasionally we may have a rough idle, we must all keep a steady throttle and in the end we will make a full pull.

Those of you who know me well, know that I rarely complete an assignment without some reference to a favorite interest — tractors. Therefore, today I'd like to paraphrase an analogy penned by John Church, titled "Everything I need to know about life I can learn from tractors."

1. Old things are not necessarily useless.
2. Hard work sometimes results in character.
3. Timing is important.
4. Smoking is not good.
5. Color is not the most important thing.
6. Making more noise doesn't always mean you're running better.
7. If you are in the dark, there is a light to help you find your way.
8. When the work is hard, shifting to a slower gear will sometimes get you through.
9. Don't hook onto a bad tongue.
10. If you don't start in the right direction, you can always back up a little.

Following these, human values of courage, generosity, determination and love can never fail.

Graduates, as I look out over you today, I see many future leaders. Some of us will be engineers and teachers; some will fly helicopters and others will drive nails. There are artists and masons, journalists, and policeman. We will raise crops, buildings and families, and most assuredly, a few eyebrows along the way. In time, there won't be anything that one of us can't do.

Congratulations and good luck, class of 2002. Thank you.

NHS Salutatorian Address

". . . that's what taking chances and making the most of every day is all about." — Micah Plevyak, NHS Salutatorian.

Well, I think it has been quite an interesting year... an interesting four years as far as that goes. I'm sure each of you has had your own separate challenges and successes which have pulled you along through the almighty high school experience. But since I naturally don't know all about each individual one of you, I am going to talk about myself instead. I have encountered a number of my own challenges so are: one being any activity involving athletic skills, another being Punctuation Bingo. But his year, especially, I was faced with a particularly hairy situation: to produce the school newspaper with a staff of two. And one of those two was female, so, you know how that goes. But as I thought about this past year, I began to notice some striking similarities between that challenge of producing a newspaper and the challenge of making it through a day, through high school, or growing up in general.

SHS Salutatorian Address

"Set your goals and look forward to achieving them." — Jennifer Bosley, SHS Co-Salutatorian.

I would like to thank the administration and teachers at Southern Garrett High School for creating the foundation that has gotten us here today. My parents, family, and friends also deserve my greatest gratitude for their continued love and support. But most importantly I want to thank all of you, my fellow classmates, 2002 graduates, for making my high school experience memorable and exciting.

This past year alone has been filled with times of triumph, disappointment, and sorrow. These times have brought us closer as a graduating class and have molded us into better individuals. We have learned much more than could ever be found in a book. We have learned more than any teacher could teach us. We have taught ourselves, learned, and have seen that at any moment the world as we know it can change. We have learned the importance of responsibility, hard work, and dedication. We have learned pride: pride within ourselves and pride for our friends. We have learned what it takes to achieve and how to handle achievements. But most importantly we have learned, there is much more to be learned.

Alfred D. Souza once said, "For a long time it had seemed to me that life was about to begin — real life. But there are always some obstacles in the way, something to be gotten through first, some unfinished business, time still to be served, a debt to be paid. Then life would begin. At last it dawned on me that these obstacles were my life."

When we started our journey in kindergarten, we couldn't wait until fifth grade; we would be the biggest kids in the school. Someone forgot to remind us that after kindergarten, we would no longer have nap time or snack time. When in fifth grade, we couldn't wait until the middle school, where we could change classes throughout the school day and have our very own lockers. Again, someone forgot to tell us there isn't play-time in 6th grade. When we were in middle school, we looked forward to taking the transition into high school. When we got here, we found out there was much more homework and responsibilities. While in 9th grade, we looked forward to 10th grade, when we were no longer known as "the freshmen." But our classes got even harder. While in 10th grade, we looked forward to our 16th birthday, when we could finally drive. I guess we forgot about paying for gas. 11th grade found us thrilled to be upperclassmen, yet we couldn't wait to be seniors, the leaders of the school. But there was no one left to look up to. And 12th grade was obviously filled with the anticipation of graduating. There is nothing bad about that.

Well, here we are. It's graduation day, and most of us are looking forward to college, the armed services, or the work force. We are continually saying, "I can't wait until." This is fine. Set your goals and look forward to achieving them. But, appreciate what you have now. Happiness is a journey, not a destination. Cherish the time you have spent with your friends and classmates and thank them for all that they have done for you.

No one can tell what the future holds for each of us, but our motivation and desire to excel can make our transition successful. We leave this school as champions, both academically and in our extra-curricular activities. As a class, we have achieved more than most classes. We have raised the standard of what it truly means to be successful at Southern High School. As the 50th graduating class to walk across this stage, we should be proud of our many accomplishments. We have worked hard to get to this point and deserve the diplomas we are about to receive. So, class of 2002, thank you, good luck, and congratulations on a job well done.

SIMPLY STATED — Bridget Frazee, Northern High School's class of 2002 president, kept her speech short and sweet as she quoted the ever-popular Dr. Seuss: "You have brains in your head and feet in your shoes, so you can go in whatever direction you choose."

THE 50TH CLASS GRADUATES — The 2002 graduation event was the 50th such ceremony to take place at both Southern and Northern high schools, as the facilities opened their doors in the fall of 1952. Southern marked the milestone by inviting the members of the class of 1953 to take part in Sunday's graduation ceremony. The young men of the class of 2002 wore red robes and are pictured at left, and the young women, on the right, wore white. The class members of 1953 wore golden robes and are pictured in the right foreground.

NHS Address

I hope you're all ready, because here comes the extended metaphor.

In the first stages of newspaper production, we look desperately down at a pile of blank sheets of paper. We don't know what will go on them. The pages are completely open to our abounding inspiration, and we have to decide whether to fill them with exciting exposés, embarrassing tidbits, harassment and so on, or with something more tantalizing like "the best bird seed for your buck" or "the dangers of recycling." Of course, we would rather sit around, munching on pretzels, laughing it up, and causing class disturbances. But if we chose that route, we would fail the class and have nothing to show for ourselves.

So, back in the newspaper room, we finally begin to do what seems to be work. Odds and ends of paragraphs take shape, and stories begin to form. Pictures are taken — some more flattering than others, some more legal than others. And the whole jumble begins to fall into place. Some of it is funny; some is sentimental; a lot is just foolish stupidity. But it is all taken into account as production goes on.

Articles are soon birthed at astonishing rates, and may read "Success Night Debuts Lemon Meringue Pie," "Friends Seriously Injured Playing Spoons," or "Salutatorian Makes Pitiful Attempt At Insightful Speech." Each story captures some series of moments, and as they are laid out and the newspaper becomes complete, an entire piece of history is immortalized.

Such is life, or at least such is my life. Each morning I wake up. During school it was a grumpy awakening; now, as noon rolls around and I roll out of bed, it's not as bad. But regardless, an entire half of a day awaits me. The possibilities are endless! Eventually I get up, get out, and get happy, and wondrous things happen. Some of you probably experienced the same occurrence: you might learn something you didn't know about before, such as the name of our school or what day it is. And so on.

Each morning we are confronted with a plethora of blank sheets, and it is our job to fill those babies up with the greatest material we can create. My sheets might be filled with internet shopping tips, the top ten reason to stay at home on a school night, or a study on how it is possible that I only come up to Mr. Reichenbecher's hip. Todd's pages might be filled with cynical editorials on just about everything, and the proper way to do the chicken strut. Rachel's might include in-depth studies of baboon habitats, and there are so many more.

We can't be wary of that stuff that will be edited out, because that's what taking chances and making the most of every day is all about. When the newspaper comes back from publishing, it is a completed product, and always perfect. Our lives, though, are far from complete and far from perfect. Plus, the staff helping us through it all is much greater than two.

Personally, I'd like to thank my mom for waking me up all those times I fell asleep writing English papers and for all the late night haircuts. Bruce, thanks for always having the facetious remarks to lighten my mood and for teaching me the word "facetious." And Dearma and Grandad, thanks for having both advice and food awaiting me when I needed it most.

Now, it is everyone's mission to go out there and make some noteworthy news, because as I've learned from Newspaper, the boring stuff just doesn't sell. So, spin your truck tires, go cow-tipping, and celebrate this day. But do so responsibly, of course.

I wish good luck to everyone in the future.

RITUALS AND ROSES — Southern graduates received roses (young men received white and young women received red) along with their diplomas during the Sunday afternoon ceremonies as they marked an end to one phase of their lives. Senior adviser Mary Ann Shipe, with her back to the camera, hands a rose to Brett Lambert as he steps off the stage. Arthur Lemley receives his diploma from Dr. Wendell Teets, as Principal Tom Woods calls the graduates' names. The graduates enjoyed the picture-perfect weather for the last time as a complete group. They will take with them their memories as they embark on their future after high school.

REAPING THE REWARDS OF YEARS OF HARD WORK — What at times seems like a long road of education finally came to an end Sunday afternoon as 119 graduates of Northern High School received their diplomas. Above is Kellen Baumgardner receiving her diploma from Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. Behind Dr. Teets is W. Bruce Taliaferro, assistant principal, and Gary Reichenbecher, principal, is at the podium. To the right, Ethan DeVore receives his diploma from Dr. Teets.

Brickett Garden To Be Part Of Mountain Laurel's Tour

The Secret Country Gardens Tour, sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, set for Saturday, June 23, will include the garden of Elaine and Bob Brickett in Oakland. The tour is from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. and will feature five local gardens.

After having spent several years at their cabin in McHenry, the Bricketts wanted to settle permanently in a home with easy winter access. They found a house they felt was perfect, but with a garden and trees in need of much attention. They replaced trees in the front yard, terraced an overgrown embankment in the back, and replanted that area with small shrubs and perennials.

Tour patrons will also be invited to visit an old playhouse in the back yard that has been painted and decorated, making it a focal point of this garden.

Tickets, which include coupons, maps, and written directions, are $5 and may be purchased in advance at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and Terra Alta, W.Va., and Deep Creek Pharmacy; or, on the day of the event, at the Gazebo in Oakland.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of area communities as well as the encouragement of gardening and conservation through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society. The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

CONGRATULATIONS

The parents and family of Jacob Brooks Gnegy would like to take this time to congratulate and recognize J.B. on his completing the 5th grade and to express our pride in his being the only child in his class to complete kindergarten through the 5th grade with PERFECT ATTENDANCE. This accomplishment is one that few students will ever achieve and the Garrett County School System should have acknowledged your dedication to attending school.

GREAT JOB AND KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK, J.B.!
Mom, Dad and Katelyn

The Yough Glades School gives awards for perfect attendance and to students who missed 5 days or less each year. According to Principal Keith Harvey, he had no way of knowing that J.B. had perfect attendance for the past 6 years. As the parents of J.B., we find this extremely hard to believe. We also find it hard to believe that a student could miss a total of 6 weeks of school in that time and get virtually the same recognition as our son. Any employer planning to hire a graduate from such a system shouldn't be surprised when the employees don't show up for work.

Persons wishing to adopt Hope and give her great new start in life may call a Human Society member at 301-334-0918.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

LIBRARY NEWS

The Terra Alta Public Library is planning its Summer Reading Program for grades 3-9, which will begin on Monday, June 10. The deadline to sign up is Friday, June 14. Students who read and report on 20 books will earn something special. This could be a T-shirt, a trophy, a gift certificate, etc. Prizes change from year to year, and all participants will be recognized. A party is being planned for Friday, Aug. 16 at the library. Awards, certificates, and prizes will be given then. The theme this year is "Hog Wild About Reading." Students need to read at their level and have reports signed by parents or guardians.

Story Hour is on Wednesday at 10 a.m. Volunteers and staff prepare programs, make crafts if time allows, and just have fun.

Sherry Fields and Sandy Kelly brought their kindergarten class to the library for a tour to end out their year. They also watched the movie Barney Goes To The Library To Get A Library Card, which the class enjoyed. There were 22 students, and the group was praised for its good behavior and manners.

Our large print section is growing. We have several new ones on the shelves now ready for patrons. Another area that has grown over the last year is our audios. This has been rapidly developing and received so well.

Library hours are Monday, 4-8 p.m., and Tuesday-Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Patrons donating books, pamphlets, periodicals, games, etc., have been Tracey Keller, Lorrie MacArgle, Ruth Sines, Nina Sheets, Fran Storck, Liz Casteel, and Mary McLaughlin.

WALK-A-THON

The sixth annual James A. Gregg Memorial Walk-A-Thon was held the evening of Friday, May 17, as a dreary day turned into a beautiful evening. The walk began at Gregg's Pharmacy. Representatives of the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department were on hand to show their respect for a former fireman, past president of the company, Preston County King Fireman, and most imporiantly, a friend.

The walkers were lead by the Hilltoppers, Preston County basketball champions. Colten Kisner and J.R. Ford initially carried the banner and switched off to different team players and cheerleaders. Hilltoppers who walked were Nicole Loughry, Staci Myers, Sam Lewis, Craig Kelly, Katie Nice, Sheena McCoy, Chelsea Freeland, Rebecca Browning, Michelle Kelley, and Coach Bill Kelly. These players and cheerleaders were still full of energy after their winning season was over.

The event was a five-mile walk, although one walker, Readenna Hemilrick, walked several more than five miles. Her miles began before the walk-a-thon started. Readenna, the highest pledge raiser in two consecutive years, turned in over $1,000 from her supporters. Readenna has walked in all six events and is looking forward to next year. Debbie Sypolt Parsons was our second highest pledge raiser, and this was her first year to walk. Other walkers were Kristi Moats, Alecia Hart, Linda Kope, Dolly Everly, Tracey Keller, Penny DeWitt, Penny Kelly, Stacie Upole, Mary Jo Gregg, Shirley Smith, Betty Boyer, Sharon Haskiell, and Ima Thomas. Terra Alta Ambulance has planned to participate but was called out on an emergency run.

The concert coincides with the traditional Terra Alta Independence Day Celebration, which will take place from Tuesday through Saturday, June 25-29, and includes a carnival, a 7 p.m. parade on Thursday, June 27, and the annual TA Volunteer Fire Department fireworks program at 10 p.m. Friday, immediately after the Hubcaps Concert. A demolition derby is slated for 6 p.m. Saturday, June 29. Further information is available on-line at www.taedc.com.

Police officer Randy Wright followed the walkers and aided in crossing the streets.

All walkers were invited back to Gregg's Pharmacy for refreshments. The money raised from the pledges are deposited into the James A. Gregg Memorial Scholarship Fund. This money is used to help a senior, or seniors, who are pursuing their education in the medical field. This year Mary Jo Gregg presented Stacy Sypolt and Starla Ringer with the scholarships on May 29. This walk-a-thon has been sponsored by the Terra Alta Public Library for the past six years.

Mental Health Advocates Attend OC Conference

A group of 10 Garrett County residents concerned with mental health issues were on hand for the "On Our Own of Maryland" summer conference in Ocean City this week. On Our Own of Maryland is a statewide mental health consumer advocacy organization, and the theme of its 10th annual event was "Advocacy Now! Confronting Discrimination and Stigma."

The conference's workshops covered topics such as alternative therapies, advocacy and the legislative process, combating stigma, housing, recovery and trauma issues, affordable medications, spiritual assessment, employment, and confronting discrimination and stigma. The keynote speaker was Russell D. Pierce, who delivered an address titled "Witnessing a New Advocacy." Pierce is a mental health activist and attorney with extensive experience in federal and state mental health policy and planning.

The local contingent came away from the event with information and renewed awareness of mental health issues that affect residents across the county and state, according to a spokesperson. "Being able to afford medicines is a problem confronting seniors and the underinsured, as well as those with mental illnesses," said Dan Snyder, coordinator of Oakland's Harvey House, a recently opened, drop-in peer support center for consumers of mental health services.

"With proposed budget cuts, the problem may get even worse. Many people with mental illness depend on medication and many need assistance with the medication," Snyder stated. He added that the Harvey House is trying to help with some of these issues by sponsoring social activities and offering a Bible study program, and the staff is looking into plans for more employment training.

Persons working to overcome mental illnesses such as depression can benefit from expressing themselves through art and becoming involved in community activities, according to the Harvey House coordinator.

"Dan Georg, Dave Eddington, Jimmy Cogley, and Bill and Carolyn Detrick participated in the recent Bowl for Kids' Sake benefit for Big Brothers Big Sister at Par-Matt Lanes. Mental health consumers from Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties held their first tri-county picnic at Constitution Park in Cumberland last week. The group publishes its own newsletter, decides what activities to pursue, how to do them, and how to raise funds," explained Snyder.

"Helping people understand more about mental illness is important," Snyder continued. "The stigma attached to mental illness is one thing that keeps people from seeking help. People are worried about what others will think of them, [and fear that] being known as someone with an illness will hurt employment opportunities and the effect on being able to get insurance."

The Harvey House operates its free drop-in program from 1 to 5 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, at 120 S. Third St. The non-profit facility is a program of the Office of Consumer Advocates and is funded by the Mountain Top Mental Health Associates. For further information, persons may call 301-334-1314.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Last week I had to say goodbye to a school that was very dear to me. My Meredith graduated from the 5th grade at Accident Elementary School. She and her cousin, Emma Bass, will go on to Northern Middle School next fall.

Of course, it was different 35 years ago when I was a student at Accident Elementary because you stayed at the elementary school until completing the 6th grade and then went straight to high school. But in many ways Accident School still seems the same as when I was a student.

It is always filled with love. Even the lunch ladies and the custodial staff had warm and personal relationships with all the children, but no one more than the many wonderful teachers who delivered primary education for our children of this area.

Of course, about half of the kids from Bittinger go to the Grantsville School. It is unclear to me where the dividing line is. A nice award ceremony was held in the gym at Northern High School since Accident School never has enough room for the host parents who attend the big school-wide events like awards programs, concerts, etc. The President's Award for Academic Achievement and Character honorees included Meredith and Emma.

The highlight of the program was a slide show featuring all the 5th grade students' baby pictures with up-to-date photographs. It was a big hit, as all the kids giggled at the baby pictures and everyone guessed who would reveal their identities. Some were easy and some impossible to guess.

Then Friday evening Accident Elementary cafeteria was a setting for a 5th grade graduation dinner for all the students and their parents. Even at least one grandparent, Emma and Mere's Gram Ruth, was present. One parent at my table was a former student of mine, Carol Kitner, plus Meredith's teacher, Angela Bittinger Rush, and Accident's new principal, Sheila Bender Miller, who were also my students. But everyone had plenty of things to talk about to everyone because the staff and parents were like one big family. Bittinger contributed a pair of excellent teachers, Cindy Stanton and Cyndi Kolbe. No matter who your student gets as teacher, you can't lose. I can't begin to name all the loving and skillful teachers who guided Claire, Caitlin, and Mere, and who always inquired about how Mere's big sisters were doing.

We did not have a graduation ceremony from Accident Elementary School, but nowadays they even have a graduation ceremony with caps and gowns for the Head Start kids. The only graduation that I marched in with a cap and gown was at high school. My class at the University of Maryland had probably thousands of students graduating, and I did not participate. I now remember after I wrote that last statement that it was incorrect, as I did march in for my master's degree from Frostburg State University in 1990. In fact, I was the first student to go up to get my diploma. Most of the time we think of graduation as from high school. A handful of kids from Bittinger reached that milestone this year, including Karla Buckel, daughter of my classmate from the class of 1971 of NHS, who is Bill Buckel: Micah Flevyak, son of Vicki Teets; and Grez Whittemore, son of David and Lesa Whittemore.

I heard that Micah was leaving for a trip to Spain this week. I was not ready for foreign travel until after I finished college. I hope he has better funding than I had. Although I did not quite make the Europe trip on $10 a day, I did make it on $15 per day, which included air fare. But that involved a lot of hitchhiking and sleeping outside or staying with people we barely knew or did not know at all, but just families of people we met in the early part of our trip. Micah was also salutatorian for his graduating class. Karla was also honored with the Dr. Scott Glotfelty Humanitari- an Award and several other

Sunday afternoon I attended a big graduation party in honor of graduates Gregory Whittemore and Michael Bergstrom at the Whittemore house. Since it was such a lovely day, most of the guests hung out on the back lawn and porch, which has a beautiful view of Meadow Mountain. The high school age kids had a rousing volleyball game on their brand new volleyball court. Maddy and her friends mostly hung out a lot of the time in the basement. Of course, the adults just chatted and pigged out on the food. Greg's father David did a great job grilling burgers, as did Lesa's brother Mark from Las Vegas. David's dad enjoyed a visit with his old military service buddy, Bud Amos Friend, and his wife Bernadine of Friendsville. They have kept in touch over the years since World War II, including several reunions of their battalion. Lesa's father, Bob King, also attended his 50 year class reunion of Oakland High School. His class was honored at this year's Southern High graduation.

I forgot that Guy Beitzel was also in the same class as Greg, so it was his party too. I enjoyed a chat with his mother Addy and his stepfather, Billy Savage, who had a very sweet story about his recent sighting of a mother bear with four cubs with her in the Thousand Acres area near the lake. When one cub annoyed the mother, she held him down and then all the cubs climbed on her lap and nursed. She also gave a special loving cuddle to the one that she just disciplined.

Some of Lesa and David's families from Las Vegas were also at the party, as well as Dave Taylor and family from Oakland and some aunts from Garrett County. I can't begin to name all those in attendance, but it was quite a crew of family, friends, and graduates.

Bittinger was well represented in receiving awards at Northern High School's 20th annual Student Council Honors Awards Banquet last Tuesday evening. The terrific rainstorm that hit the area made it quite difficult to get into the school without being drowned. Outstanding students of the year were Landon Southerly, 11th grade, Karla Buckel, 12th grade, Robbie Glotfelty, 10th grade, and Scott Pusateri, 9th grade. Holly Hare provided entertainment, singing an opera number. Others from Bittinger receiving Student of the Month Awards were Blakely Glotfelty, Matthew Bass, and Torrey Poholsky. Brett Housley received a student council recognition award. Adults attending from Bittinger were the Southerly, Poholsky, Bass, Glotfelty, Hare, Housley, Maxim, and Buckel families, and Dale Glotfelty and Ruth DiPaolo. Additional students receiving distinguished honor roll honors were Derek Buckel and Nick Maxim, in addition to those receiving the outstanding students of the months and the year awards.

Sam and Aaron Stanton and Bubba Goodwin of Swanton attended the NASCAR races in Dover, Del., on Sunday. They saw the first ever rookie driver win that event.

Sally, Lenny, and Torrey Poholsky attended the Kemper Open Gold Tournament in Potomac, with Mike and Susan Schfrees. Susan is the daughter of Sally's big sister Phyl, and she was in charge of the attire of the volunteers for the tournament, so they got VIP treatment and Torrey was able to collect quite a few autographs.

Linda and Pete Buckel will accompany Pastor Pat and Keith this weekend to attend the 15th Assembly of the WV-WM Synod gathering in Flatwoods, W.Va.

Ralph and Ethel Buckel once again recently became great-grandparents as their grandson Kenneth and wife Leslie Buckel, Robinsville, N.C., had a new baby son, Sage Montgomery. Kenneth was called out to help battle the serious wildfires in New Mexico. I am sure he hated to leave just after Sage was born, but imagine his wife was even sorrier to see him leave.

Another Bittinger couple also greeted a new great-grandson, Derrick Edward Mellin, in Upper Marlboro. Great-grandparents are Bob and Maxine Legeer.

This coming Sunday will be the last Sunday school for the children for the summer. Adult classes will continue. This will just be in time for vacation Bible school to start at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, to be held Monday, June 10, through Thursday, June 13. All children ages 3-13 are invited to attend. Needed are older youth to help with games and dramatization parts, plus Bible storytelling.

A father-son banquet will be prepared by Emmanuel's Women of the ELCA and served to fathers and sons at 6:30 p.m. at the fire hall on Friday, June 14, at 6:30 p.m.

Glade Mennonite Church will hold its Bible school June 10-14, 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. Children 3 years old through the 8th grade are welcome to attend.

Dale Glotfelty and Ruth DiPaolo attended a cancer survivor picnic at Morgantown Country Club on Sunday afternoon. The picnic was sponsored by the Cancer Center at Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Let's Get Down To Business!

Bear Elegance Hair, Nail & Styling Salon

"Thrilled to open a business" in her hometown, Kathleen Seaman's new business, Bear Elegance, Hair, Nail and Styling Salon opened for business at the Fort, McHenry, below the Black Bear Tavern recently.

Seaman was born and raised in McHenry, and has been operating as a cosmetologist for three years. She has received specialized training in several areas, and graduated at the top of her cosmetology class.

Seaman, along with employees Kelli Doerr and Lee Ann Cervi-Diehl, will offer hair styling, nail design, tanning, facials, pedicures, and color analysis, among other services.

The salon will be open Monday through Saturday, and will have 24-hour tanning. According to Seaman, they specialize in color and make-up analysis and "one of a kind" pedicures.

The salon will also be offering "Pampered Princess Birthday Parties" for girls 14-years-old and under. This package allows the girls to get mini-manicures and their hair done, while having a party at the salon.

Other special offers include Garrett County Residents' Day on Mondays. Residents receive 20% off services. Wednesday is Senior Discount Day, providing a 20% discount to eligible patrons.

"We will always be having some type of promotion," Seaman said. "Come in or call and ask about our Wedding Party Specials."

Seaman adds that patrons may come in for a consultation or advice. "Our salon has a professional appeal with a friendly atmosphere. We're here to help make anyone feel terrific about themselves."

She said she expects the salon to expand in the near future. "I have many more ideas for the salon. It will be a highly recognizable salon in the McHenry/Deep Creek Lake area with more stylists, more services, and more pampering for the client," Seaman said.

For questions or to schedule an appointment, persons may call 301-387-3377.

"SonCanyon" To Be Theme Of '02 Ecumenical VBS

The planning committee for the annual Ecumenical Vacation Bible School (VBS) in Oakland has selected Gospel Light's "SonCanyon" series for this year's theme. The VBS will be held July 29 through August 2 from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. It is designed for children who will be 4 by July 29 to those entering the ninth grade.

"We are really gearing up for VBS," said Kathy Shaffer, director. "And I mean that literally, because SonCanyon takes us on an imaginary white water rafting adventure."

Shaffer, a long-time director for the Oakland VBS who is back at the helm after taking a few years off, said the program will include a skit each day, singing, crafts, games, and Bible stories. The SonCanyon Bible theme is "Survival Skills for Life from Proverbs."

Some of the adventure-related activities for the week will be orienteering, knot-tying, trail marking, and first aid. The campers will also learn about building shelters. The classes of campers will have age-appropriate activities in each of these areas.

"The teaching objective is to help children learn to rely on God and his word in making wise life choices," Shaffer said.

The VBS will take place in the parishes of the St. Paul's United Methodist Church and the St. Peter's Catholic Church. The openings and closings will be at St. Paul's, as will classes for younger children. St. Peter's will be the site for the older children's classes, as well as the snack kitchen.

Registration forms for the VBS are available at both St. Peter's and St. Paul's churches, as well as at St. Mark's Lutheran Church. They are also available at Shaffer Ford Sales in Oakland. All area children are invited to attend. Students should register before July 8 so that enough books and crafts can be ordered.

SUNGUARD MAN HELPS KIDS LEARN NOT TO BURN — SunGuard Man visited St. Mark's Early Learning Center recently as part of his May tour of Garrett County day care centers, elementary schools, and senior citizen sites. SunGuard Man is promoting the important health message that skin cancer can be prevented with the help of sun safety awareness and the proper use of sunscreen. Children who suffer repeated sunburns are at greatly increased odds of developing melanoma, which can be fatal, as adults. Pictured in the front row, from the left, are Annika Naylor, Lixi Thomas, Clark Morin, Karly Winegardener, Claire Beachy, Anna Callis, Bryce Friend, Troy Deckman, Bethany DeWitt, Seth DeWitt, and Kayla Satterfield. In the back row are the Health Department's Sandy Sutton and SunGuard Man.

Massage Therapy Curriculum Open House Set At GCC

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College is scheduling a "Massage Therapy Curriculum Open House" for all persons interested in learning about the Massage Therapy Training Program and about massage therapy courses open to the general public. The event is scheduled for Wednesday evening, June 12, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Continuing Education Building on the campus in McHenry.

Instructors and administrative staff will be available to present information on curriculum and to answer questions on all aspects of the program. Massage therapy is one of the fastest-growing professions in the United States.

The GCC training program began in Sept. 1995 and has graduated 55 persons to date, while an additional nine students in the current core group are scheduled to graduate this coming December. Students have attended from Garrett County; Morgantown, Keyser, Kingwood, and Bruceton Mills, W.Va.; Meyersdale and Confluence, Pa.; and from Cumberland, Frostburg, and LaVale.

Upon graduation, students are eligible to take the National Certification Test for Bodywork and Massage Therapy. This credential is required for registration in the state of Maryland and is suggested for massage therapists practicing in West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The Massage Therapy Training Program also offers courses open to persons who are simply interested in learning techniques to use with family or friends. Classes that qualify as Continuing Education for practicing massage therapists are offered as well.

Farm Bill Being Implemented By Ag. Dept. Team

The new Farm Bill recently signed into law by President Bush will require new procedures and policies be developed, according to Michael R. Kozier, executive director for the Garrett County Farm Service Agency (FSA). The farm bill contains new programs that are widespread and impact many sectors, including farm services, natural resources, conservation, rural development, nutrition, food safety, research, pests and diseases, as well as international trade. The measure establishes new authorities and additional rules, regulations, and procedures.

"FSA is committed to a timely and efficient implementation of the new programs and procedures," Kozier said. "Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman recently assured employees of the department's commitment to helping us move forward as quickly as possible. The secretary told us of the formation of a Farm Bill Working Group, consisting of USDA's chief economist, budget director, and sub-cabinet officials, that will ensure appropriate planning, coordination, and implementation. We anticipate a great deal of activity in the next few months as we execute these new programs and procedures.

"As the USDA secretary told us, the president signed the farm bill almost immediately upon receiving it from the Congress so USDA could begin with the important task of implementation," Kozier said. "Now the hard work begins; our goal is to cut red tape and get the job done."

The USDA secretary outlined several measures already under way, including: the creation of a farm bill web site www.usda.gov/-farmbill; implementing eGovernment, which will soon allow producers to complete and submit some forms on-line; developing and sending to county offices new software to aid in updating producer information; meeting with representatives of farm and commodity organizations; and developing informational materials about new programs.

"While the farm bill provides certainty and a strong safety net for farmers over the next six years, it contains new programs that are widespread and impact many sectors, not just farm services," Kozier explained. "It provides record-level support for conservation programs to preserve wetlands and improve soil and water quality on working farms. It helps expand trade for U.S. food and agriculture products overseas. It contains an energy title to help examine new uses for agriculture as an energy source, and it invests more in research, value-added programs, animal and plant disease protections, food safety, and rural development.

"As the president said, it may not be a perfect bill, but the new measure provides certainty, a strong safety net for farmers, and complies with our international trade obligations," said Kozier. "It also provides investments in important areas such as conservation, trade, nutrition, research, rural development, and energy."

Another issue the secretary noted was that USDA has been administering the last year of the 1996 Farm Bill while the new farm bill was being developed, which has provided nearly $4 billion in direct payments to producers this year. The new law provides some additional direct payments for 2002, and these will be made in the fall using updated acreage bases. The new law also provides for a first installment of 2003 direct payments in December 2002. The first advance counter-cyclical payments for 2002 will be made at the end of each marketing year for each commodity, once the final season average price is known.

- The marketing loan program continues to operate largely as before, but with readjusted loan rates for most crops. The new loan rates are applicable immediately to the 2002 harvested crops, beginning with wheat soon to be harvested.

Additional information will be made available on the USDA web site at www.usda.gov as it is developed. The site also has links to other USDA agencies involved with farm bill implementation. For local information on programs and procedures, persons may contact the Garrett County FSA at 301-334-6954.

Funds Available To Help With Nutrient Plans

Farmers who want to hire a private, certified nutrient management consultant to prepare a nutrient management plan for their farm may now apply for additional funding assistance available through the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality (MACS) Cost-Share Program.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister announced last week that of the $1.5 million in new cost-share funds approved this year by the Maryland General Assembly, nearly $700,000 will be used to address a backlog of funding requests submitted to MACS for the current fiscal year, which ends Sunday, June 30.

"Several hundred farmers who signed up this year are waiting to receive cost-share funding," said Mister. "Thanks to the support of Governor Glendening and the Maryland General Assembly, the MACS program has been able to process these applications, and farmers who have not already done so may now apply for cost-share assistance until the funding runs out."

According to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, in each of the past two years, $216,000 in cost-share funds was budgeted for nutrient management services. As of Dec. 31, 2001, nutrient management plan information had been submitted for approximately 1.1 million acres of crop land, or 65 percent, out of the 1.7 million acres covered by the law. Of this amount, completed plans accounted for 338,400 acres. Farmers submitted information on an additional 757,500 acres through "Justification for Plan Submission Delay" forms.

Applications for cost-share funds must be submitted through the local soil conservation district and approved prior to plan completion. Applications will be approved on a "first-come" basis. To meet eligibility criteria, nutrient management plans must include all eligible farm acreage and be prepared by a non-government consultant who is certified and licensed by MDA.

Nutrient management plans that were developed to meet bio-solids application permit requirements are not eligible for cost-share assistance. Farmers who received cost-share for their initial nutrient management plan are not eligible for costs related to its update.

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 requires all agricultural operations grossing $2,500 or more annually or raising 8,000 pounds or more of live animal weight to have nutrient management plans. Farmers are required to implement these plans by Dec. 31, 2002.

For more information, persons may call the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share Program at 410-841-5864 or their local soil conservation districts.

Dry Weather Holds Sway Across Much Of Maryland

The dry conditions continue in Maryland with most areas receiving little or no precipitation last week. Temperatures were about 5 to 10 degrees above normal throughout the week. The combination of warm, dry, windy weather has decreased topsoil and subsoil moisture. Topsoil rated in adequate supply is 13 percent less than the previous week, and 21 percent less than two weeks ago. Subsoil moisture rated in adequate supply declined 9 percent from the previous week, and 16 percent from two weeks ago.

Due to the dry weather, farmers had an average of 6.4 days suitable for field-work which they used to advance planting activities. Soybean planting is 44 percent complete, 1 percent ahead of last year, and 7 percent ahead of the five-year average. Corn planting is nearly complete at 95 percent, 3 percent ahead of last year, and 2 percent ahead of the average. Moisture is needed to assure good establishment in late planted row crops.

Small grains remain in good to excellent condition with the barley crop rated 14 percent excellent, 71 percent good, 14 percent fair, and 1 percent poor. Most of the barley is mature and a small amount has been harvested. Winter wheat is rated 15 percent in excellent condition, 68 percent good, 15 percent fair, and 2 percent poor.

Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
300 Tunnelton St., Kingwood, WV 26537

FARM STORAGE FACILITY LOANS AVAILABLE

The Preston County Farm Service Agency is offering seven-year, low-cost loans to producers of corn, grain sorghum, oats, wheat, and barley for structures to store and handle dry grain as well as structures to store these commodities when they are harvested as other than whole grain. Flat storage structures to store commodities as dry hay are not eligible for loan.

Interest rates are subject to change monthly; however, the interest rate in effect at the time of loan approval is the rate in effect for the term of the loan.

The maximum loan amount shall not exceed 85 percent of the net cost of the applicant's needed storage or handling equipment, not to exceed $100,000 per loan even for independent borrowers obtaining loans on joint structures. Crop insurance is required for all insurable crops produced on the farm that are considered to be of economic significance. Such crops include any insurable crop that contributes 10 percent or more of the total value of all crops grown by the loan applicant.

Eligible storage and handling equipment includes new structures that are upright, bunker-type, horizontal or open silo structures designed for whole grain storage, or other than whole grain storage structures having a useful life of 10 years. Also eligible for loan are remanufactured oxygen-limiting storage structures built to the original manufacturer's design specifications using original manufacturer's "rebuild kits" designed for whole grain storage or other than whole grain storage, also having a useful life of at least 10 years.

Also eligible under the Farm Storage Facility Loan Program are loans for renovating existing storage without an increase in storage capacity and the purchase of safety equipment as required by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) and meeting Occupational and Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) requirements such a lighting, and inside and outside ladders.

PROVISIONS FOR LOAN DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS

Several special provisions for Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs) on 2001 crops are included in the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (the 2002 Farm Bill). The special provisions extend 2001 crop year LDP eligibility to producers who produced eligible contract commodities (corn, oats, wheat, and barley) on Non Production Flexibility Contract (PFC) farms or lost beneficial interest in an eligible commodity produced on a non PFC farm or a PFC enrolled farm.

For the 2001 crop year only, LDPs are authorized for eligible producers who lost beneficial interest before submitting an LDP application, if all of the following apply (1) The producer did not previously receive a commodity loan or an LDP on the applicable commodity; (2) the applicable commodity harvested would have otherwise been eligible for a commodity loan or LDP; and (3) the producer has not exceeded the 2001 crop year payment limitation. The special provisions also apply for producers who retained beneficial interest in the contract commodity, and producers who produced and harvested eligible contract commodities on non-PFC farms.(0)

Producers who produced and harvested a contract commodity on a PFC enrolled farm that lost beneficial interest in the commodity are also eligible for a 2001 LDP. These producers must submit an LDP request on or before 30 calendar days after the publication of the regulations in the Federal Register. Producers must also provide acceptable production evidence, such as sales receipts, load summary sheets, etc., that indicate when beneficial interest was lost. If a producer retains beneficial interest in the 2001 commodity produced on a PFC enrolled farm the LDP rate will be based on the date of the request.

Producers who produced contract commodities on non-PFC farms are eligible for 2001 LDPs provided the following conditions are met: (1) No one has previously received a marketing loan gain or LDP for the commodity, the producer seeking payment was actual producer of the commodity, and the producer had beneficial interest in the commodity at the time of marketing. (2) The producer will receive the payment as LDP, in which case the amount to be paid will be determined as the date the producer marketed or lost beneficial interest in the commodity. (3) The commodity was harvested and marketed by the producer on or before 30 calendar days after the regulation is published in the Federal Register. (4) The producer is eligible for 2001 nonrecourse marketing assistance loans, including late-filing the Forms AD-1026 (Highly Erodible and Wetlands Compliance Certification), CCC-502 (Person Determination/Payment Limitation), and FSA-578 (Crop Acreage Report). If the producer retains beneficial interest in the 2001 commodity produced on the non-PFC farm, the LDP rate will be based on the date of the request.

The LDP rates will be established as follows. (1) Eligible producers who have lost beneficial interest will use the LDP rate in effect on the date the producer lost beneficial interest. (2) Eligible producers who fed their commodities will use the LDP rate in effect on the date the commodity was fed. (3) Eligible producers who used LDP quantities for seed will use the LDP rate in effect on the date the commodity was seeded. (4) For eligible producers who produced and harvested commodities on non-PFC or PFC enrolled farms and retained beneficial interest, the LDP rate will be based on the date of the request. (5) For 2001 LDP requests received after May 31, 2002, the applicable 2001 crop year loan rates will be used to calculate LDP rates.

Management For Spring-Born Lambs

Three important factors that must be considered for the summer production of spring-born lambs are internal parasite control, summer lamb performance, and the time of year lambs are marketed. Lambs born in the spring need to be treated for internal parasites every three to four weeks starting in May and continuing through October. Lambs should be approximately six weeks of age at the time of their first treatment. Failure to treat lambs on a routine basis for internal parasites results in poor lamb performance and an increased incidence of lamb death loss. Treatment dates should be marked on the calendar to reduce the risk of losing sheep from a failure to treat on time. To prevent underdosing, a representative sample of the animals being treated needs to be weighed. For improved late-summer performance, lambs should be sheared by early July. Research shows an average daily gain was .05 lb greater for shorn versus wooled lambs over a 90-day grazing period during the summer and early fall. In the late summer and fall, lamb gains on pasture can be improved by .15 lb per day by supplementing 1 lb barley or shelled corn per head daily. The lowest prices paid for slaughter lambs during the year occur in September and October. Rather than sell spring-born lambs in early fall, lambs should be retained and marketed at heavier weights in November and December. Leaving lambs on fall pasture, grazing aftermath hay fields, or supplementing grain on pasture during the fall are all strategies that can be used to delay the time of marketing.

Bees Are Beneficial

Of the many tiny animals that share the planet with us, there are only a few insects that people generally accept as beneficial — most are regarded as disgusting or frightful. Insects often garner a bad reputation because of their unfamiliar appearance and habits.

Honey bees are, perhaps, the insects with the best public image. We see them as industrious ("busy as a bee") and we appreciate their main product, honey, as setting the standard for all that is ecstatically wonderful and sweet. Honey is only possible because thousands of bees harvest the nectar from flowers converting the sugary liquid to delicious honey.

While honey is nice, the honey bee's real importance lies in its performance as a pollinator. The value of just the almonds produced in California each year with the help of the honey bees is more than twice the value of all the honey produced in the United States in any given year. In our area all the fruits and vegetables benefit from bee pollination. Bees pollinate more than 100 agricultural crops in the U.S. About a third of the food Americans eat comes directly from the pollination honey bees perform. So the next time you see a honey bee stop and think how important it is in producing our food.

Triazine-Resistant Pigweeds and Lambsquarters in Field Corn

Fields with triazine-resistant pigweed and lambsquarters will soon be showing up in a number of fields. A few options to consider are Banvel/Clarity/Distinct, 2,4-D, and NorthStar, but all of these can be volatile and should not be used in the vicinity of sensitive crops. Callisto and Harmony GT are two products that are quite effective on both of these species, but should not be used if Counter insecticide was used at planting.

New Treatment for Smallpox Evaluated

Smallpox is a potentially deadly infection caused by the "variola" virus. The virus may be spread through tiny droplets that are sneezed or coughed by infected individuals. About 2 weeks after virus exposure, a high fever and headache develop. Painful, red spots usually first appear on the arms, legs, and head, and then spread to the chest.

Injection with smallpox vaccine within a few days of exposure to the virus is thought to significantly limit the severity of the infection. However, the vaccine can be dangerous for women who are pregnant or for individuals who are immunocompromised. Cidofovir, a medicine prescribed for viral infections of the eye, is effective against smallpox, but it must be given intravenously and at doses which could cause kidney damage.

CRELLIN STUDENTS VISIT GCMH — Area first grade students are given an opportunity to get a "behind-the-scenes" look at various departments at Garrett County Memorial Hospital through the Children's Hospital Orientation Program (CHOPS). The program, developed by the hospital, is designed to familiarize children with the hospital and to ease their fears about receiving medical treatment. Students visit the emergency room, radiology department, and family-centered maternity suite — the students' favorite stop on the tour. They also view a PowerPoint presentation on the surgical department. During the tour, they see how a cardiac monitor works, how blood pressures are taken, and what their bones look like on X-ray film. They also receive a "goodie bag" with items that help them share their experience with others at home. "CHOPS is not only exciting for the children, but it also provides them with an excellent educational experience," said Pam Humberson, development secretary, who is also head of the program and leads the students on their tours. She is pictured above, far left, with first graders from Crellin Elementary School and their substitute teacher, Amy Flannigan, during a recent visit to the hospital. Twenty first grade classes participated in the program this school year, according to Humberson. For more information about CHOPS, persons may call Humberson at 301-533-4180.

Friendsville Men Arrested After One Flees Crash

A Friendsville father and son were both arrested at their home late Saturday night by Maryland State Police troopers investigating a hit-and-run accident that occurred less than an hour earlier near the family's White Rock Road residence. The younger man, Corey Sisler, 20, faces charges in connection with the mishap, while his father Eddie Glen Sisler, 44, is charged with attempting to interfere with the arrest.

Police reported that the accident occurred at approximately 10:55 p.m. along Trap Run Road north of White Rock Road when Corey Sisler's 2000 GMC pickup, which was traveling northbound, allegedly crossed the center line and struck an oncoming 1989 Mercury Topaz sedan operated by Kathy L. Clark, 36, Friendsville. Clark's car went off the road and slammed into an embankment, while Sisler's truck went into a ditch and eventually came to rest when it struck a large tree.

Sisler allegedly fled the scene on foot. Clark, who sustained minor injuries, was transported by a family member to the hospital, where she was treated and released. Clark's passenger, Bobbi Jean Shandorf, 34, Fredricksburg, Va., escaped injury.

Approximately 45 minutes later, two state troopers arrived at the Sisler residence to attempt to question Corey Sisler and check on his health and welfare after the accident, as the damage to his truck indicated that the driver may have sustained head injuries.

As troopers arrived at the home they reportedly observed, through a living room window, Sisler running to the back of the house. After gaining consent to enter the home from a third family member, troopers were told by Eddie Sisler that his son was not at home. The older Sisler then allegedly contradicted himself when he was asked where his son was, by stating "He's in the back."

When asked if he would get Corey Sisler so the check on his welfare and the accident investigation could continue, Eddie Sisler became verbally combative by yelling obscenities at the troopers. He was warned twice that his actions could lead to his arrest for hindering the probe. When he continued to be uncoopera-

Allegheny Power Union Workers Ratify Contract

Allegheny Energy Inc. and the Utility Workers Union of America (UWUA) System Local 102 have announced that the union's 1,165 members have ratified a new five-year labor contract.

"We are pleased that this issue is now resolved and that the UWUA System Local 102 members have ratified what we believe is a fair contract for our employees and our company," said Robert Summers, Allegheny Energy's chief negotiator. "We value our employees and recognize the important role they play in ensuring that we provide low-cost, reliable energy with industry-leading service to our customers."

"I am pleased that our members voted in favor of the new contract," said William J. Sterner, president, UWUA System Local 102. "This agreement accomplishes many of the goals set by our membership and contains good provisions that will help both parties resolve our issues."

Negotiators for Allegheny Energy and UWUA System Local 102 had reached a tentative agreement on a new contract in late April. UWUA System Local 102 members participated in membership ratification meetings during May and early June.

Oakland Moves Forward With Annexation

The annexation of the area along Memorial Drive will continue to progress, according to a vote by the Oakland Town Council.

Mayor Asa McCain commented that this process is never easy, and the town would only take in those who desired to be annexed.

The annexed area includes approximately 175 acres down Memorial Drive to Harvey Winters Drive near the schools. The annexation will not cover all the properties, and it excludes those on Windy Lane, but includes the new health department.

According to Mayor McCain, the town will get water to the annexed area as soon as possible, but said he did not feel comfortable placing a time line on it.

The process requires bidding for an engineer, preliminary plans, acceptance by the state, purchase of rights of way, and other details that could delay the progress.

Council member Ken Gotsch motioned that the town send another letter of intent to residents shortening the time frame, but the motion did not receive a second.

Council member Chris Todd said he thinks the zoning protection offered by becoming part of the town

Local Dispatchers, SGCRS Member Honored At EMS Awards Reception

Mike Saunders and Glenda Baker, both dispatchers for Garrett County Emergency Management, received Emergency Medical Dispatcher of the Year awards for their work in communicating instructions to a 9-1-1 caller that resulted in the successful resuscitation of his 2-year-old son. At the same ceremony, Rayma Weeks, with Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, received the Quality in EMS award. They were among 30 people and organnizations honored recently at the "Maryland Stars of Life" Awards Reception at the Legislative Services Building in Annapolis. The awards were presented by the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS), the state agency responsible for the delivery of emergency medical services in Maryland.

This past February, Saunders received a 9-1-1 call from a distraught father, Urie Kanagy, that his 2-year-old son Jadon, who had a fever, was having problems breathing. Baker dispatched the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Bittinger Fire Department, which arrived within five minutes. Before they arrived, however, Jadon stopped breathing. Saunders, following the training protocols, gave instructions for mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to Mr. Kanagy over the phone, who repeated them to his 15-year-old son, who followed them exactly. Finally, Jadon started breathing on his own. When his breaths got shallow again, Saunders continued instructions until the Bittinger Fire Department arrived to take over. By that time Jadon was responsive and breathing on his own. "Mr. Saunders and Ms. Baker played a large role in saving young Jadon's life," stated an EMS spokesperson.

The Quality in EMS award was presented to Rayma Weeks for her "quality management leadership and commitment to improving EMS services in Garrett and Allegany counties." A 25-year member of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, she has also served on the Region I EMS Advisory Council and was president of that organization in the mid-1990s. She is currently chairman of the Region I Quality Assurance and Quality Improvement Committee.

According to the spokesperson, Weeks has been instrumental in the development of the region's quality assurance plan and oversees the different groups that are addressing the quality indicators. These include EMS response times data accuracy, IV and endotracheal intubation success rates, and the appropriate transport of patients to trauma centers. She has taken a major role in helping Garrett and Allegany counties to coordinate in defining and achieving their quality assurance and quality improvement goals.

CTBS Results Show Positive Overall Trend

The Garrett County Board of Education reviewed the CTBS/5 test scores at the recent board meeting and found the results to be a "very nice trend."

These tests are given to students in second, fourth, sixth, and eleventh grades. The number of students included in these reports was 1,312, approximately 340 at each grade level. Additionally, 70 special education students received non-standard administrations of the test and were reported separately.

Results in every grade for every test, except sixth grade spelling, were above the expected average, according to Dr. Pat Mullinix, coordinator of research, evaluation, and information. She added that many of the students whose achievement is in the lowest 25% locally are functioning at an average level when compared to the achievement of students nationally.

"We have seen overall improvement," Dr. Mullinix said.

Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, added that this is a "very nice trend." "The students are consistently performing well," she said.

Madeleine Collins, board member, agreed that the results were very encouraging. "We thank the teachers and administrators for all their hard work," she said.

At the second grade level, all scores, except math computation, were stable or slightly higher compared to 2001. Dr. Mullinix explained that reading showed the greatest increase over the 2001 scores.

Most scores showed no significant difference from

Enrollment Requirements Set To Change

The enrollment requirements for children entering the public school system for the 2002-03 school year will change to be consistent with the new state law, Dr. Don Forrester, director of elementary education, told the Garrett County Board of Education members at a recent meeting.

The cut-off birthdate will change for kindergarten from Dec. 31 to Sept. 1 gradually over the next five years. Each school year the date will move back one month until it reaches the Sept. 1 deadline in the 2006-2007 school year, he said.

"This will make a more positive effect than a negative effect over the years," Dr. Forrester said. "This way we are more consistent with other states."

Children who reach the age of five in conformance with the following guidelines are required to attend kindergarten before enter-

CAN YOU GUESS WHO THIS TALL MAN IS? If there's any doubt, just read the name on Morgan Brosnihan's jersey. ## Commissioners Allocate POS Funds; Soccer Group To Receive $37,768

The Garrett County commissioners allocated nearly $97,000 in Program Open Space (POS) funding this week to six county projects. Five of those projects will receive about $60,000, while the remainder will go to the Casselman Valley Soccer Association to construct regulation-size soccer fields along Fosters Inn Road in Grantsville.

"It's not an easy decision to make when there's not much money to give out," said John Nelson, Garrett County Planning and Zoning director, about which projects should receive preference.

The program is funded by the state and is allotted to counties each year, with the monies appropriated by their fiscal authorities. The funds are to be used to renovate existing open space facilities or to buy property for open space use.

The county's allotment for fiscal year 2002 was $238,867. For FY 2003, however, the county will receive only $97,086 because of state cutbacks. About $400 in unused funds from the county's 2002 allotment will be added, bringing the total amount available for 2003 to $97,484.64.

Twelve applicants vied for the limited funding, asking for $531,353 for their projects, including Grantsville's request for $158,684 to refurbish, fence, and light tennis courts at the town park. Accident also requested $2,200 to acquisition land for a memorial park along Rt. 219.

Funding for five projects in 2002 had to be withdrawn or trimmed earlier this year because new legislation allowing the monies to be used for both acquisition and development is not effective until FY 2003. The commissioners agreed that those projects should receive precedence.

"We promised applicants whose funds were removed that they would have their funds reinstated," said Commissioner Wendell Beitzel.

The town of Friendsville was re-allocated $21,150 for bleachers in the town park. The following were also refunded: McHenry Recreational Trail, $13,204.75 for striping and signing; Finzel Park, $10,362 for fencing; Deer Park playground, $10,000 for equipment; and McHenry Lions Club ballfield, $5,000 for improvements.

After restoring those funds, the general consensus of the commissioners was that the remaining $37,768 would be more effectively spent on one new initiative to get it off the ground, rather than divided between several projects.

"There's just not enough money to help [all of the] people," said Commissioner Fred Holliday.

About 450 youths between 4 and 19 years of age currently participate in the Casselman Valley Association's league, according to a spokesperson for the group. The association conducts its matches in the spring, rather than the fall.

Though a majority of the youths live in the Grantsville area, residents from Frostburg, Accident, Bittinger, Friendsville, Oakland, and Salisbury, Pa., also participate, according to the spokesperson. She added that the youths play recreational soccer, rather than competitive soccer, which means that all the players get to participate in matches.

The county owns the site where the fields will be

SURVIVORS STEP OUT — Those who have valiantly battled cancer were given the honor once again to launch the American Cancer Society Relay for Life, held last weekend at the Southern High School track. The survivors led the first lap of many, as the relay extended into the night, with hundreds of walkers pacing for a cure. Over $150,000 was raised in this year's event, which involved over 60 teams. The two received Emergency Medical Dispatcher of the Year awards for their outstanding work. Saunders was also recognized by the Maryland Emergency Number Syatsma Board. Another local person honored was Rayma Weeks, a member of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, for her leadership in emergency medical services (see photo elsewhere in this section). Pictured from left above are: Charles Mattingly III, president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association; Chief Charles Patullo, Montgomery County Fire & Rescue ECC; Stephen Suddath, a firefighter from Montgomery County who received the same award for saving the life of a child; Saunders and Baker; Chief John Frazier, EMS Board and Baltimore City FD; and Robert R. ## Outreach Center Officially Opens In Grantsville

Formal ribbon-cutting ceremonies for the Grantsville Outreach Center were held last week. Three Garrett County agencies are operating a full schedule of programs and services at the Hershberger Lane site. The facility is the northern home for the Garrett County Department of Social Services, the Garrett County Health Department, and Garrett Community College.

The Center was developed and is owned by the Garrett County Community Action Committee. "The center provides residents in the northern Garrett County community much better access to the services and opportunities being provided by these organizations," said Grantsville mayor Gerald Beachy.

"This is an important asset to our community and is something that the town council and I have strongly supported. I want to commend the agencies for the way they worked together to help make this project go forward and to the private sector businesses who provided the funds to build the center."

The building is a two-level facility. The Department of Social Services occupies the second floor and the college and the Health Department are located on the first level. Social Services director Henry Brown said the center offers his agency the opportunity to provide a substantial number of the department's customers better access to essential and needed services.

"A trip and appointment to Oakland can take the better portion of a day for someone in this part of the county," Brown said. "Having a permanent location is going to increase our capacity to serve these customers."

Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County Health Officer, noted that his agency previously provided services in the Grantsville area. "Being in this facility, however, enables us to share space and coordinate services with other county agencies," said Glotfelty. "The Health Department and county commissioners are committed to serving every part of Garrett County and this center helps us maintain that commitment."

The college also uses the site for evening and day classes. "The computer lab that is a part of the college's space offers us an excellent opportunity to extend one of our most popular products to one of the fastest-growing areas of the county," said Lowell Bender, continuing education dean.

First United Bank & Trust is providing the permanent financing. "The loan was made possible and affordable because of subsidies provided through the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta and guarantees from USDA's Rural Development Administration," said Bill Grant, president and CEO of First United.

"This is really a pretty unique arrangement. It is the first time that the Atlanta Federal Home Loan Bank has provided non-housing subsidies for a commercial facility," Grant added. "As a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta, we are extremely happy to partner with Community Action and the Atlanta Bank to help make this project happen."

The Economic Development and Growth Enhancement (EDGE) Program is a relatively new product developed by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta to help finance community and economic development projects. "We have used this program for two projects in Garrett County and have found it to be very helpful," Grant added.

A groundbreaking was held last week in Grantsville for a new 36-unit town house development. Garrett County Community Action is the developer for the project, which will be located along Hershberger Lane.

Cassel Ridge East is a rental development targeting low- and moderate-income households, with rents ranging between $330 and $430 per month, according to a Community Action spokesperson. The project is expected to be completed by early spring 2003.

"This is a project the Community Action board and management felt was very timely because of the new jobs and economic expansion that Grantsville is experiencing," said Duane Yoder, Community Action president.

Gerald Beachy, Grantsville mayor, noted that the rents for the town homes are in the affordable range for the wages that will be paid in many of the new jobs that will come from ClosetMaid and other businesses locating in the industrial park in Grantsville.

"If we are going to attract jobs to Grantsville, we want to make sure that workers can afford to live here," he said. "We have a rental housing shortage in Grantsville and this project will help to alleviate the problem."

The $3.7 million project is being financed through the state of Maryland, private equity investments generated by the low income housing tax credit program, and a grant from the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta.

"These programs are the only way that housing can be built and made affordable for many working families," Yoder said. "The Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta, working through its member banks in Garrett County, has been particularly helpful for number of our projects over the past five years and the state's Rental Development Program has been used in almost every one of the three hundred rental units we have developed."

The town homes are being constructed next to the Grantsville Outreach Center and Parkside Estates. The town park is also in the immediate vicinity, and the planned new Grantsville Library is being constructed across the entrance from the development.

Beachy noted that this will have a positive impact on the quality of life for the tenants at Cassel Ridge. "Having the recreational activities, the services from the Outreach Center and the Senior Center, and the residential development located in this part of town is creating a real sense of place and will make this a very vibrant community," he said.

OVERLOOK CENTER OFFICIALLY OPEN — A ribbon-cutting ceremony for the Overlook Child Development Center was held last week. Located along Highview Drive in Oakland, the 10,000 square-foot facility is the "hub" for many of the county's child development programs, such as Early Head Start, Head Start, and Wrap Around Child Care. It also houses the Judy Center Program, a Maryland State Department of Education initiative. Pictured above at the ceremony are, left to right, Del. George Edwards; Sandy Rosenblith, senior vice president of Rural Local Initiatives Support Corporation's Rural Use; Commissioner Fred Holliday (hidden); Marlene Elliott, Delaware and Maryland state director of United States Department of Agriculture Rural Development; Kris Baronner, representing M&T Bank; Amy Short, field representative for Senator Barbara Mikulski; State Senator John Hafer; and Lowell Bender, Garrett County Community Action Committee chairman. See story for more details.

Overlook Center Holds Ribbon-Cutting Event

Formal ribbon-cutting ceremonies for the Overlook Child Development Center were held last Friday at the Highview Drive location in Oakland.

The new facility is described by Garrett County Community Action as a hub for many of the county's child development programs, including Early Head Start, Head Start, and Wrap Around Child Care. The center is also the home of the Judy Center Program, a Maryland State Department of Education initiative that promotes school readiness.

"The Overlook Center provides a setting where children from birth to age 12 are able to participate in learning experiences that are developmentally appropriate and fun," explained Mary Beckman, director of child development programs for Community Action. "The center staff is well qualified and experienced in offering quality child development programs."

Parent activities, adult education opportunities, and youth recreational programs will also be offered at the center. More than 90 children and their families are currently benefiting from the center's programs, according to GCCAC.

"The programs offered at the Overlook Center are representative of the collaborative efforts of many of the early childhood programs in the county," said Pam Nelson, GCCAC vice president for Community Services and Family Development. "The Garrett County Board of Education, Healthy Families Garrett County, and the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families have worked closely with Community Action to design programs to help children enter school ready to succeed, as well as programs to support parents and families."

The two-story, 10,000 square-foot facility houses several class rooms, a computer labratory, a conference room, a dining room, a kitchen, and offices for staff members. The handicapped-accessible site also has a large, fenced-in playground area. The center is owned and operated by GCCAC.

Total funding for the $1.1 million site came from the Maryland Small Cities Community Development Grant Program and the United States Health and Human Services Department. Additional funds were received through loans from M&T Bank, United States Department of Agriculture Rural Development Administration, the Local Initiatives Support corporation (LISC), and GCCAC.

The center is a result of a national demonstration organized by LISC. After undergoing a "strenuous" screening process, the Overlook Center was one of only seven projects funded in the United States, according to Duane Yoder, president of GCCAC.

Sandy Rosenblith, senior vice president of LISC's Rural Use, noted at the ribbon-cutting ceremony that Garrett County was selected for the project because of Community Action's "vision, comprehension, quality, and impact" upon the county.

"We're proud to be partners with Garrett County," she said.

The facility is located on the site of a 60-unit rental housing development completed by Community Action in 1999.

GROUND WAS BROKEN this week at the Southern Garrett Business and Technology Park along Rt. 135 near Mtn. Lake Park for a 30,000 square-foot spec/shell building. Funding for the project will be provided by the One Maryland Smart Growth Infrastructure Fund. The Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED), the Garrett County Department of Economic Development, and the Maryland Economic Development Corporation (MEDCO) will work together to find tenants for the new facility. The building is expected to be available by early 2003. ## Officials Break Ground At Park For One Md. Spec/Shell Building

The Garrett County commissioners hosted a groundbreaking ceremony Tuesday for a 30,000 square-foot spec/shell building to be constructed at the Southern Garrett Business and Technology Park along Rt. 135 near Mountain Lake Park.

"This is a big step for us," said Jim Hinebaugh, director of Garrett County Department of Economic Development. "The spec/shell building will give the county a modern, attractive facility that can be used to accommodate new and expanding businesses."

The Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED) provided a $2.3 million investment for the project through its One Maryland financing program. The program was created by the Maryland Legislature three years ago to assist distressed counties with economic development initiatives.

DBED and the Garrett County Department of Economic Development will immediately begin marketing the facility and working with the Maryland Economic Development Corporation (MEDCO) to find tenants. MEDCO will own the building, which is expected to be available for occupancy in early 2003.

According to Hinebaugh, the facility has been designed to allow for a single tenant or multiple tenants. With multiple tenants, the site could be used as an incubator center for new businesses. The interior will be completed as prospects are secured and their specific needs have been identified. The site is also designed to facilitate expansion by an additional 20,000 square feet.

The spec/shell building is the latest project in an ongoing plan implemented by county officials in 1996. At that time, they identified the lack of supporting infrastructure and modern facilities in the county as an impediment to the county's economic growth.

Other projects, such as the new 20,000 square foot Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) incubator on the Garrett College campus in McHenry, a new industrial park planned for the Keyser's Ridge area, and water and sewer system expansions, will further support business growth, according to Economic Development.

The Garrett County commissioners also noted that the current 35,000 square foot Phenix Technologies facility at the Central Garrett Industrial Park in Accident will also be available to growing businesses in early 2003.

"Garrett County is on the move," said Del. George Edwards at the groundbreaking ceremony for the spec/shell building. He noted that the county is one of the fastest growing in the state.

State Senator John Hafer also noted the recent drop in the county's unemployment rate, as a result of the growth. "At one time," he said, "Allegany County and Garrett County vied for the state's highest unemployment rate."

Century Engineering, Oakland, is the engineering contractor for the spec/shell building. Hardy Construction Services of Frederick was awarded the contract to construct the facility.

Driver Critically Injured, Not Using Seat Belt

A Frostburg man, who was not wearing a seat belt and was fully ejected from his vehicle, was critically injured in a single-vehicle accident Friday around 8:30 p.m. along the National Pike, east of Lower New Germany Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Robert Ervin Rizer, 51, was traveling eastbound at a high rate of speed when his 1995 Isuzu Trooper crossed the center line and struck a guardrail on the westbound side of the road. The vehicle then crossed the eastbound side of the road, struck a curb, and overturned several times before coming to rest on private property, police said.

Rizer was flown to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by Trooper 5, Maryland Sate Police helicopter.

Personnel from Northern Garret Rescue and Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

The accident remains under investigation, police said.

In another incident, Daniel Livengood, Friendsville, was charged with various drunk driving offenses after his vehicle was stopped by deputies Saturday evening along Garrett Highway near Nest Lick Acres.

Livengood's vehicle was stopped for speeding, police said. After failing field sobriety tests, he was arrested and charged with driving while impaired, driving under the influence, driving under the influence per se, failure to drive right of center, and speeding.

HONORED FOR HIS SPIRIT — Johnny Marple, owner of Johnny's Bait House at Deep Creek Lake, was recently honored as the recipient of the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award for 2002. Marple, on the left, received his award from last year's winner, Olen Beitzel. See story for more details.

Marple Receives Entrepreneurial Spirit Award

The local business community honored John Marple, owner of Johnny's Bait House at Deep Creek Lake, by selecting him as the recipient of the prestigious Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award for 2002. Last year's Heise's winner, Olen Beitzel, presented the award to Marple during the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce annual dinner at the McHenry House in the Wisp Resort.

Marple began his career by selling worms out of a nail keg when he was in school. "That first summer I made $80," he recalled. The bait business worked for him, he said, and in accordance with the precept of "if it's not broken don't fix it," he plied his trade each summer, with the exception of the two years he spend in the army.

In 1960, when Marple returned from service, he bought some land along Deep Creek Lake. "It just started from that. I sold bait then added a little bit of tackle. Later on I put in docks. The business just grew," he said.

Over the years, Marple said he has enjoyed his business, and met some interesting people. He recalled the German ambassador to the United States buying bait at his shop, and also an attache of the Russian embassy. Once, some patrons of his shop visiting from Japan presented him with American Express travelers' checks completely filled out in Japanese. They spoke no English, Marple said, and he read no Japanese. But all these people and all of his other patrons share an understanding of fishing.

A career of selling bait and growing the past time into a successful business venture had never been a plan, he said. And added "it's the only thing I'm good at."

Asked if he was surprised at winning the Heise Award he said, "I think I got it on my good looks, don't you?"

Difficult Times for Catholics...

Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church will begin a crucial meeting today in Dallas, the goal of which will be to adopt a policy for the church's handling of priests who are guilty of sexual abuse. In order to better prepare themselves for the gathering, some of those bishops and cardinals met last night with about 20 victims of abuse and listened to their accounts. Cardinal Theodore McCarrick of Washington, D.C., described the sessions as "heartbreaking."

These are extremely difficult times for the Catholic Church, and it seems that the only conceivable outcome from this weekend's meeting that will help alleviate the intense public pressure on the church will be a zero-tolerance policy. One strike, and you're out. That policy must apply not only to abusive priests, but also to bishops and other higher-ups who are guilty of covering up the crimes of these priests.

At the risk of being called a self-righteous Lutheran who really doesn't know or understand the intricacies of the RC Church and should keep his opinions to himself, this writer feels compelled to offer just two thoughts about what might be at the root of the crisis.

The church's insistence that priests must remain celibate is an extremely tall order for any normal human being. As humorist/TV journalist Andy Rooney said, expecting anyone to be able to totally ignore his or her sexual cravings is like striking a bell and expecting there to be no sound emitted. It's unnatural — pure and simple.

The second opinion is that the governance structure of the church is one that ultimately will not last, because it is in many ways a medieval monarchy, the edicts of which are to be simply accepted and not challenged by parishioners. In the filling of a priest vacancy, for example, there is no avenue that allows any input by parishioners in the selection process for their congregation. A priest is simply assigned.

With this said, however, we would be remiss if we were to not remind our readers of the many wonderful things about the Roman Catholic Church, the greatest of which is her service to the suffering. No other church — no other organization — in the world comes close to providing the volume and level of life-saving care to the world's downtrodden than the Roman Catholic Church. In that, fulfilling the single most important command of Jesus Christ, they are committed and they are generous.

We also caution about making the proverbial blanket judgment of Roman Catholic priests, and emphasize that there are many outstanding men in the Catholic priesthood who have never and will never sexually abuse anyone. They, too, must be considered among the many victims of this sad episode.

Probably the best all of us non-Catholics can do is to reserve judgment, pray for these fellow Christians, and remember that each and every other church has plenty of its own sinfulness and issues that should be addressed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Why is it that every time something new comes to town or to the lake, the same disgruntled, negative critics appear in the newspapers? Frankly, there is a good reason why so many natives receive low wages because a large segment of our population lacks skills, education, and even vision to do otherwise.

When this county was founded the pioneers and their families saw the opportunities, and with elbow grease and sheer determination they succeeded in providing this beautiful county with hardware and paint stores, retail stores, banks, pharmacies, a newspaper, restaurants, tin smiths, carriage repair shops, and the list goes on and on. These pioneers settled here because of the area's great beauty and potential.

A friend of mine who chose to build a summer house at Deep Creek Lake is a multi-millionaire, but he did it the old-fashioned way — he earned it. As a very young man he worked on an ice truck his father and brothers bought in the Bronx, New York. He labored from sun up to sun down, carrying large chunks of ice up several flights of stairs before refrigeration replaced the need for ice. He took his share and opened a small retail store. He never finished high school because he devoted his long hours to working and building his investment.

Stop spending as much of your energy finding fault with your own lack of vision and enterprise, and realize this great country rewards all of us, but particularly those who put something into it!

J.L. Stoneham
McHenry

To the Editor:

I am the mother of a beautiful baby with Down syndrome. He is an energetic, happy 2-year-old with a smile that warms your heart.

For those of you who don't know what Down syndrome is, it is a condition caused by one — just one — extra chromosome, an extra #21. It's often called "trisomy 21." Humans usually have 46 chromosomes, but if there are two #21s, that equals 47 and it means Down syndrome.

It has always amazed me how one extra chromosome can affect a child's features, developmental milestones, flexibility, muscle tone, weight and size, and the attitude and acceptance of other people. We as his parents have already seen the prejudice and ignorance of others. All of his family loves him unconditionally and we don't expect people to love him like we do, but I have no tolerance for people who are prejudiced. This is a toddler who is more like a typical 2-year-old than people give him credit for. He doesn't talk yet, but he will — and he does understand! I'm not asking for people to go out of their way for me or my son, but I am asking that they treat him as they would any other 2-year-old toddler without an extra chromosome.

My fight is for my own children, to protect them — like any mother. But I ask that the next time you see anyone with a disability, treat that person the way you would want to be treated, for you never know what tomorrow has in store for you or your children.

To the Editor:

While on my way to Connecticut from visiting my elderly aunt in Kentucky, my car broke down just west of Friendsville. I managed to get off Interstate 68 and to a gas station, where I called AAA Motor Club, which contacted Buddy at Deep Creek Lake Towing. Buddy carried my vehicle and me to Shaffer Ford in Oakland where we left the car. He then drove me to three different motels, finally finding a vacancy at the Town Motel, where I spent the night.

Monday morning a very nice lady who works at the motel, but whose name I didn't catch, offered to drive me to Shaffer's, then to Enterprise Rent-a-Car. The young man on duty at the desk (Jeff?) kindly gave her permission to do so.

Unfortunately, Patti and Shirley at Enterprise didn't have a car available for me. Patti got on the phone and made calls to various "neighbors," looking for a car that I could drive to Connecticut while my car was being repaired. She found one at Accident Chrysler Dodge, and drove me to Accident to pick up the car. The young woman at Accident Chrysler Dodge (Jan?), whose sister and brother-in-law live in the same town as I, arranged to speedily have the car cleaned and ready for me within minutes of my arrival. I then drove back to Oakland to get my things out of my car and to talk with Darrell, the service manager at Shaffer Ford. Darrell was pulling his hair out over scheduling problems, but agreed to sandwich in among his other customers the dismantling and repair of my auto's transmission.

These are all special people and deserve a special thanks. I will return to Oakland when my car is ready and will probably see some of you then. Thank you. And I'm glad my car didn't break down on the George Washington Bridge in New York City!

To the Editor:

Friday, June 14, is Flag Day. Proctor Kildow Post 071, The American Legion, will hold a flag retirement ceremony at the Post home on Memorial Drive in Oakland.

Flag Day commemorates June 14, 1777, when the Continental Congress declared the stars and stripes as the official flag of the young United States. George Washington is believed to have designed the original flag, with its circle of 13 stars. A quote attributed to him described the main elements behind its design: "We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separate it by white in stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her..."

Flag Day is always important, but may be more important this year because of the happenings on 9-11. There has been an extraordinary outpouring of patriotism in which the American Flag, "Old Glory," was displayed in greater volume than at least since WWII. This brings with it the fact that many of these flags will be battered and torn from being flown on vehicles and buildings in all kinds of weather.

"Whether you call me Old Glory, Stars and Stripes, or Star-Spangled Banner, I shall fly forever as a symbol of your freedom, as I did for your ancestors, and as I shall for your heirs.

I am your Flag.

Post 071 hosts the: flag retirement ceremony each year on Flag Day. During this ceremony, American flags that have been brought to the Post will be disposed of in the appropriate manner.

The public is encouraged to bring their service-worn flags to the Post home at 423 Memorial Drive, (across from the hospital), for proper disposal. They can be delivered any day of the year, except Sundays and holidays, after noon. Remember to replace your discarded flag with a bright new one. The price of a flag is higher now, but not nearly as high as the price that has been paid to allow us to have the freedom to fly her.

You are all invited to attend the ceremony, which also includes members of other American Legion posts in Garrett County and participation by V.F.W. Post 10077. Refreshments will be provided by the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 071.

To the Editor:

I have said this before and I'll say it again: "Farmers are the backbone of this country!"

As some of you know, I am on the Black Bear Management Task Force, and a news article published in the Cumberland Times-News contained misleading information attributed to me that needs to be cleared up; therefore, I'll tell you what I actually said.

During our most recent meeting I told Jessica Fritz and Brooks Hamilton, Farm Bureau representatives, that I am one hundred percent behind the farmers in their efforts to be fully compensated for bear damage. I also reminded them that the reality (like it or not) is that decisions made about this issne are done at the state level, pointing out that one has to take that into consideration when looking at the big picture. I asked them if they believed farmers would be willing to accept a tradeoff. Would guaranteed full compensation for crop and livestock damage, plus provisions for replacement of grain loss be acceptable instead of a bear hunt? The news article claimed that the chairman of the task force said that the response to a survey made it clear that they want both. Whether that's true or not, my job on the task force is to make recommendations that are achievable, not to play politics. My experience as a retired business owner tells me that making demands that the other party thinks he/she can't live with is counterproductive. The idea is to make the best possible deal, to come away from the table with something reasonably acceptable otherwise you may end up with nothing.

Also, using the same numbers included in the news article; the heading could have been Garrett Farmers Reject Bear Season. A recent survey resulted in only 22 (17% X 162 X 81%) responded favoring a bear hunt. There are 600 to 700 farms in Garrett County and using the median number of 650 indicates that an overwhelming 97% reject a bear hunt. I believe that is considerably more accurate than what Mr. Sawyers wrote. That, of course, is not entirely true either but you can see the point.

Finally, Mr. Sawyers claimed in a previous news article that I said that I am "opposed to hunting at any level." I never, ever said that, and I am clueless as to why he would say such a thing because it just ain't true. Mr. Sawyer has never in his life spoken to me. I can only guess as to why he would want to misinform the public, but that's his problem.

Trying to reconcile what he writes with what actually takes place in these meetings is difficult at best and only then because I happen to attend them. The public deserves fair, objective reporting; perhaps a remedial journalism course might help.

To the Editor:

We attend our National School Board Conference, to meet old friends and colleagues, to make new friends, and find new and better ways to do our most important jobs as school board members. This year's conference in New Orleans was no exception. After hearing Archbishop Desmond Tutu's most inspiring speech, I left New Orleans believing that we have the power to close the achievement gap, create a greater respect for each other, and raise better citizens simply by teaching, believing, and practicing the truth taught in the Declaration of Independence. Let me explain. Archbishop Tutu, famous South African civil rights leader, shared with us how blacks raised their children during Apartheid to hold themselves in high esteem. "We told our children they were of infinite worth because they were God's viceroys," says Tutu, "Despite everything, that conspired to make them believe differently." As a result of this teaching, blacks did just as well or better than the white kids did on the state test. They grew up to be doctors, lawyers, and teachers, and even overthrow the evil Apartheid government.

It did not take millions and millions of spending new dollars. In fact, for every dollar spent on a black child, the Apartheid government spent $10 on a white child. It did not take labeling children and increasing the number of school psychologists, or even school lunch programs and school nurses. What it took and what made the difference was the fact that they were taught that God created them. So says Archbishop Tutu.

Now some say that we cannot teach such a thing in America, that there is a separation between church and state. To them I would say, I do not want to teach about the Holy Trinity, the Rosary, or the Five Points of Calvinism, or how to bow toward Mecca, or even the Lord's Prayer. I believe that is the job of religion. What I am talking about can be found in the Declaration of Independence.

Our forefathers wrote, "We hold these Truths to be self-evident," (meaning so clear that even a fool can see) that all men (meaning all people) are created equal. Not in ability, intelligence, or stature, but in equal value before God as members of the human race. "That they are endowed by their Creator," not by the governor or the state legislature or even the president of the United States; not even the Supreme Court — but by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; rights that can't be bought, sold, or taken away by anyone. "That among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Our forefathers were so assured by the power of their conviction that they risked their lives, their fortunes and their futures by taking on the most pow-

CATSUP ANYONE?

Those who listen to "A Prairie Home Companion' on Saturday evenings are familiar with "The Catsup Advisory Council," one of the radio program's make-believe sponsors. The job of the council is to promote catsup use, as much as a public service as for any other reason.

The council-sponsored advertisements usually feature a couple stuck in mid-life crisis and who discover that most of the mild depression they experience is due to a catsup deficiency. The panacea for any trouble is a catsup break.

Garrison Keillor, the program's perpetual host and principal storyteller, suggested on one occasion that catsup deficiency is probably cause of male earrings and for female multiple earrings, let alone for the more severe cases of body piercings in remarkable places. That suggestion inaugurated a new chapter in my pastoral ministry.

Since then, when a boy turns up in my church with an earring, I ask him if he has been eating enough catsup. In one case I even took bottles of catsup with me on a pastoral call to a family struggling with tense communications. I gave father and son each a bottle of catsup, and urged them to take a catsup break when they felt the tension mounting. The mother asked me why I hadn't brought another bottle for their other son.

I now think of irritability or mild depression or low-level conflict as symptoms of catsup deficiency. Recently I have been feeling some extra stress myself, and have found comfort in catsup hors d'oeuvres, which consist of a healthy dab of catsup on a soda cracker. It really is amazing how much better I feel after indulging in that humble luxury.

Many of the problems in our country may be due to people simply not eating enough catsup. Perhaps our prosperity has contributed to this problem. Today, instead of eating scrambled eggs with catsup, people will demonstrate their new affluence by having an omelette with Grey Poupon. The net result is too little catsup and too much stress.

These musings led me to study the catsup bottle. My first discovery was that there is "catsup" and "ketchup." The latter word, Webster's Dictionary tells me, is a variant of the first. The British preferred spelling is "ketchup," to which they also add "catchup." The spelling variations indicate variations in pronunciation. The original word, whichever one it is, comes from the Malay language where it denotes a "spiced fish sauce."

My children taught me that it does not matter how many different catsups or ketchups there are on the store shelves or how much they cost, there is really only one ketchup, the one made by Heinz. Other people's children must have convinced fast food restaurants of this same fact, since it is the brand most of them serve. On the fast food menu, ketchup, like love, covers a multitude of sins.

Heinz announces on its label that this product is "TOMATO KETCHUP." That is very accurate of them, because one can make a ketchup out of many different fruits and vegetables. At one time ketchup was predominately a spiced puree of mushrooms. The label also tells us that tomato ketchup was one of the original "57 Varieties," and has been on store shelves for more than a century.

That's old news. The label on the back has newer news and even new news. Most diets will give a "free pass" for ketchup, and the reason is clear. A tablespoon serving of ketchup has 0 grams of fat and only 15 calories. Compare that with a tablespoon serving of butter, another of my favorite foods, which has 100 calories, all of which are from fat (11 grams, 17% of the recommended daily intake).

The newest news is that a one-tablespoon serving of ketchup also has 3 mg. of lycopene, an antioxidant. I cannot explain what an antioxidant does except to say that it helps prevent one's innards from rusting up.

So there may be more to this "ketchup break" business than first meets the eye. In any case, when debating in your mind between ketchup hors d'oeuvres and butter hors d'oeuvres, stick with the ketchup, unless you are already skinny.

Ketchup is not — I am sorry to tell you — the perfect food (and catsup probably is not either). There are 190 mg. of salt in that one-tablespoon serving, which is 8% of the recommended daily intake. As Aristotle said, "All things in moderation."

Still, I am convinced that there is a great, untapped resource in ketchup. The mind flies to Ariel Sharon and Yassar Arafat, Pervez Musharaff and Atal Bihari Vajpayee, even to Trent Lott and Tom Daschle. Could a ketchup break do anything but help?

ClosetMaid Pres. Speaks To County Business Leaders

Nearly 200 community business leaders were in attendance to hear ClosetMaid president Rob Clements describe the operation that will be located in the Garrett County Industrial Park. The event was the annual dinner meeting of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, held recently at the Wisp Resort, McHenry.

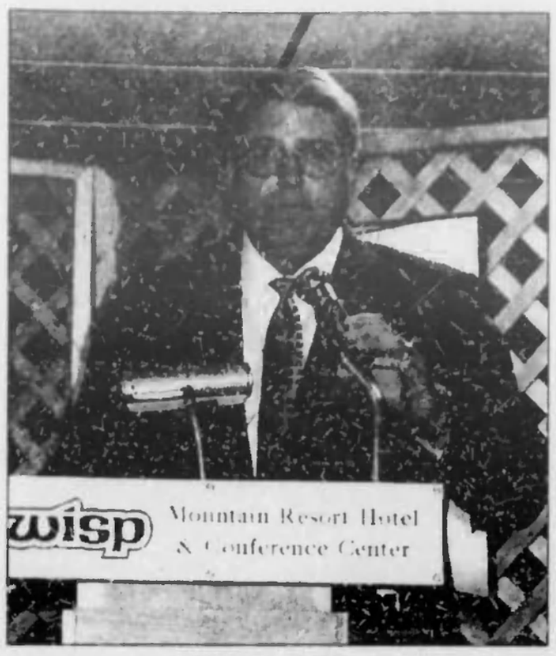
Clements reiterated his commitment to the Grantsville project, notwithstanding some delays that resulted from a "flat year" for the company. Groundbreaking is now slated for next spring with local hiring to being next fall with 100-200 people, and later expanding to about 800, he said. The average hourly wage for ClosetMaid employees is $13, he added.

Started in Florida in 1965 as a manufacturer of wire shelving for condominiums, ClosetMaid now employs 2,300 men and women at facilities in Mexico, Canada, and the Peoples' Republic of China, as well as Florida. The company was purchased by Emerson Electric in 1997.

Employee benefits rank high on the priority list of ClosetMaid's corporate leaders, Clements said. "We value our people," he said, citing examples of a full-time nurse on staff, an on-site ATM and credit union, and an extensive education program. "Last year our people had a total of 55,000 hours of training, that's 55 hours per year, per employee."

ClosetMaid offers employees high school equivalence classes, college tuition reimbursement, wellness programs, plus Florida Southern University courses at the Ocala location. "Employees can get a BS degree right on site as a company benefit," Clements said.

Community involvement, also a hallmark of ClosetMaid, is evident in the corporation's support of local vendors and local charities, Clements told the group.



ROB CLEMENTS
CLOSETMAID PRESIDENT

To illustrate the point, he presented chamber president Ken Wishnick with a check for $1,000 for the chamber This contribution will be used for this year's fireworks display at Deep Creek Lake, Wishnick said.

Terra Alta Man Sentenced For Felony Theft

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to two counts of felony theft. Related burglary charges were dismissed upon his plea.

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Roy William Coleman, 34, to two terms of 18 months in the Garrett County Jail. The terms are to run concurrently. Sherbin also ordered Coleman to pay nearly $2,000 in restitution to three victims as a parole condition following his release.

Officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation charged Coleman in January with charges related to the breaking and entering of three cabins in the Youghiogheny Mtn. Club Resort last April. Property was removed from two of the residences by co-defendants, who were driven to the area by Coleman, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

MSP Seeks Leads In Two Recent Vandalism Cases

Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack are requesting the public's assistance as they probe a pair of recent vandalisms, one in Grantsville and the other near Deep Creek Lake. Citizens with information are asked to contact the barrack at 301-387-1101.

The first incident occurred between 7:55 and 8 a.m. Saturday morning along Reform Street in Grantsville, when the driver's side window of a 2002 Buick LeSabre was broken, apparently by a pellet fired from a BB gun. No repair estimate was provided for the damage to the car, which is owned by Harry Bowers of Main Street. Persons with information are asked to contact Tfc. M.W. DeValk.

The second vandalism resulted in over $1,000 worth of damage to tennis courts that were being resurfaced at the Red Run condominium complex, located off Mayhew Inn Road. Sometime between 11 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, two youths and a dog entered the area and left small footprints on the resurfaced courts. Access was gained by climbing a fence, according to the police release.

The same suspects are believed to have climbed a neighboring fence where they turned on two shower-heads and then threw swim toys into a pool. No damage necessitating repairs resulted from that incident.

Persons with information about the Mayhew Inn Road area vandalisms are asked to contact Tfc. J.B. Schlossnagle.

MSP File Drug Charges Against Ohio Woman

An Ohio woman faces drug charges stemming from her Friday evening arrest near Friendsville after suspected cocaine was found in her vehicle.

Cheryl Shakhatreh, 48, Youngstown, was stopped for speeding at approximately 7 p.m. on Friendsville Road. As he was speaking with her, the investigating state trooper observed suspected cocaine sitting in plain view inside her 2000 Pontiac sedan.

Following a search by investigators with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, Shakhatreh was arrested on charges of possession of cocaine, possession of cocaine with intent to distribute, and possession of drug paraphernalia. She was later released from the Garrett County Jail on a $25,000 bond set by a district court commissioner.

Driver Charged, Woman Injured In Car Accident

A Swanton man was charged after his vehicle struck a 1995 Pontiac along Garrett Highway near Paul Friend Road Monday afternoon, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Darin L. Orendorf, 28, was charged with failure to yield the right of way. He was attempting to make a left turn from Garrett Highway onto Paul Friend Road when his vehicle struck another vehicle operated by Doris J. Wiles, 50, Aurora, W.Va. The Wiles vehicle was traveling northbound along Garrett Highway.

Wiles was injured and transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated.

In another incident, one person was taken to the hospital following a collision at the intersection of Dorsey Hotel Road and National Pike involving a fire truck, which was responding to another call.

The patient was taken to the Meyersdale Medical Center by Northern Rescue Squad. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating the incident. No further information was available.

Deer Park Man Exonerated Of Assault Charges

A Deer Park man was deemed not guilty of assault charges by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph Burnett during a recent court hearing.

Lash Rocky Larue Lloyd, 24, was exonerated of two counts of second degree assault filed at the time of his April arrest by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. Lloyd's wife, Tereka Marie Lloyd, had alleged that he had assaulted her twice during domestic-related altercations in their home.

Marital Privilege Invoked

Domestic assault-related cases involving two other local men were closed with "not guilty" verdicts when the respective spouses refused to take the stand to testify, invoking their marital privilege.

Robert Lee Fuller, 33, Accident, had been arrested in May by Maryland State Police troopers who filed a second degree assault charge following a domestic altercation outdoors near his Accident-Friendsville Road residence.

Owen Thomas Ravenscroft, 41, Oakland, was charged with second degree assault in January when sheriff's deputies arrested him after a domestic altercation at his Blueberry Lane residence.

Ohio Man Injured During Dirt Bike Promotion Shoot

An Ohio man sustained minor injuries early yesterday afternoon when he was thrown from his motorcycle during a photography session promoting racing apparel, according to the Maryland State Police McHenry barrack.

The mishap occurred at approximately 12:30 p.m. in a wooded area of Marsh Mountain near the Wisp Ski Resort. Shane Norman Watts, 29, Amhurst, was injured when the 2002 KTM model cycle he was riding struck a rock, causing him to be thrown over the handlebars and onto the ground.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Watts to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. No charges were filed.

DUI Arrest

In other MSP news, an Oakland man was arrested this week for driving while under the influence. William Obadiah Cowgill, 28, was charged Friday following a 1:44 a.m. traffic stop along Garrett Highway near Mountain View Road.

Oakland Police Make DUI Arrest

Officers with the Oakland Police Department jailed a local man this week on a driving while under the influence (DUI) charge. William Roy Maxwell III, 56, was stopped at 11:10 p.m. Friday on South Second Street. After being charged with DUI and failure to drive right of center, Maxwell was released under his own recognizance.

tive and abusive, he was placed under arrest.

During the arrest, Sisler reportedly attempted to prevent the troopers from placing him in handcuffs by pulling his hands up to his chest. As he was being transported to the McHenry barrack Sisler was verbally abusive and belligerent, behavior that continued as he was being processed at the barrack. He was subsequently taken before a district court commissioner, who released him on his own recognizance.

Corey Sisler was apprehended at the residence, and was transported to the Garrett County Jail and booked on charges of driving while under the influence, leaving the scene of a personal injury accident, and nine other assorted traffic charges. He was released when he posted a $1,000 bond.

Rec. Trails Task Force Meeting Set

The Garrett County Recreational Trails Task Force will hold a meeting on Monday, June 17 at 7 p.m. at Garrett College auditorium to obtain local input on its proposed recreational trail system being designed for the county.

John Trant of Pashek Associates Ltd. will handle the presentation. Pashek Associates is the firm selected to design the proposed trail system.

The meeting is open to the public. County residents are encouraged to attend to learn about the proposed trail system, and provide public comment concerning development, public participation in the process, and potential user needs and concerns.

The task force was created by the Garrett County Commissioners in November 2000, to develop a recreational trail system networking the county. The task force was charged with developing and implementing a plan for trails which would be safe and user-friendly for all levels of users, and would allow access throughout the county by hikers and bicycle riders alike.

The current plan proposes five trails reaching the following areas: Grantsville, Friendsville, Swallow Falls State Park, Deep Creek State Park, and Oakland. The task force is composed of various representatives from state and county government, as well as private individuals and business persons.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

A lot of people tell me that it is amazing that I can pump out a full column every week. Believe me it is not easy at all, especially when my stress level is high, like now. In the summer my stress level goes with the population of that curse, the housefly, especially when the door is opened and closed every couple minutes with three young girls and their cousins in and out, and two dogs who never are content to be in or out. If they are in they want out and, of course, when they are outside, they want in, especially if their beloved mistresses are inside.

I still have not planted a single vegetable seed even though here it is mid-June. However, we did have a close brush with a frost a couple weeks ago. I woke up at about 6 o'clock and felt very cold. My gardener alarm went off to get out and spray the few peppers and tomato plants that I got Claire to plant for me. Young girls think that they win if they make their parents ask them at least 10 times to do any small chore because it took parents' energy to get them moving. So I had to drag outside to spray them, as you might save them if you do that.

Last weekend I was sick with jealously of Lesa Whittemore because she, David, Greg, and Maddy took a fast weekend trip to New York City to use some tickets that David had gotten from a client in Las Vegas for an inter-league series between the San Francisco Giants (their favorite team) and the New York Yankees. It was the first time in 40 years that they have played each other.

At Greg's graduation party I had a chance to chat with David about one of my favorite past Pirate players. Barry Bonds, who now plays for the Giants. Barry is involved now in a big push for more record-breaking homeruns. They did get to see him hit another homerun in Saturday's game. He has now hit a home run in every park he has ever played in, and Yankee Stadium is an especially glorious venue with its history. One of the players Bonds is now chasing is the superstar Yankee Babe Ruth.

With the Belmont Stakes race on Saturday, I couldn't get New York out of my mind. I was in New York in 1977 when the last Triple Crown winner, Seattle Slew, won the Belmont. However, I was much too busy working to go out to Long Island to see the Belmont and watch him complete his Triple Crown. Later I did see it on television. I have never gone in person to see any of the three races which comprise the Triple Crown. My sister, Carol Bass, attended several Kentucky Derbys when she and Kevin lived in Louisville.

One lesson you can learn from the Triple Crown history: Money can't buy everything. Alfred Van Griffith tried everything to get the Maryland flower (Black-Eyed Susan) to bloom in June in time for the winner's blanket of flowers, but all the money in the world couldn't defeat Mother Nature.

Even a megarich Saudi Arabian sheik couldn't buy a ready winner for the Triple Crown. He did buy a winner for two legs of it, but it is so rare for one horse to have everything required to win all three races, including early speed, ability to run long distance at breakneck speed, and sound enough to stand up to severe challenges for two months during their three years, which is late adolescence in a horse's life.

But once again I wandered far from my original point about the Whittemore trip to New York last weekend. Besides watching two games between the Giants and Yankees, in which they split wins, they got to see one of the biggest hits on Broadway right now Lion King. Lesa said it was simply fabulous. Of course, the play had everything that Broadway specials have, which is great singing and dancing, super technical elements and, in this case, costumes.

I know many of the costumers for the Lion King were old cronies of mine, because one thing that I used to work on was the life-size animal costumes for which art skills were more important than sewing skills. As part of the art department of Brook Van Horn Costume Company, I got a chance to work on the life-size animals for Peter Pan, which was more fun than working on Bugs Bunny in Space. But it was work, and when the rest of the Franny Lee crew was laid off when her kinky history costumes work dried up, I could always switch to the art department where there was plenty of work all the time, especially for me, as I was one of the best fabric painters in the business, plus I was a close friend of the head of the art department. In fact, I had many good friends in high places who helped keep me busy with work. One had to be able to do hard work in a high-pressure atmosphere with people that you don't always get along with, and working an almost around-the-clock time schedule in a usually cramped hot space and trying to please cranky designers and actors and actresses. You need a tight crew with lots of love in it. But is pretty funny that it was who I knew in the big horse show circuit that got me my first job at Brooks Van Horn because the head of that company wanted to meet some top riders.

It is hard to beheve that just a few weeks ago I was so cold, but not today, as Bittinger is in full-blast summer weather. There are beautiful blue skies with lots of white clouds, and thank goodness they are not big cumulus, as that can be a sign of thunderstorms just around the corner. We have a field of hay ready to bale. I have only seen one field around Bittinger ruined by rain.

I don't know if it is because of the heat or the work in the hay field, but there is a big contest between the boy cousins and the girl cousins to see who can walk more miles. The only action in that contest the first thing this morning was a two-mile stretch by Emma Bass and my Meredith. It is easy to measure mileage around here, as it is exactly one mile from here to Jimmy Glotfelty's, and from the intersection of Rock Lodge Road and Mosser Road it is two miles almost on the nose. From here to Brenneman's Store is 2.2 miles.

Yes, it is true that it is hot in Bittinger and a little humid, but not that bad because the breeze never stops blowing. Even in mid-summer it is almost cold, and at least quite cool almost any evening, which requires a long-sleeve shirt and sometimes sweaters or sweatshirts. You would think it would be humid around here due to the many wetlands and swamps. I imagine this evening will be perfect to view the beautiful evening mist hovering over them. As soon as the air cools off, many clouds hover over the glades and the peat moss lake. There might be a good show about sunset on Mosser Road just before you reach Rock Lodge Road since there will be an almost total eclipse of the sun about then.

Leslie Buckel came home to visit her parents, Gary and Sharon Buckel, this weekend. They attended a church service at Mill Run Chapel, which included the ordination of Harold Shunk. Following church service they played host to Sharon's parents, Harold and Millie Griffith.

Most of the big bird watchers of Maryland were assembled at the Wisp for the Maryland Ornithological Society meeting. I know for sure that my cousin Courtney Englar enjoyed it, which included some field trips to watch or listen to birds. Our big birder of Bittinger, Kevin Dodge, also attended.

Ruth DiPaolo entertained her friends from Partlow, Va., over the weekend. They were up to cool off and, of course, to play lots of card games. Her son, Barry Glotfelty, also visited her on Sunday and was glad for the cooler weather. He also dropped by to see me, as he was on his way to the Cove to pay a visit to cousin Courtney.

Lesa Whittemore's father, Bob King from Las Vegas, will spend the rest of the summer with Lesa and family in Bittinger.

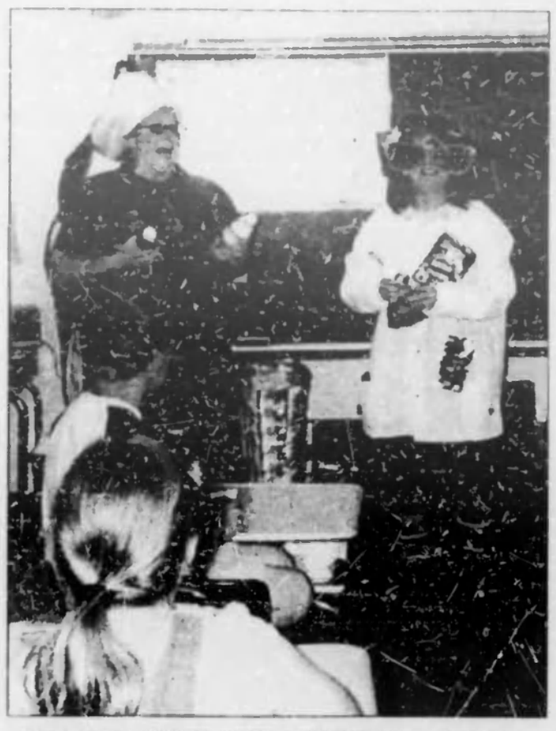
Sally, Lenny, and Torrey Poholsky visited Susan and Michael Scheffres and family, Rockville, over the weekend. Ferne Beachy and Cindy Stanton visited Mary Ellen and Steve Presgraves and Doug and June Stemper, Marly and Matthew. All were guests at a graduation party for Joseph Scheffres, who graduated that day from Landon School. Cindy and Ferne met Bee Buckel and Kendra Wells for lunch at College Park on Friday.

Ferne Beachy and Meredith Bagnetti visited Bertha Rodamer and Olis Brenneman at Goodwill Mennonite Home on Tuesday.

Well, there you go. It was not even a big struggle to write this column. What I always used to tell my students was, if you have a big writing task, just do it; don't waste your energy worrying about it or agonizing about it. It is so much easier to just do it and you will feel so much better when it is done.

Jim and Donna Glotfelty and Ida Reckner attended the June 1 wedding of Christopher Carey and Janelle Ferrens held at Midlothian Assembly of God Church near Frostburg, and the reception following the ceremony at the Wilhelm Flat in Avilton. Ashlin and Abigail Gray, daughters of Jeff and Sheli Gray, Hanover, served as flower girls for the wedding. Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa., the Gray family, Dwaine, Lisa, Adam, and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg, and Tim Glotfelty were all Sunday dinner guests of Jim and Donna Glotfelty. Paul and Alberta Nolder, Baltimore, Bernadette Henson, St. Albans, W.Va., and Annette Keller, Accident, were Saturday evening callers.

Jim and Donna Glotfelty were Sunday evening dinner guests of Julius and Karmen Carey and Linda Oester at Hen House West near Frostburg to celebrate the June birtndays of Karmen Casey and Donna Glotfelty. They later visited at the Carey home, where other evening visitors were their son, Anthony Carey, and Amanda Wilson, home for the summer from Evangel College, Springfield, Mo. Anthony and Amanda will be united in marriage July 13th and will return to Springfield to continue studies in the fall.



STUDENTS LEARN ABOUT NUTRITION — Gail Dever, also known as Ms. Apple, above left, and Sadie Liller, also known as Ms. Junkfood, from tha Garrett County Health Dspartment rscently visited Yough Glades Elementary School. The health department representatives talked to Emily Nocka's third grade class about nutrition.

Discovery Might End Heartburn Forever

WASHINGTON — According to recent research, upper gastrointestinal (GI) problems like acid reflux, heartburn and ulcers may be eliminated with a new type of chewable tablet. Scientists say that GI problems are not the result of excess acid, but the body's inability to deal with it. The new tablet called Pepstat 380™ contains an extract from the Glycyrrhiza glabra plant or DGL that strengthens the body's natural defenses against acid.

Pepstat 380 goes to work immediately on stomach acid while addressing the underlying cause of GI problems. Scientists suggest that the DGL in Pepstat 380 improves the body's protective substances, increases the lifespan of digestive tract cells, improves blood supply to the area and has no known side effects. Comparative studies have appeared in publications like the British medical journal The Lancet showing DGL to be superior to Zantac®, Tagamet® and/or antacids. This new type of formula may make these drugs obsolete.

The problem with antacids which neutralize stomach acid and acid blockers which reduces acid secretions is that they can interrupt the body's normal digestive process. Pepstat 380 is a natural alternative to antacids and H2 receptor antagonists more commonly known as "acid blockers." Pepstat 380 is available at pharmacies without a prescription or call 1-800-729-8446. ©2001 HCD Sales

SHOW ME THE MONEY! Several young folks who made it through the night Friday at the Relay for Life were asked for one helpful act by holding up the amount raised in the event. The total at the close of the relay was an impressive $150,443.61. In addition to going toward the continued search for a cancer cure, the money will also be used for many local programs, including cancer prevention education and the Road to Recovery program, which provides transportation assistance for those traveling to Morgantown or Cumberland for treatment.

HE MIGHT HAVE BEEN SEEN IN A ROBE BEFORE, but prior to this year's Relay for Life, Pastor Mel Menker (center) had probably never been seen clothed in an authentic poodle skirt. The pastor apparently told his congregation that if $5,000 was raised, he would wear the skirt. He was quite confident that he would not have to don the poufy dress, as even into last week the church had not reached the goal. But at the 11th hour, the amount was surpassed, and Menker was forced to dress up. It was all part of the relay fun, where themes and creativity run wild every year. The ideas were many and varied, including the Bosley family's "Alienate Cancer" theme, which involved the "alien" shown at right. It traveled the track for hours and was a major hit with the kids.

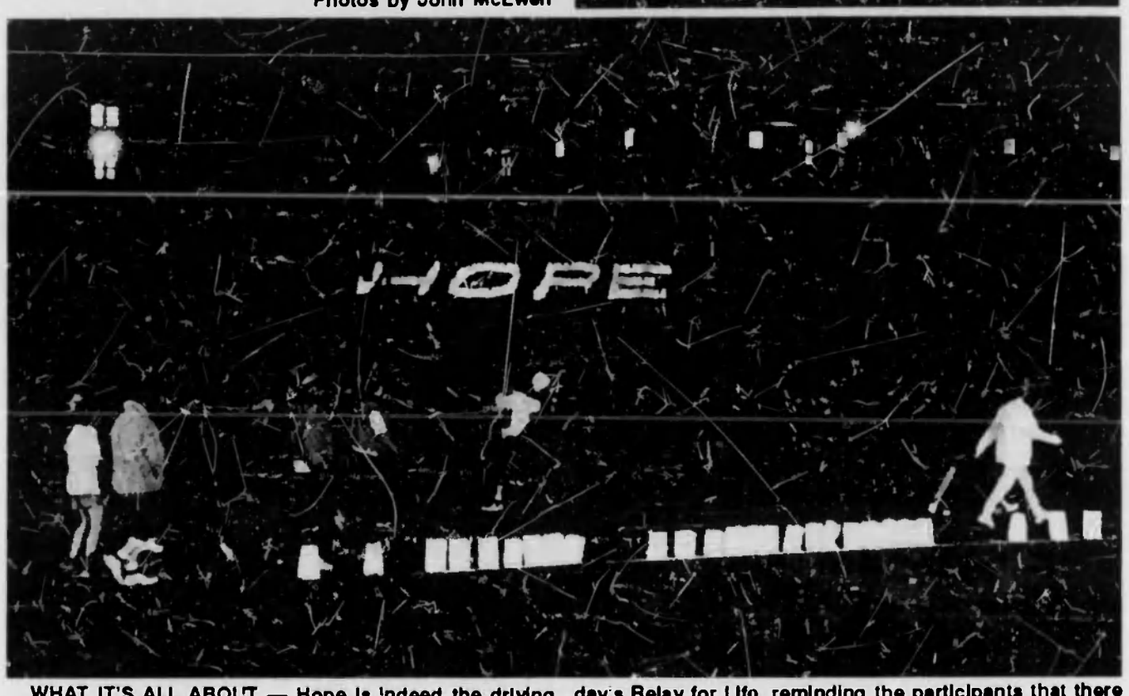
THE SOLEMN MOMENT came as it does each year at sundown, when the 1,400 luminaries, each in honor or in memory of a cancer victim, were lighted. A moment of silence followed, prompting all those in attendance to ponder the anguish of cancer, as well as to give thanks for those who have succeeded in defeating the disease.



WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT — Hope is indeed the driving force behind all who strike out against the scourge of cancer. The word shone brightly against the backdrop of Friday's Relay for Life, reminding the participants that there is always hope, and that each step they took was another stride toward a cure. ## VBS Will Address World Hunger Faith United Methodist Church, Crancsville, W.Va., will take a new approach to educating its members and friends about the problems of and solutions to world hunger. The issues will be addressed during the church's Vacation Bible School, to be held Monday, June 17, through Friday, June 21, from 7 until 9 p.m.

The school will explore the theory that states, "If you give a man a fish, you give him a meal, but if you teach him to fish, you change his life." Using a curriculum supplied by Heifer International called "Animal Crackers," the students, ages 2 years through adults, will study the ways in which Heifer has taught sustainable agriculture, environmental awareness, and animal husbandry around the world.

"When this groundwork is firmly established, Heifer then supplies animals appropriate to the needs of the people in a given area," said a church spokesperson. "These may be goats, cows, sheep, pigs, rabbits, llamas, chickens, ducks, bees, water buffalo, or whatever is needed to improve the lives of the people."

The students will also learn about the value of the primary principal of Heifer called "Passing the Gift," in which people who receive an animal are required to pass on one of its offspring free to someone else, thus spreading the usefulness of the gift and fulfilling the Biblical admonition to freely share and spread the Gospel.

Additionally, many practical illustrations, videos, games, and crafts will also provide information about and insights into the monumental task of feeding the world's hungry people. Bill Grose of Montcroft Farms, which has received state recognition for outstanding conservation practices, will speak to the high school class about stewardship of the land.

Real animals will be brought into the church on Friday during presentation night to illustrate the week's teachings. There will also be worship, songs, and refreshments. All offerings and money raised during vacation Bible school will be sent to Heifer International. For more information, persons may call Beth Wolfe at 304-789-2430.

DIVINE SECRETS OF THE YA-YA SISTERHOOD

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:56 - Released 6/7/02

I finally see Ashley Judd in a performance I like, and it's in a movie like this. Divine Secrets Of The Ya-Ya Sisterhood, as its name suggests, is mostly a load of pretentious crap, but it has its moments. A dark and mysterious tale of dysfunctional familyhood in the Deep South directed by Callie Khouri (writer of Thelma & Louise and Something To Talk About in her camera-wielding debut), the film tries a little too desperately to be Steel Magnolias. But it does have its moments. Divine Secrets is another example of a film balancing precipitously on the edge of disaster, saved in large part by the talent of its actors. I never thought I'd be saying that about an Ashley Judd film, but there it is. The woman puts forth a truly engaging performance in a thanklessly pretentious part, and the same goes for Sandra Bullock, Ellen Burstyn, and Maggie Smith, among others.

This movie is based on the novel by the same name, and another called Little Altars Everywhere, both by Rebecca Wells, with the screen adaptation by Mark Andrus (Life as a House) and director Khouri. It starts in 1937 Louisiana with a solemn nighttime ritual involving fire, potions, bloodletting, and four young girls. When Vivi, Teensy, Necie, and Caro squish together the open wounds they have inflicted on their palms, they declare themselves "Ya-Ya priestesses" (apparently in accordance with some ancient voodoo mythology), not to mention friends for life. We then flash forward to the present, when an interview is published in Time magazine with noted New York author Siddalee Walker (Bullock), the adult daughter of Ya-Ya leader Vivi, in which she decries the psychotic, self-centered, alcoholic, me-first behavior of her mother and the resulting wealth of writing inspiration derived from her difficult childhood. This, of course, sends the aging Vivi (Burstyn) into an emotional tailspin and a vindictive rage, forcing her not only to cut "Sidda" out of her will, but call in the other members of the ancient sisterhood for support.

So just as they have done many times before, Teensy (Fionnula Flanagan), Necie (Shirley Knight), and Caro (Smith) come to the rescue, kidnapping Sidda and taking her to their cabin in the bayous, where they plan to educate her once and for all about why her mother is such an emotional wreck. The remainder of the film is spent traveling back and forth in time from the late '50s, in which Vivi is played as a young Scarlett O'Hara type by Judd, and the present, where Sidda comes to realize that there was more to her mother's regular freakouts and scattershot parenting style than met the eye. In the meantime, the Ya-Yas constantly bicker, play cards, and reminisce, and Sidda's loving fiance (Angus MacFadyen) and father (James Garner) try desperately to understand their female counterparts with little or no success.

In between the cloying sentimentality and the self-indulgent celebration of Girls And All They Stand For, this movie does occasionally slip in some meaningful dialogue, some nice, subtle acting, and lots of beautiful Louisiana and North Carolina scenery. I must say I don't understand the reason for all the fuss (the whole film centers around one of those "big secrets" that, when revealed, seemed woefully anticlimactic to me), and every time those women all shouted "Ya-Ya!" in unison, I had to suppress a belch. But I'm sure as in all novel-to-screenplay adaptations, so much is lost in the translation that the end result seems sparse and uninspired in comparison to the source material. Which is too bad, because, good story or not, this film will definitely not inspire me to read the book. ★★★½

BAD COMPANY

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:57 - Released 6/7/02

From Jerry Bruckheimer Films comes Joel Schumacher's Bad Company, a film which, in name and content, vigorously lives up to its production company's increasing reputation for dumbed-down action flicks. Pairing accomplished thespian Anthony Hopkins with in-your-face comedian Chris Rock may have seemed an ingenious idea at first (and may prove so, if only for the purpose of selling tickets), but these actors can't compensate for the poor quality of the screenplay by Jason Richman and Michael Browning, based on the marginally plausible story by Gary Goodman and David Himmelstein, and they know it. Rock is trying too hard, and Hopkins isn't trying at all. Moreover, the film seems interminable, with Schumacher passing numerous exits on the cinematic highway that would lead to an ending, forging proudly on through scene after scene of shooting, screaming, and blowing up, until we feel we have been sitting through an eight-hour Bruckheimer Productions showcase rather than a simple buddy action film.

The premise is thus: Harvard educated CIA agent Kevin Pope (Rock, trying desperately to look suave and refined) is killed during a crucial operation in Prague to purchase a bomb on the black market from a nasty profiteer named Adrik Vas (Peter Stormare), mainly for the purpose of keeping it out of the hands of a nasty terrorist (Adoni Maropis) who wants to blow up as many Americans as possible. Kevin's partner, veteran agent Gaylord Oakes (Hopkins, trying desperately to look awake), knows the deal can't go through without Kevin, so it is conveniently discovered that the slain agent had a long-lost, unknown brother named Jake Hayes (Rock, seeming much more like himself). Jake is a street hustler from Jersey who makes a meager living scalping tickets to sports events and beating people at chess. So Oakes and his fellow agents (Gabriel Macht, Brooke Smith, and a few others) offer Jake $100,000 to help them with this mission by masquerading as his dead brother. Although Jake is no hero, he takes the job mainly for the money, to win back the affections of his girlfriend (Kerry Washington) who has just dumped him for being poor. So begins the hilarious (not) training procedure, where Jake is taught to act, think, and live like his fabulously wealthy brother, followed by the thrilling (not) action segment where the CIA and their newly hired agent dodge bullets while trying to save mankind.

Rock is obviously trying for an Eddie Murphy in 48 Hours kind of approach, with a simple brother from the projects participating valiantly in a dangerous and noble assignment while making all sorts of wisecracks about how he's not used to this sort of thing. But the problem is, Rock is a comedian first and an actor second, so he delivers his lines not so much like a person talking, but like...a comedian delivering lines. He seems uncomfortable after each joke (when there's no applause), and equally uneasy during the serious lines (when there's no joke). That is, when he's not screaming like a little girl. Meanwhile, Hopkins is so clearly aware that he's above this project, he's putting in time with the enthusiasm of a college English professor forced to teach a 3rd grade reading class. He's overqualified, he's bored, and he knows it. To this uncomfortable pairing is added a multitudinous cast of supporting players, at least three villains, and numerous requisite Bruckheimer action sequences intended to divert our attention away from the obvious lack of script and acting with bright, flashy colors and loud noises. Oh, Jerry—you've done it again. ★★½

Wisp Squad Burns First United, Salisbury In Hot Stove Action

The Wisp took a pair of big wins this week in Hot Stove Baseball League play, crushing Frostburg First United 14-5 and blasting Salisbury 11-5 to up its record to 7-1. The Wisp is scheduled for this afternoon against Frostburg Legion at Northern High School.

Friday's triumph over Frostburg was hardly a romp from wire to wire, as the two combatants were knotted at one-all going into the third stanza. Wisp scored three times in the top of that inning, and Frostburg responded with one run in the bottom of the inning to make the score 4-2. Frostburg scored once in the fourth before Wisp scored twice in the fifth. Wisp exploded for eight runs in the seventh to seal the victory, as Frostburg scored twice in the bottom of that inning in a last-gasp effort.

Preston Sisler led the way for the Wisp by hurling a complete-game, seven-inning win, striking out 12 batters and walking five. He scattered seven Frostburg hits along the way.

Mark Logsdon was a force for the Wisp's offense, driving home a total of four runs on a triple and a single Sisler doubled and singled for two RBI, and Robert Stark and Matthew Bass each drove in two runs.

Both Wisp and Salisbury opened with four runs apiece in the first inning Monday night. The difference came as Wisp kept rolling while Salisbury stalled out, as the guests scored once in the second, and three times in both the third and fourth stanzas. Salisbury only crossed the plate once more, in the fifth inning.

Chris Carr had three RBI on three singles, and Logsdon and Darrick Lowdermilk each doubled and singled for two RBI apiece. Sister drove home two runs on a single and a sacrifice fly.

Lowdermilk hurled the complete-game, seven-inning win, holding the hosts to seven hits on the day.

Oaks Fall To Parkersburg In First Loss

The Oakland Oaks sustained their first loss of the Pen Mar Baseball League season this weekend, as host Parkersburg used a six-run fifth inning to down the Oaks 8-2 Sunday. Oakland's record stands at 2-1.

Both squads scored once in the first inning, as Oakland's Seth Tressler recorded an RBI single, one of only three hits for the Oaks overall. Parkersburg scored once in the fourth, and Oakland responded with a fifth inning run in the top of the stanza to knot the contest at two-all. The dam burst in the bottom of the fifth when Parkersburg erupted for six runs.

Mike Bowman and Mike Shahan each doubled to round out the Oaks' offensive output. Oakland did not record a hit from the second inning on through the rest of the game, while Parkersburg totaled nine hits off the Oaks' pitching combo of Chris Smith and Josh Fitzwater.

Oakland (2-1) is slated to take on the Tri-State Titans this Saturday.

Christian Men's Softball League Winners Named

Action continued in the Area Christian Men's Softball League, with Crellin United Methodist remaining on top of the league standings with a perfect 14-0 record.

Crellin UM first swept Cherry Glade Mennonite I, 20-12 and 17-10, with Mike Fazenbaker the winner on the mound in both. Then Crellin UM took a pair from Pleasant View Baptist, although Pleasant View gave the league leader all it could handle in game two. After Crellin won the first game handily, 10-1, but hung on for a 7-6 victory in an extra-inning nightcap. Fazenbaker was again the dual winner on the mound.

In other action, Maple Glen picked up a pair of forfeit victories over Crellin Assembly of God, and Glade Mennonite took two games from Oak Park Church of the Brethren, 20-7 and 11-3, with Bill Miller the winning pitcher in both. Trey Brenneman rapped a pair of homers for Glade, and Ron Gnegy hit one for Oak Park.

Mt. View Mennonite was also a double winner, topping Cherry Glade II (scores not reported). Gerald Tice was the winner on the mound in both games. Hitting one home run each were Brian Yoder of Mt. View and Tony Bender of Cherry Glade II.

Tied for second place in the league with records of 8-2 are Glade and Mt. View, followed by Pleasant View at 9-3, Maple Glen at 4-3, Cornerstone with a 4-4 mark, Cherry Glade I at 2-4, Oak Park with a 3-7 record, Loch Lynn at 1-7, Oakland Nazarene at 1-8, Gortner with an 0-2 record, Cherry Glade II at 0-5, and Crellin AG, 0-8.

Stoner Whiffs 13 As Garrett Legion Downs Frostburg

Garrett Legion's Tobi Stoner needed just eight innings of work to strike out 13 batters as he sparked a 8-3 season debut win over Frostburg Farraday Tuesday in Mountain District American Legion Baseball League action.

Garrett and Frostburg each scored twice in the first inning, but the similarity ended there as Garrett went on to score twice in each of the two stanzas that followed. Frostburg scored once in the bottom of the third to make the score 6-3, but Garrett went on to up its advantage to five runs by scoring once in the fourth and once in the seventh.

Kevin Goralski blasted a triple and a single, and Garrett teammates Stoner and Bryson Meyers each doubled and singled. Dan Vagnetti and Ricky Reams both singled twice. On the mound, Stoner limited Farraday to five hits while walking four. Relief pitcher Greg Whittemore was summoned to close in the ninth, and he held Frostburg scoreless while recording one strikeout.

Garrett is slated to host Fort Cumberland in a 5:30 p.m. doubleheader this evening at Garrett Community College.

OAKLAND GOLF CLUB MARKS 65 YEARS — The Oakland Golf Club sponsored its first fund-raising Founder's Day Tournament recently to mark the 65th anniversary of the founding of the community golf course, which opened in the summer of 1937. Sixty golfers were on hand for the benefit event, proceeds from which will be used to fund a new Oakland Golf Club Scholarship that will help finance the educations of local high school students entering Garrett Community College. Construction of the course was a joint project the town of Oakland and the U.S. Works Progress Administration, one of the federal agencies formed by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt to get Americans back to work in the face of the Great Depression's staggering unemployment rates. The federal government paid for 80 percent of the total $13,800 cost while the town absorbed the remaining 20 percent. (Compare that to the six-figure cost to build the Rocky Gap Golf Course.) The Oakland Golf Club leases the land from the town, and all monies generated through its operation go back into the not-for-profit club organization so that it can offer additional services to the community, such as a planned driving range and a planned swimming pool. Pictured in the winning team from Founder's Tourney play, as from the left are Jonathan Kessler, Joe Refosco, Joey Swerbinsky, and Scott Doolan. Among the special guests on hand for the day, but not pictured, were an honorary foursome of longtime club members Mike Kildow, Marianna Naylor, Dish Cogley, and Don Browning, along with Oakland Mayor Asa McCain. A number of club members pitched in to make the event a success, including tournament co-chairs Kathy Kessler and Angie Bosley, committee members Fred Colaw, Sherry Grant, and Bill Yant, OGC board president Gordon Stotz, club pro Pat Warren, and Jonathan Kessler of Pine Lodge Steakhouse, which sponsored the event.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

GLORIOUS SAILING!
by Dan Muss

This past weekend was as perfect as weekends can get for sailboat racing on Deep Creek Lake. There was good wind and sunny skies. Race commander Tom Scannell had a tough time setting a course because the wind, both days, was out of the southeast, a difficult direction for this lake, but he managed to get good windward and leeward legs for all three races.

In Saturday's first race there was a remarkable sight at the leeward mark, as most of the Flying Scot A Fleet arrived there more or less together. The rule for rounding leeward marks gives the boat on the inside the right-of-way. As most of the fleet arrived there together, there were as many as eight boats strung out, each boat in the line having to give way to the inside boat. Of course, they were all going slowly as their sails interfered with the other sails in the line. Dodd did quite well by seeming to slow down as she approached the mark, letting the pack round in a great wheel, and she slipped inside after they had passed; she had relatively clean air.

In the Flying Scot B Fleet race on Sunday, Bertsch was out in front by a bunch approaching the finishing line when the fifth boat, sailed by the Kemp brothers, tacked onto an unfavorable course away from the finish line. Bertsch could not cover the Kemps and let the other boats go. The Kemps picked up a superior breeze on the other side of the lake and came roaring in for a first-place finish.

Flying Scot C Fleet had a great weekend of racing, with the lead changing hands many times. But the event of the weekend for me was our "Hail-Mary" start in the Sunday race.

I was approaching the starting line on the starboard tack with the rest of the fleet behind me, and I was about 15 seconds early. So I bore off down the line, but I had misjudged the direction of the line and, when the starting horn went off, I was over early. I had to get back on the other side of the line without interfering with the other boats that had started properly. I was, however, able to jibe around and come up to the line on the port tack just behind the last boat starting. Just as I crossed the starting line, on port I got a big lift and we surged forward as all the other boats were forced to tack onto port. I wasn't in front, but I was up with the fleet, having had to go back and start over.

In the Saturday race, Peters fouled me at the start. He did his penalty turns as soon as he could. That, however, did not stop him; he finished first. That's good sailing.

Fish Lassoed At HM Youth Fishing Rodeo

Anglers taking part in the 13th annual Youth Fishing Rodeo at Herrington Manor State Park lake recently were treated to a superb late spring day of cool, sunny, and breezy weather. The event drew 101 contestants, most who were accompanied by their parents in what has become a highly anticipated family affair.

Rodeo participants cast their lines in hopes of netting one of the 800 rainbow trout or 30 lunkers from the Department of Natural Resources' Bear Creek Fish Hatchery that had been placed in the lake the previous day. Catfish were another highly sought quarry, as DNR's Fisheries Division had placed 100 pounds of live catfish in the lake earlier in the week.

There was no charge for entering the park that morning. It was also a free fishing day throughout the state of Maryland, no fishing license required. Many prizes donated by local businesses were given by drawing immediately following the Rodeo.

The prize for the largest catch of the day went to 12-year-old Michael Gibbons of Oakland, who landed a 15½-inch, 1 lb. 15 oz. largemouth bass. Rounding out the top three for the same 12-16 age category were Jonathan Hook, who took second place with a 16-inch, 1 lb. 9 oz. rainbow trout, and Nicole Upton, whose 13¼-inch, 1 lb. 7 oz. bullhead catfish was good for third place.

In the 7 - 11 age category, first place went to Whitney Paugh who caught a 13½-inch, 1 lb. 4 oz. largemouth bass, second place went to Bradley Sisler whose 11 5/8-inch bullhead catfish at 15½-oz. was slightly larger than the 11 1/8-inch 15 oz. bullhead catfish caught by Justin Hartman, who placed third.

The 0 - 6 year olds also caught some very nice fish. First place went to Destiny Shillingburgh who caught a 13 5/8-inch largemouth bass weighing in at 1 lb. 3 oz. Kirkland Schroyer took second place winner with a 12½-inch, 10½ oz. rainbow trout, and third place went to Jessica Cooper who caught a 8 1/8-inch bluegill that weighed 7 oz.

A TWO-FISTED FISHING WINNER — Michael Gibbons, 12, is shown above with two trophies he was awarded after pulling in the biggest fish during the recent Youth Fishing Rodeo at Herrington Manor State Park. Gibbons's 15½-inch, 1 lb. 15 oz. largemouth bass was the biggest fish caught in the 12- to 16-year-old age group, and the biggest whooper of the day in any age category. Gibbons also drew the winning ticket in the drawing for a new mountain bike (the better to transport him to his favorite fishing hole this summer). Gibbons is the son of Elizabeth and Michael Gibbons of Oakland. The biggest fish in the 7-11 age category was hooked by Whitney Paugh, pictured below to the left, who landed a 13½-inch, 1 lb. 4 oz. largemouth bass, while top honors in the 0-6 age group went to Destiny Shillingburgh, below right, who caught a 13 5/8-inch, 1 lb. 3 oz. largemouth bass. The rodeo drew 101 contestants who were cheered on by dozens of family members.

Tracy Espada, chairperson of the Community Service Committee of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, solicited donations of cash and prizes from local businesses. The following businesses supported this family event (listed in no particular order): Fratz Hardware, Deep Creek Foodland, Deep Creek Outfitters, Smiley's Fun Zone, Long and Foster Realtors (realtors Lisa Brenneman, Larry Nesline, and Diana Hanline), Lakeview Auto Parts, High Mountain Sports, Johnny's Bait House, F&M Bank, Lakeside Creamery, Prosperity Mortgage, Mike Goodfellow Agency, Burger King, Four All Seasons Gift Shoppe, Precision Rafting Expeditions, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Garrett County Board of Realtors, Brenda's Pizzeria, Beverage Shoppe, Spring Creek Outfitters, Railey Realty, Inc., Uno's Restaurant and the Honi-Honi Bar, Northern Shenandoah Bassmasters Club, Highland Engineering and Surveying, Corks Cars, Oakland New Car Dealers Association, Denny's Restaurant, O.C. Cluss Lumber Company, Ed D. and L. Jean King, American Mortgage and Financial Services, M&T Bank, Beitzel Corporation, and the Wal-Mart Supercenter.

Also noted for his contributions was Kitzmiller resident Don James, who donated a number of valuable prizes and spent the morning helping the young anglers. "Mr. James has been offering his assistance in making this fishing rodeo a success for many years," said DNR's Connie Skipper, a Herrington Manor park naturalist who was among the organizers of the event.

DNR Finalizes Proposed Hunting Regulations; Input Still Sought

Final hunting and trapping regulation proposals for both the 2002-03 and 2003-04 hunting license years for resident game species and select migratory game species have been announced by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife and Heritage Service.

DNR adopts hunting and trapping regulations for resident game species on a biennial schedule. The final proposed season dates and bag limits will be published in the Maryland Register, and will available for review after publication online at www.dsd.state.md.us, at that site's link to "Maryland Register Online."

The public is encouraged to comment to the agency on the proposals, which have yet to go into effect. A 30-day public comment period will begin with publication on Friday, June 14, for all species except deer and late season waterfowl hunting; all deer season and bag limit proposals will be published in the Maryland Register on Friday, June 28, with a 30-day comment period to follow; and comments on the late season waterfowl proposals will be taken in late August.

The following are the excerpts from DNR's announcement concerning the proposed regulations that could directly impact hunters and trappers in Garrett County:

●Bonus Deer Stamp definition changed — The Bonus Deer Stamp has been changed to a Bonus Antlered Deer Stamp. A hunter must purchase a Bonus Antlered Deer Stamp before that hunter may pursue a second antlered deer in a specific deer season. Bonus stamps are no longer required to harvest antlerless deer in any part of the state.

●In an effort to increase the antlerless deer harvest on private land in Region A, DNR has added two days that antlerless deer may be hunted on private lands during the October muzzleloader season.

●Spring gobbler season expanded — The spring gobbler turkey season has been expanded to five weeks by adding one week to the end of the season.

●Amplified calls for raccoon, opossum, and coyote hunting — Recorded and amplified calls have been legal for fox and crow hunting, and these calls may now be used for raccoon, opossum, and coyote hunting.

●Clarifying the time when coyotes may be hunted — Maryland statute permits the hunting of coyotes at any time of the year during any hunting season for other animals using methods legally allowed during that season, or at any time of the year by predator calling during daylight hours. DNR now specifies in regulation that coyotes may be hunted at night with artificial lights during the same time frame that raccoons and opossums may be hunted at night.

Two of the original proposals which were withdrawn after significant comments were received in opposition to the proposals would have directly impacted Garrett County hunters and trappers:

●One proposal was to shift the start of the bow season two weeks ahead to Sept. 1, which would have also resulted in the closing date shifting to Jan. 15. It was decided not to change the season structure.

●Another proposal would have limited Region A archery hunters to harvesting only one antlered deer. The majority of comments received opposed this recommendation, unless it applied to all deer hunting seasons in Region A. DNR has withdrawn the proposal pending further study on applying this restriction to all deer hunting seasons in Region A.

"Because Maryland's game populations are such an important resource to Maryland citizens, the department relies heavily on public comments to guide the hunting regulation process," said Paul Peditto, director of DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Service. "I would like to thank all those who took the opportunity to comment on the department's proposals."

Area Speedway Review

ROARING KNOB
by Donna Butler

It was a great night for Saturday's program at Roaring Knob Raceway. The weather was perfect, as was the racing surface. Everything came together to produce five action-filled features that, when completed, made one sit back and say, "whew."

The "Brownfield Bullet," Jeff Ferguson, scored win number one in the Fayette Tire Late Models. All other divisions produced three-time winners, with Jim Bendishaw Jr., Mike Hay, Louie Orris, and Marty "Too Tall" Spade taking top honors in their respective classes.

Gary Dalton led the charge as the green dropped on the Fayette Tire Late Models. Dalton held the point over the first 12 circuits, while Jeff Ferguson lurked in second, chipping away at the leader while looking for an opening. Ferguson took over on the 13th, only to have Dalton slip by for one more lap. A lap-15 caution for a four-car melee allowed Ferguson the opportunity for another shot at the leader. He made the pass and made it stick, although hounded relentlessly by Dalton, who was in turn pressured by Doug Horton, Nick Jones, and Frank Wilson. The checkered waved for Ferguson, as Horton slipped past Dalton to take the runner-up spot, with Jones and Wilson following. Chuck Clise, Jim Lepro, Mel Minnick, Billy Eash, and Greg Gelfner completed the top 10.

Jim Bendishaw Jr. claimed his third in a door to door Caney Valley Sport and Marine thriller. Bendishaw led flag to flag on the mountain top oval, earning top honors over Jim Byers, Sam King, I.J. Dennis, and Wayne Jordan.

Mike Hay made his third visit to the VitaLink-QCOL Classic Lites victory lane. He wired the field, besting Eric Hay, Mark Flick, Frankie Dunkle, and Lynn Knepper.

Louie Orris came out on top in a bumping, grinding Fort Necessity Garage erful nation in the world to bring forth the birth of this nation.

That is our birthright, that is our heritage, and if we do not teach this truth, then we are stealing our children's future. If you were the child of the king and no one ever told you, what good would it do? If you were the soul heir to the Bill Gates fortune and no one told you, what good would it do? So it is with our children. We can teach them the truth found in the Declaration of Independence, or we can continue on with business as usual and ring our hands and shake our heads in shame as our children continue to kill one another and have a blatant disrespect for life. It's our choice. We are the school boards. We represent the communities in which we live. The ball is in our court. Are we going to serve or walk away?

Gotsch also suggested not charging the residents full taxes until the area has water and sewerage. However, it was noted that taxes cover police protection, trash removal, and road maintenance.

Council member Jay Moyer added that the roads department kept the roads open this past winter, even though the town was not required to do that to an area that is not annexed.

Mayor McCain said that most residents were in favor of annexation. Those who were not will be sent a letter asking if they have changed their minds.

The intent was to take all properties involved in the proposed 219 bypass to protect the properties and make the area eligible for priority funding. The proposed zoning designation would allow for residential and professional growth, but no retail business growth would be permitted in the area.

constructed, but the association leases, maintains, and develops the site. Drainage, bathroom facilities, fencing, and concession stands will be added later as more funding becomes available. The association has raised additional monies for the project through various fund-raisers.

"We're thrilled with the commissioners' support for our project," said the Casselman Valley spokesperson. She said that the youths will now have one convenient, safe location on which to play.

The county's list of projects and the money appropriated to them will now go back to the Maryland Department of Natural Resource's Program Open Space division to be reviewed by the Board of Public Works.

The actual dollars will not be given to the county for several months. Those organizations in line to receive funding have been instructed not to begin their projects until the allotment is finally approved by the Maryland Board of Public Works.

Young Brosnihan Spends Quality Time With Star Michael Jordan

NEW PALS — Sports and movie star Michael Jordan took time out at the celebrity golf tournament to sign numerous autographs, but made a special gesture toward young Morgan Brosnihan of McHenry by inviting her to spend time with him. They conversed on many a topic during their two hours together on the green. See story.

Spending the afternoon with Michael Jordan was not necessarily what young Morgan Brosnihan had planned when she attended the 2002 Mellon Mario Lemieux Celebrity Golf Invitational last week. But after calling out to him to ask for his autograph, the sports superstar extended his hand to the McHenry youngster and the two had a long visit.

The star power was strong at the event, with over 60 celebrities from both the sports and entertainment world converging on the Club at Nevillewood for the event. Jordan joined such stars as Charles Barkley, John Elway, and two-time champion Rick Roden. The tournament is a fundraiser for the Mario Lemieux Foundation, which supports medical research and patient care within the UPMC Health System.

Fans from all over the tri-state area attend the event each year with the hope of seeing their favorite sports celebrities and perhaps getting pictures and autographs. Morgan and her dad, Pete Brosnihan, were in attendance, along with Oakland resident Tim Watson.

"The magic began on the 15th hole when Morgan yelled, 'Hey, M.J., sign my jersey!'" Pete said. Jordan told her he couldn't sign it until the 18th hole, "but you can walk with me if you like," he said. Morgan ducked under the roped area and ran to take Jordan's hand. For the next two hours, she walked and talked with the superstar. He let her ride in his golf cart, retrieve his clubs, and even hit a ball off the 17th tee. Her father followed along, shooting two rolls of film and making regular cell-phone calls to his wife and Morgan's mom, Brenda, who happened to be in Virginia at the time.

Morgan told Jordan about her brother Zak, and the two discussed the movie Space Jam, among many other topics.

On the 18th green, Jordan kept his promise and told Morgan to turn around so he could sign her jersey. When he finished, she jumped up on his lap, threw her arms around his neck, and hugged him.

"We're still in 'celebrity after-glow,'" Pete said. "Our pictures are awesome, the jersey and custom golf ball are prized treasures, and the memories of the day are unforgettable," Pete said.

The mandatory kindergarten law allows for exemptions to the school attendance requirement in accordance with state board regulations. The exemptions permit compliance through home school instruction regulation; allow kindergarten one year maturity waiver; and allow 5-year-olds to be enrolled in one of three alternative program settings.

Implementing this state law only stopped five students from entering kindergarten this year, Dr. Forrester said.

Children admitted to first grade must be at least six-years-old and be within the guidelines listed on the chart.

Man's Humble Beginnings Evolve Into Local Legacy, Via Family Cooperation

by Jeremy Carr

When Chester McFarland first started out selling produce, it was from the back of a truck, parked alongside a road near Uniontown, Pa. Today, McFarland owns and, along with his 11 children, operates three stores specializing in fresh produce, country-themed food favorites, and more candy than any other location in the tri-state area.

McFarland was born Dec. 7, 1929, in Uniontown. At the age of 15 he started working, not surprisingly, with produce. After the death of his boss, still with an interest in the produce business, McFarland started off on his own. He would purchase fruits and vegetables from wholesalers in Baltimore and Pittsburgh, and sell them independently.

It was also during this time when he met his wife, Shirley, whom he would marry in 1949. In 1951 the first of their 12 children was born.

McFarland and his family moved to Grantsville in 1957 and opened their first produce store, Hill Top Fruit Market, at its current location along Route 40, in 1958. From the very beginning, McFarland's children began working at the Grantsville location.

"Working at an early age instilled in us a work ethic that we continue to use each day," said one daughter. "Our father taught us how to work hard from the very start." Every one of his children have, or still do, work at the stores, as well as several of his son-in-laws, and a few of his grandchildren are current employees at the Grantsville store. In total, there are approximately 65 employees in all three stores.

McFarland extended his business to Oakland in 1961, with Farmer's Market located along Route 219. Nine years later, The Fruit Bowl, named after a sign that Mr. and Mrs. McFarland found in Pittsburgh, was opened in Cumberland. According to wife Shirley, the idea of expanding to the two largest surrounding towns was thought of simply, "to provide more for the community and, in increasing the income, provide better support for our family."

He came up with the idea in 1966 to further enhance his business by adding candy to the items sold at the markets. This proved to be hugely successful, resulting in the three markets to presently be one of the largest candy sellers along the eastern coast. McFarland also began his trucking fleet in 1968. Though only 12 are in circulation now, there were at least 40 running at one point. The trucking operation allowed him to not only receive his own produce but also distribute it to area restaurants and similar businesses. In the beginning, McFarland also hauled water and chickens, and even did mechanical work on his own trucks.

Starting out with close to nothing, he has made a name for himself both locally and nationally. Produce distributors throughout the United States know of McFarland, the three markets, and his own personal career. As one grandson noted, "My grandfather's life has truly been a rags-to-riches story. He began with very little and my aunts and uncles have devoted their lives to assisting him and making the business succeed."

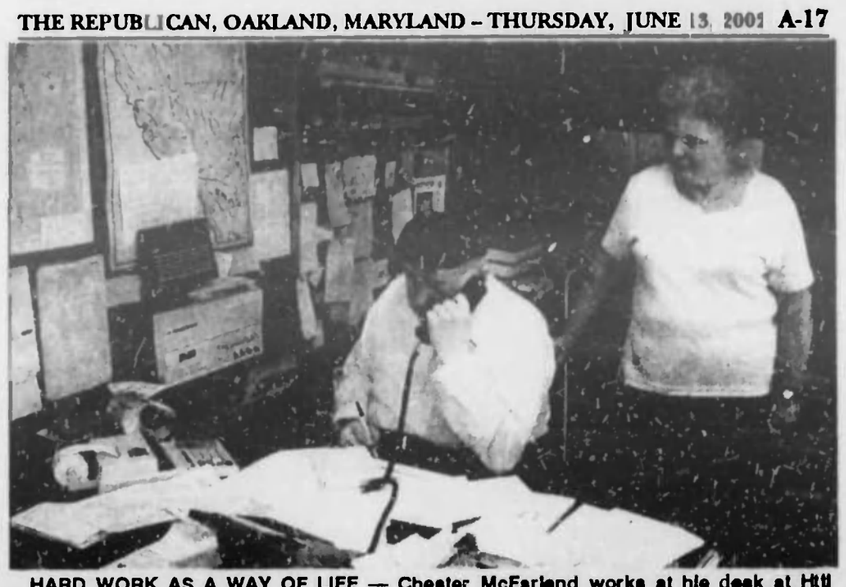
McFarland continues to remain dedicated to the markets, even in his later years, showing up to work at Hill Top every day. "It has always been a struggle," noted Mrs. McFarland. "Between trying to juggle three businesses and a large family, we never really had time for a break."

Though kept busy for most of his life, at one point McFarland did enjoy painting as a hobby. However, as is typical for most independent businessmen, the things he painted were the sides of his trucks, often into the early morning hours.

With all of the recent expansion in Grantsville, it seems that McFarland saw the potential for growth from the very beginning. As far as businesses go, he laid the groundwork for a community destined for development.

"My father is one of those few individuals whose self-reliance and self-taught business sense has really paid off," said one son.

Chester McFarland is a perfect example of what a man can accomplish if he has the drive and the desire to succeed. Through the assistance of his wife and children, he has managed to balance a family and a business. Working hard from the start, he has not yet let up. What makes McFarland truly a local icon is the fact that his generosity extends past his immediate family. Throughout his life he has always given to others who were in need. He has donated candy, fruit baskets, supplies, and the use of his trucks to those who needed them. It hasn't always been easy. McFarland and his family have worked very hard; in the case of his sons and daughters, harder than most children ever had or wished to. Looking back at McFarland's life, and what has been accomplished through his perseverance, makes this writer especially proud to call him my grandfather.



HARD WORK AS A WAY OF LIFE — Chester McFarland works at his desk at Hill Top Fruit Market in Grantsville with wife, Shirley, looking on. McFarland routinely shows up to work every day, checking prices, making phone calls, and generally running the three stores as well as the trucking operation. His desk clearly shows the organization and planning that he has used throughout his lifetime for his many ventures as an independent businessman.

Arts Council Gallery To Exhibit Schoemer Paintings Of Deep Creek

The Garrett County Arts Council will present a special exhibit of watercolors by Arwana Schoemer at the Gallery in Oakland, June 20 through July 27. The featured collection of original paintings captures the scenes and moods of Deep Creek Lake.

"This is the most extensive collection of lake scenes we've ever presented in one exhibit," according to a Gallery spokesman. "We're thrilled that Arwana is sharing her most recent works with us."

Schoemer grew up in West Virginia, but lives in Garrett County. "For the past few years," she notes, "it has been a great joy to me to live in Garrett County and enjoy Deep Creek Lake and the surrounding areas. During this time, I have concentrated on 'getting to know' this subject matter for my work."

Schoemer received her degree in studio arts from the University of Maryland and has studied with leading watercolorists across the country and abroad. Although watercolor is her primary artistic medium, she also uses gouache and acrylic paint as watermedia on paper, depending upon the requirements of subject matter.

The Gallery exhibit reflects Schoemer's "emotional familiarity with her current artistic focal point — Deep Creek Lake," according to an arts council spokesman. "Informed painting technique and impeccable choice of palette converge in this accomplished body of work to establish a timeless sense of place."

"It is my feeling," notes Schoemer, "that painters need to feel in tune with their environment before they begin to express the essence of the subject on paper, canvas, or in a photo."

PAINTING BY ARWANA SCHOEMER

Schoemer has taught private watercolor classes over the years, but is currently concentrating on her own work as she continues to explore new methods of applying paint to paper. She has done professional photography and is working to develop that interest to a personal art form which stands on its own merit in her art shows. She has exhibited in West Virginia, Maryland, New York, and Florida. Locally, her work is included in the Loar Auxiliary permanent art collection at Garrett Memorial Hospital and is on display at the Wisp Resort Hotel lobby. Her paintings are displayed in private and corporate collections across the country and abroad. A member of the Garrett County Arts Council and the Baltimore Watercolor Society, Schoemer belongs to several other watercolor societies and art centers. She maintains studios in Florida and at Deep Creek Lake, and her paintings may also be seen by appointment at her studios.

The Garrett County Arts Council invites the public to view Schoemer's work at the Gallery on Thursday evening, June 20, at the public reception following the council's annual membership meeting. The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. with the reception scheduled to follow at 6:30 p.m. Standard Gallery hours are Monday-Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Additional information is available by calling the Gallery at 301-334-6580.

Forever Plaid To Open W.Va. Theatre Season

West Virginia Public Theatre (WVPT) announces the first production of its 18th season, the comical musical Forever Plaid, directed and choreographed by Bob Durkin, with musical direction by Camille Villapando, running June 18 through June 23. Stephen Ward Billiesen, Scott Pearson, Robert Rokicki, and David Villella appear as the Plaids, a vocal group reminiscent of the 1950s.

Forever Plaid tells the story of a quartet of high school friends whose dreams (and lives) were cut short while they were still in high school, but who return to earth for one final performance. The Plaids' act consists of nostalgic, 1950s-era songs like "Three Coins in the Fountain," "Moments to Remember," "Shangri-La," and "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," and a musical tribute to their idol, Perry Como.

According to the New York Post, Forever Plaid "will put a smile on your face, a hum in your throat, and a tap to your feet." The Wall Street Journal calls it "Irresistible! Delicious, adorable, finger-snapping laugh-out-loud fun!" New York, San Diego, Las Vegas, and Chicago have all boasted long-running productions of Forever Plaid.

Director/choreographer Bob Durkin has worked nationally and internationally in such shows as Little Shop of Horrors, Hello, Dolly!, and Seven Brides for Seven Brothers, for which he won the Connecticut Critics' Circle Award in 1997 for his choreography. He was also Tommy Tune's co-choreographer for pre-Broadway workshops of Easter Parade in Sydney, Australia, and in New York City.

Forever Plaid was written and originally directed and choreographed by Stuart Ross, with musical continuity supervision and arrangements by James Raitt. It was originally produced by Gene Wolsk in New York in 1990.

Season subscriptions are available for $168, good for eight shows. Single tickets are $23 each, with discounts for students and seniors. For tickets, persons may call 304-599-6785 (or 1-877-999-9878 outside the 304 area code), or visit the WVPT Box Office between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

German Musical Roots Focus Of Penn Alps Event

The duo New Minstrels of the Rhine will perform at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 15, in the Great Hall adjacent to Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop as part of the 2002 Music at Penn Alps concert series.

Former music journalists Susanne Koehler and Armin Hadamer have performed as the New Minstrels of the Rhine throughout the United States for the past seven years. Their program reflects their interest and research in traditional American music reflecting German influences, especially the songs and stories in the mid-Atlantic region and Appalachian mountains. Their work has unearthed a wealth of songs and stories, and was rewarded with a grant by the Walter Cerf Fund and a scholarship from the Folk Alliance in Washington, D.C.

"Armin and Susanne literately sing the long lost connections between the German culture and American musical tradition back to life. In the process, they contribute to the rebuilding of cultural bridges for coming generations of Germans and Americans," said Heidi Whitesell, the editor of German Life magazine. "Just as the old minstrels of the Rhine shared their music with Americans during the 1840s, Koehler and Hadamer continue the American tradition of singing and playing as a family."

This performance is sponsored by the Casselman Inn. The audience is invited to a post-concert reception with refreshments provided by Penn Alps Restaurant. Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Sincell Publishing Company, Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, and other corporate and individual sponsors. Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville on Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices and locations for advance ticket sales, contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket holders should arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating. More information is available at the Web site www.musicatpennalps.org.

This work of drama, written in 1907, represents one of the thirty-five non-white families naturalized in Tucker County, WV. This will be its American premiere. The "new woman" takes matters into her own hands and demonstrates that feminism was not initiated in the 1960's.

It is ironic that this temperance melodrama was the first production ever performed in the Cottrell's Opera House, as the theatre initially was financially supported by the saloon downstairs. Of course, in the end, the town drunk has cleaned up by the final curtain.

Mr. Miller was born on May 25, 1910. In partnership with his brother, Alton Miller, he formed Miller Brothers in 1939, a farm equipment company located in Springs. Since retiring from the farm equipment business, he has maintained a wood-working shop and sewing machine repair business.

In addition to his business interests, Mr. Miller served as a board member of Mt. Mrs. Miller was born on September 27, 1906. For many years, she was a familiar figure at the Springs Folk Festival and Penn Alps Summerfest, at which she demonstrated the art of wool rug braiding. Her rugs can be found on the floors in many homes throughout the county. ## Balls Honored For 40 Years Of Marriage, 44 Years Of Ministry

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION was held recently for Pastor Meredith and Maxine Ball, Swanton, as they were honored for their 40 years of marriage, plus Pastor Ball's retirement after serving the United Methodist Church for 44 years. Attending a reception at the Swanton Community Center were approximately 200 of their friends and family members, including church members of most of the 11 different charges served by the Balls in over four decades of ministry. The couple is pictured below (photo courtesy of Sue Filsinger) "sharing" some of the cake that was made especially for the celebration. See story for details.

A retirement/anniversary celebration for Paster Meredith and Maxine Ball, Swanton, was held Saturday, June I, at the Swanton Community Center. A variety of food and beverages were available at the center, plus various photos and memorabilia from the Balls' 40 years of married life and 44 years of service in United Methodist ministry.

Food for the event included pork roast stuffed with saucrkraut and polish sausage prepared by Tom Stemple, Accident. A large white tent seated approximately 200 family members and friends from the 11 different UM charges that the Balls served. The outdoor pavilion housed the musicians, who were singers from Maxine's family, plus the Ray and Carol Sweitzer band.

Pastor Ball, whose final call was the Swanton-Kitzmiller UM charge, said he received the call into the ministry at age 13 in a small Methodist church, a call that was confirmed at age 19 during a mining accident in which he and a partner were nearly killed because of a fire in the mine.

Before entering seminary, the Methodist Theological School in Delaware, Ohio, in 1961, Pastor Ball served Snow Hill Methodist Church in Charleston, W.Va., in 1958 and '59. He received his bachelor of divinity degree in 1964. He was named a deacon at the West Virginia UM Conference in 1962 and an elder of the church at the same conference in 1964.

Other charges served by the Balls were: St. Paul's, Payne, Ohio; Pleasant Valley Charge (five churches); Trinity UMC, Bluefield, W.Va.; Oakvale UMC, Oakvale, W.Va.; Carr Memorial, Princeton, W.Va.; Franklin UMC, Wellsburg, W.Va.; Independence UMC, Independence, W.Va.; St. Paul's, Paden City, W.Va.; St. Luke's, Huntington, W.Va.; Trinity and Walden, both of Piedmont, W.Va.; Main St. UMC and Sites Chapel, Petersburg, W.Va.; and finally the Swanton-Kitzmiller Charge. Members of many of those churches attended the retirement celebration and spoke of their special relationships and experiences with the Ball family. Many others who could not attend sent letters and well wishes.

Pastor Ball married the former Maxine Hogan in 1961. They are the parents of two daughters, Marla, Cincinnati, and Monica, Omaha, Neb., and one son, Michael, Fairfield, Pa., who hosted the celebration with the congregations of Otterbein and Mt. Bethel churches. Other family members in attendance were from Garrett County, West Virginia, Virginia, and Ohio.

Cake, punch, mints, nuts, and a variety of other food was served along with the pork and sausage. Providing the flowers for the celebration was Jan Florist, Oakland. Photographer was Sue Filsinger.

Habitat For Humanity Planning Houses For Two Local Families

Two local families have been selected by the Garrett County affiliate of Habitat for Humanity (GCHFH) to receive better housing. The families are the Tippens from the Oakland area and the Stemples of Friendsville. A new home is being built for the Tippens and a current house is being renovated for the Stemple family, according to a Habitat spokesperson.

In asking Debby Tippen what prompted her to contact Habitat for Humanity for help, one may find out just how difficult it is to live in substandard housing.

"There are holes in the walls and roof, no insulation, sewer problems, and faulty wiring, just to name a few of the problems we have," Tippen said. "Last winter, it cost us over $2,000 to heat the home just a little under two months. At times, it was so cold in the house that we could see our breath."

Debby and her husband Paul are also concerned about possible asbestos in the shingles and lead in the paint that's chipping inside the almost 100-year-old rented house. They have two children, Arthur, who is 10, and Bethany, age 4.

"When Habitat contacted us to tell us we had been selected as the next partner family, I almost cried," said Debby. "And although it will be great to own our own home which will be safe, clean, and warm, the thing I look forward to most is the pride our children will have when they bring home friends to visit."

Their home will be in the Oakland area, according to Jeanne Blasher, Habitat executive director. This will be house #44 and the third house to be finished in 2002.

Working alongside Habitat to acquire a home appealed to the Tippens because they felt the process was appropriate.

"We don't want a handout. I never want to get something for nothing," Debby said. "Habitat helps you help yourself."

The Larry and Lovan Stemple family of Friendsville is GCHFH's 43rd partner family. The Stemple couple and their three children, Samantha, Jamie, and Jonathan (ages 11, 9, and 4) currently reside in two trailers which have been put together without a foundation. They have had problems heating their home, and because there is no well, they have had to rely on other sources for their water.

SELECTED FOR NEW HOUSING — Those two families are the most recently selected recipients of new housing from the Garrett County affiliate of Habitat for Humanity (GCHFH). The Stemples, pictured above, will soon relocate into a renovated home in Friendsville, and the Tippens at right will have a new home constructed in Oakland. Both families will make monthly payments to Habitat on interest-free mortgages, and they will contribute 500 hours of labor toward the work on their own homes or on other Habitat projects. See atory.

Habitat will purchase and rehabilitate a house with them in Friendsville. Being selected by Habitat was "an answer to a prayer," Mrs. Stemple said. The home they will be acquiring is an older home in need of some repairs, but the Stemples said they were pleased to be able to remain in Friendsville and avoid having to move their children to a different school. They were also relieved to know the mortgage payment would not be a financial burden, as it is within their budget, Blasher said.

The Tippens and the Stemples will be expected to make monthly payments to Habitat on interest-free mortgages, and will each be expected to contribute 500 hours of "sweat equity" toward the construction of either their homes or another Habitat home, or toward Habitat fund-raisers, Blasher said. Habitat mortgages are interest free, and without profit to the affiliate. All homeowners' payments are used to build more houses in Garrett County.

For more information on Habitat for Humanity, persons may call 301-334-9431, ext. 112.

Swanton Center Dinner Slated

Hospice Slates Program On Older Adult Depression

Hospice of Garrett County will present a program, "Depression in Older Adults," on Thursday, June 20, at 7 p.m. in the Community Service building at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland. A covered-dish dinner will be served prior to the presentation at 6 p.m.

The speaker for the evening will be Dr. Leigh S. Knotts, a Garrett County native from Kitzmiller and a graduate of Southern High School.

Knotts received her bachelor's degree in psychology, with a minor in gerontology, from Loyola College of Maryland in Baltimore, and her doctorate in psychology, with a special proficiency in behavioral medicine from Indiana University, Pa. She received the Graduate Student Outstanding Research Award for her dissertation, "Item Response Theory and Person-fit Analyses of the Revised NEO Personality Inventory Conscientiousness Domain."

She is currently employed as the western regional clinical director of Psychologists for Advanced Behavioral Care, a company that provides mental health services to adults in long-term settings. Knotts is also involved in some private practice and consulting.

The program is free and open to the public. To register, persons may call Hospice at 301-334-5151 or in the Grantsville area at 800-521-5252.

Secret Country Gardens Tour To Include Deep Creek Site

The Secret Country Gardens Tour, slated for Saturday, June 29, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., and sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, will include the garden of Donna and Robert Paul at Deep Creek Lake.

Located on the shores of Deep Creek Lake, the Pauls' home is surrounded by landscaped gardens. Ceramic containers of overflowing annuals adorn the decks overlooking the lake, a club member said. Strolling along the paths shaded by mature hemlocks, oaks, and maples, visitors will be led to colorful flower beds with antique objets d'art.

The well-manicured landscaping has been developed and maintained over the last 12 years by Julie (pictured) and her staff at Julie's Greenhouse and Landscaping LLC. Low maintenance plants have been a primary choice on this property with many rhododendron, holly, hosta, and hemlock.

Tickets for the garden tour, which will include coupons, maps, and written directions, are $5 and may be purchased in advance at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and Terra Alta, W.Va., and Deep Creek Pharmacy; or, on the day of the event, at the Gazebo in Oakland.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of area communities as well as the encouragement of gardening and conservation through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society. The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

(The information provided for last week's garden tour article included the wrong date for the event. Readers should note that the correct date is June 29, not June 23.)

A Father's Immortality

Last Father's Day my father smiled and talked with me, albeit weakly because he was very ill. A week later he summoned all his strength to look into my unsuspecting eyes and say, "I love you", very plainly... for the last time.

Throughout more than fifty years, my father gave so much of himself to me that he achieved his chance at "immortality" while he lived. This Father's Day he still lives... in my mind and in my heart.

I share my experience this Father's Day only to assure fathers everywhere that they too will achieve "immortality" with each word and deed they share with their sons and daughters. Though it is an awesome responsibility, fathers have an invaluable opportunity to imprint upon their children lifelong patterns of positive thoughts and behavior.

Won't you leave the legacy of enduring faith and the acceptance of God's will by worshiping as a family this week? The benefits are timeless.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SAFE AND SECURE

Background Scripture: Psalms 23, 80; 121.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 80:14-19.

Every month we get an invoice that is entered on our books as "Security." It is what we pay each month for our monitored house alarm system. Is it really security? Well, we feel more secure with it than without it, but, no, it can provide us with only a measure of security. The same is true of our fire, auto and life insurance. They do not give us total security, but they only reduce the risks to which we are all vulnerable.

Boynton Merrill tells of a college girl who, beset with anxiety, came to him for counseling. But one day she said: "I see now that God does not save me on the outside. It is this way: when you are safe on the inside, you are safe on every side." He concluded, "She had found the only security that really counts."

This is the security that God offers us, the security that makes the 23rd Psalm second only to the Lord's Prayer in popularity. It is interesting that this psalm should be so comforting to so many because, as some critics remind us, the life of the shepherd is so remote from us today that it cannot possibly mean to us what it meant to ancient peoples. Yet, although many of us have never seen a shepherd, the psalm, written at least 3,000 years ago, still is a great comfort to us.

Like A Shepherd

What is God like? "The Lord is my shepherd." Why? Because he watches over us in the same way that shepherds faithfully watch over their flocks. "I shall not want"—he supplies us with what we need, although not always what we want. The images of the psalm are essentially outward—green pastures, the dark valley, a rod and staff, a table and a cup that abundantly runs over—but the real security is within: "he restores my soul" and "goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life."

The true security God offers here is not divine intervention but himself: "I fear no evil for thou art with me." As Prof. Terrien observes: "...the poet fears neither want (vs. 1) nor peril (vs. 4) only because he recognizes the closeness of God in his existence...Evil is not ignored, nor even minimized, and foes are still in pursuit, but God-bronzed will power enables him to look, not at his enemies, but at his real pursuers, 'goodness and mercy'" (The Psalms and Their Meaning For Today, Bobbs-Merrill, 1952)

Evil is real, not imagined. Peril lies in wait for us at virtually every step. Some situations in life appear utterly unsolvable and even unbearable. That is a fact of life. But an even greater fact of life is that God is with us in the midst of tribulation and his presence is more real, more lasting, more powerful than anything else.

The Source of Help

In Psalm 121 we find the same assurance. Question: "From whence does my help come?" Answer: "My help comes from the Lord, who made heaven and earth" (121:1,2). Some people make the mistake of thinking that the psalmist is saying that "the hills are the source of his help. Scholars disagree on just what the Psalmist does mean here. Some say that the mountains make him lift his eyes above the present situation. Others say that they symbolize the abiding presence of the Lord. Still others believe that it is a reference to the Canaanite shrines that were built on hill tops and the Psalmist is saying that his help comes, not from those shrines, but from the Lord.

It doesn't really matter because "My help comes from the Lord", the God who created the universe, the one who watches over us and, unlike human protectors, and does not fall asleep on the watch. And, unlike every other kind of security system, God's security is eternal. "I shall dwell in the house of the Lord for ever" (23:6b). "The Lord will keep your going out and coming in from this time forth and for evermore" (121:8).

Is it by chance or by design that Psalm 23 separates Psalms 22 and 24? For Psalm 22 is a cry of deep anguish—"My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?". Psalm 24, on the other hand, is one of triumph.—" The Lord of hosts, he is the King of glory!" Psalm 23 acknowledges the dark valleys and makes possible the triumph with the safe and secure recognition: "For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me."

Joely, Carrie Fisher have the same father

By Taylor Michaels

Joely Fisher

Q: Is Joely Fisher of "Baby Boh" related to "Star Wars" actress Carrie Fisher? –David Hume, Denver.

A: They're half sisters, sharing singer Eddie Fisher as a father. Joely's mother is Connie Stevens; Carrie's is Debbie Reynolds.

Q: As an original member of "the peanut gallery," I seem to remember an additional host (other than Buffalo Bob) named "Bison Bill." True? –Alfred Decker via e-mail.

A: True. According to Howard L. Davis, a member of the show's creative team, New York disk jockey Ted Brown played Bison Bill, among the guest hosts who filled in following "Buffalo Bob" Smith's massive 1954 heart attack. (Another company member, Allen Swift, supplied Howdy's voice while Smith was on the mend).

Q: Who was the funny, heavyset actress who played on the series "Bosom Buddies" years ago? What is she doing now? –R. Stafford, Phoenix, Ariz.

A: Wendie Jo Sperber, 39, most recently played Professor Bendler in the college movie comedy "Sorority Boys," which had a men-posing-as-women story line broadly like the premise of "Bosom Buddies," the '80s cult comedy series in which she co-starred with Tom Hanks, Peter Scolari and Holland Taylor.

Since that sitcom ended its too-brief run, Sperber has been a cast regular on such variable shows as "Private Benjamin," "Women in Prison," "Babes" and "Hearts Afire" as well as movie comedies including "Bachelor Party," "Back to the Future" and "Stewardess School."

Off-camera, the lovable comedy performer was playing out a very personal drama, however. In 1998, Sperber – who has two children from a 1983-94 marriage – was diagnosed with breast cancer. Last April, she was told that the cancer had spread throughout her body.

These days, Sperber channels her energies as CEO, founder and volunteer of weSPARK, a center dedicated to enhancing the quality of life for cancer patients, their friends and families. Its Website, www.wespark.org, provides a bounty of other information as well as links to make donations and even contact Sperber herself.

Q: Could you please provide an address to write to E! Entertainment Television? –Vynola Perkins, West Jordan, Utah.

A: E! Entertainment Television, 5750 Wilshire Blvd., West Tower, Los Angeles, CA 90036.

In Focus

A helicopter for transporting patients to Memorial Hermann Hospital in Houston is part of the drama shown in "Houston Medical," a six-part nonfiction series beginning Tuesday, June 18, on ABC.

"Houston Medical" takes viewers into the lives of real doctors to give viewers an idea of what really occurs in a hospital. Mamie Rose, 27, is a pediatric resident battling brain cancer. Surgeon Mark Henry can mend accident victims, but his long hours threaten his marriage.

Tuesday

The work of trauma surgeon Dr. James "Red" Duke is a subject in the new reality series "Houston Medical" Tuesday on ABC.

The Domestic Abuse Support/Education group, which will have meeting sites in both Oakland and Grantsville, will meet for the first time on Thursday, June 20, at the Oakland office from 10 to 11:30 a.m., and later that same evening at the Grantsville office from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Further information about these and other Dove Center services can be obtained by calling those numbers as well.

"One of our main goals to help victims of domestic violence and abuse realize that they are not alone," a Dove Center spokesperson said. "Meeting other victims in similar circumstances is often beneficial to healing and changing one's own life for the better."

Town Council Discusses Traffic Control Ideas

Different methods to control local traffic were discussed at a recent Oakland town council meeting. Traffic has increased more than projected, which has caused congestion in the area.

According to Ken Gotsch, council member, the proposed Route 219 bypass will solve the problem but is a "future solution." He cited that areas around Second, Third, Fourth, and Eighth streets have increased traffic and speed issues.

Wes Guckert, president of the Traffic Group, said that there is no single solution.

One way sections, turn restrictions, and speed humps are some methods to reduce cut-through traffic, he said. He added that medians, islands, traffic circles, and landscaping can improve aesthetics and also calm traffic.

Mayor Asa McCain said that the town is looking at different ways to control traffic. Persons may get more information at www.trafficgroup.com.

• In the 19th century, many cities in America experienced a flood of immigration from Ireland. These immigrants often lived in crowded slums, and drunkenness and rioting were fairly commonplace. When the police arrived, they brought with them vehicles to cart off those they arrested. Since the police (and the offenders) were often of Irish descent, these vehicles came to be known as "paddy wagons," "Paddy" being a shortened form of "Patrick."

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have an old cast-iron doorstop in the shape of a frog. Although I don't know much about it, the heirloom has been in my family for at least three generations. The paint is original and seems to be in fairly good shape. How can I find out how much it might be worth? — *Steve, St. Paul, Minn.

A. According to the sixth edition of the Garage Sale & Flea Market Annual published by Collector Books, there are three important factors to consider when buying or selling doorstops — rarity, desirability and condition. If a doorstop is interesting, well-designed and detailed, it becomes especially collectible.

Since most doorstops are made of cast iron, the condition of the original paint is important. Some important fields that have attracted collectors in recent years include those issued as advertising premiums and others reflecting Black Americana. Animals, historic figures and elves are also desirable.

Hubley was an important manufacturer, but collectors should be aware that many of the original molds were sold to the John Wright Company, and reproductions are rampant in the marketplace. When considering the purchase of a doorstop, look carefully at the seams to make certain they fit properly. Another indication of a fake is a grainy surface or paint that seems too bright for an older piece.

Values include a Frog on Mushroom, $200; Dolly Dimple, marked Hubley, $325; a Boston Bulldog, $250; and a Teddy Roosevelt election souvenir, $450.

Jeanne Bertoia is both a doorstop collector and dealer. Her postal and e-mail addresses are 2141 DeMarco Drive, Vineland, NJ 08360; and bill@bertoiaauctions.com.

Paw's corner

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Contrary to your statement in a recent column that "all dogs shed fur," all dogs do not shed fur. Poodles, for example, do not shed fur. Instead, they need to get haircuts every so often. I believe there are also other dogs that do not shed, maybe Chihuahuas. — S.N. T., Huntsville, Ala.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I just read your column in the Daily Hampshire Gazette on shedding dogs. Why not write something about the fact that there are several dog breeds that do NOT shed and are good for people with allergies to pet dander?

I have a Tibetan terrier and know (since my daughter has allergies to animals) that this breed does not shed, and usually does not cause problems for allergy suffers either. Also, Bichon Frise, poodle, Shih Tzu, Llahsa Apso, the Portuguese water dog and even the bearded collie (though being large they have a lot of hair).

People should think about breeds that do not have shedding problems before a purchase. Tibetans are wonderful family pets, very affectionate, small (12-24 pounds), not noisy and want to be with you! They also like strangers, visitors, etc. — Mina H., Northampton, Mass.

DEAR READERS: Well, I got quite a response from that statement! So many people wrote in listing breeds of dog that do not shed hair, that I went back to the research board.

Turns out that many breeds are listed as "non-shedding" (many were listed by Mina, above). However, according to the staff at PetSmart.com, "Most people believe that poodles do not shed. This, however, is a myth, because poodles do shed their dead hair just as most breeds do. Poodles have a dense undercoat that is coarse and curly. The dead hair actually gets caught in the undercoat and is unable to fall out through the coat. This causes the coat to mat easily if dead hair is not removed frequently by brushing."

Poodles and other "non-shedding" breeds also produce very little dander, which, as Mina points out, is ideal for owners with allergies. Perhaps it would be better to call them "non-allergic" dogs. In any case, thanks to all my readers for writing in!

Employees of each facility walked to accumulate as many miles as possible for 12 consecutive weeks. "This challenge not only promoted team spirit among the employees, it helped everyone get into better shape," commented GCMH wellness coordinator Deana Chester. In 12 weeks, hospital employees accumulated 15,960.74 miles. At the end of the challenge, the hospital's Wellness Department treated its entire team to a pizza party, where the top 20 walkers were presented with special gifts. THE SIGN OF AN EXCEPTIONAL SALES ASSOCIATE.

I thought buying my first house was going to be a difficult experience. I had heard all kinds of horror stories from friends and family about what it takes to buy a house. However, after meeting with Lana Roby, I realized that this was not going to be at all as horrible as I had imagined. Because of her knowledge, I was able to secure an excellent house in a relatively short period of time. Her skills enabled me to complete all of my paperwork before I had even found my house so that when I did I would be ready to close. She helped me avoid the pitfalls typically associated with buying a house by preparing me before they happened. I could not have asked for a better situation. When it's time to sell, you can bet I'll be calling her again.

A number of Garrett County residents have distinguished themselves by earning recognition from West Virginia University, Morgantown, for outstanding academic achievement over the spring semester, WVU president David C. Hardesty Jr. announced recently.

President's List

Three Friendsville residents — Stephen Hinebaugh, Angela Sessa, and Laurel Wolf — earned WVU President's List honors by attaining a perfect 4.0 grade point average, joining over 1,000 other undergraduates who qualified for the prestigious list.

Each of the trio are seniors. Hinebaugh is majoring in forest resources management, Sessa is majoring in pre-pharmacy, and Wolf is majoring in exercise physiology.

Each student on the President's List received a letter and a certificate denoting the WVU Presidential Award for Excellence in Scholarship.

Dean's List

The WVU Dean's List honors students who take 12 or more hours of credits in graded courses and earn a 3.5-3.9 GPA, with no incompletes. A total of 3,200 students were named to the university's Dean's List for the spring 2002 semester.

These residents (with class year and major included) of the following GC communities were named to the Dean's List. Accident: Peter Winter, junior, general studies. Mtn. "At WVU, we strive to give our students every opportunity to meet and exceed their goals, and these students have made the most of those opportunities," Hardesty commented. "They can be proud of the academic excellence they have achieved and we share that pride with them."

GIRL SCOUTS DISTRIBUTE AWARDS — Girl Scout Troop 5004 held its awards ceremony at the Blakeslee Clubhouse recently as the scouts completed another year of scouting. The troop also worked throughout the year toward a Tip Top Troop Award, which the girls earned for excelling in their scouting accomplishments. For more information about the Girl Scouts, persons may talk to a local Girl Scout leader, call 1-800-248-3355, or visit www.girlscouts.org on-line. ## FSU To Launch Urban, Regional Planning Major Frostburg State University will launch a new major in Urban and Regional Planning this fall. The new interdisciplinary major is a cooperative effort of the departments of geography, economics, political science, and sociology to prepare students for careers in urban planning and regional development. Students who complete the program will earn a bachelor of science in urban and regional planning degree.

FSU has been offering courses in urban planning for over 40 years, and over 200 graduates have specialized in urban issues. Rising professional standards for planners, greater levels of urban development, and the increasing demand for urban services in small towns led to the decision to develop a new major, according to an FSU spokesperson. The new program will better prepare students for professional employment, graduate study, and certification. It will also be the only undergraduate major in urban and regional planning offered in the state of Maryland. FSU is a member of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Planning.

Students in the urban and regional planning major will complete introductory courses in several social science disciplines, a 33-hour professional core of advanced courses, and select a professional focus and elective courses. They may also complete a full- or part-time internship as a part of the program.

Professional focuses for students include advanced work in community planning, tourism development, mapping sciences, or environmental planning. The community planning focus will be of particular interest to students concerned with social service issues and economically depressed communities. The tourism development focus utilizes two new courses at FSU: The Geography of Tourism and Tourism Planning. The mapping sciences focus allows students to develop expertise in the application of Geographic Information Science to planning problems. The environmental planning focus introduces issues developed more fully in FSU's Environmental Analysis and Planning major.

Henry W. Bullamore, professor of geography, is coordinating the new program. Dr. Bullamore has been on the faculty of FSU for over 16 years and recently returned from teaching small town planning at the University of Turku in Finland on a Fulbright Grant. He is a member of the American Institute of Certified Planners.

For more information, persons may contact Dr. Bullamore in the FSU Department of Geography at 301-687-4413.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Corps Pfc. Adam R. Carper, son of Margrette Carburgh of Accident and Allen R. Carper, Edgewater, recently completed basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C., and was meritoriously promoted to his current rank.

Carper successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally.

Carper and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m. by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to participating in the physical conditioning program, Carper spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments, which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat, and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Carper and other recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values — honor, courage, and commitment, and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct.

Carper and fellow recruits ended the training phase with The Crucible, a 54-hour team effort, problem solving evolution, which culminated with an emotional ceremony in which the recruits were presented the Marine Corps Emblem, and were addressed as "Marines" for the first time since boot camp began.

Carper is a 2000 graduate of South River High School of Edgewater.

THE FLOOR STORE INC., formerly of Grantsville, is now a Kayser's Ridge business, having just moved to a new location along U.S. Rt. 219. According to a company spokesperson, the move was made to "better serve our customers." # Breaking the Cycle of Poverty in Garrett County

Our solution works! We need your help.

There is an effective way to break the cycle of poverty. It is working wonders here in Garrett County—right now. If you find yourself blessed, we urgently ask that you join our "square foot club" Help build decent, affordable homes with Garrett County residents caught in the endless cycle of poverty.

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity knows good people ...working people ...forced to live in substandard housing simply because it is affordable. Our goal is to build simple and affordable homes for qualifying families and help them on their way to successful home ownership.

This is not a charity program

In return, these families commit at least 500 hours of "sweat equity"—hard work—working on their own (and other) homes. Our program is built on the solid Christian principle of helping our neighbor in need and charging no interest. Homeowners do commit to a no-interest mortgage to repay our investment in their homes.

100% success record

Our history is unblemished. We have built 43 homes in Garrett County over the years, and not once have we had a family default on its commitment to pay off Habitat's investment in their homes.

Perhaps you have heard of Habitat's program. Members of our community and volunteers from other communities donate their time and talents to our program, as we seek to build at least three homes every year. It costs us about $43,000 to build each new home of approximately 1,000 sq. ft. of living space.

We need your gift

Could you pledge $43.00 to fund one square foot of space in one of these new homes? Perhaps more? Right now, Habitat has several qualified applicants waiting for homes here in Garrett County. The need is real, and the need is urgent.

In addition to financial commitment, we always are seeking volunteers—both skilled and unskilled—to help us build the homes so urgently needed here in Garrett County. Call us today

"I really believe in Habitat. It transforms not just people but whole communities. I wish the whole world worked that way."
—Amber Barton

"You feel a lot better about yourself, owning a home. It boosts your self-esteem."
—Karen Sisler

Your gift will allow us to continue building homes

Would you like to see your investment of $43, or $430, or more, directly contribute to helping a deserving family move from a poorly heated "shack" with minimal facilities into an affordable, properly insulated and equipped home?

Our goal: No more shacks in Garrett County!

Your money stays here

Every dollar you give will go toward Garrett County home construction. Your funds will not leave the county.

Be generous

Please fill in and return the coupon below now ... so Garrett County Habitat for Humanity will be able to meet its goal for building three new homes this year. Every dollar you invest will bring visible, tangible results ... building a better community with decent, affordable houses in Garrett County.

Care Extends From W.Va. To Africa Through Hospice Nurse's Journey

by Melissa Smith, Special Projects Coordinator
Hospice Care Corporation

Marie Sines, a certified hospice and palliative care nurse for Hospice Care, headquartered in Arthurdale, undertook a three week mission trip to Kenya recently. During her visit Sines delivered 90 pounds of medical supplies donated by Hospice Care and Gregg's Pharmacy of Oakland to the Eldoret Hospice located in the village of Kapenguria.

The Eldoret Hospice, one of four that serve Kenya, has four nurses who are all palliative care certified. The dire poverty prevents patients and their families from paying for their services, so the hospice is dependent on donations for all medications and supplies. Many times the hospice staff is without supplies and unable to meet patient needs.

Sines found the hospice services in Kenya much different from those of West Virginia. The largest difference, visitation frequency, is due to the lack of transportation. Most of the general population of the area walks to get where they need to go, and none of the nursing staff owns or drive a vehicle.

Patients travel to the hospice as long as their health allows; after that family members will come for advice and medications and supplies. The hospice does have one room with seven beds to provide basic respite care through the day to control acute symptoms or pain that is out of control. The staffing and facility limitations preclude 24-hour care, so the patient must have improved enough to travel home with family at the end of the day, or further treatment must be sought at the local hospital.

During Sines's visit, only two patients were being seen in their homes, but she was able to accompany one of the Kenyan nurses to one of those visits. The following is an excerpt from Marie's travel journal describing her visit:

"The drive to the patient's row house was over deeply rutted roads traversable only by four-wheel drive. We stepped over garbage and walked around mud puddles to reach their section of a long building with eight to ten one-room apartments. Their room was about 12 feet square with a single door and window. A narrow bed was along the far wall, with other furnishings piled around it. There was neither inside toilet facilities nor running water.

"The patient's mother had prepared a lunch of beans and chapatti (similar to a flour tortilla) on a small charcoal burner sitting on the floor near the door. Laundry hung from lines stretched across the room. We were offered small stools to sit on. The patient was a 19-year-old girl with a large wound on the stump of her thigh where her leg had been amputated. Her prognosis is short term. She was initially injured while playing at school. Due to the lack of medical care at the time of the injury she developed tetanus in the wound which continued to spread.

HOSPICE CARE NURSE VISITS KENYA — Marie Sines, a registered nurse and palliative care provider with Arthurdale-based Hospice Care Corporation, traveled to Kenya recently to present a donation of medical supplies and observe the work of the staff of the Eldoret Hospice in Kapenguria. Sines is shown presenting the supplies, donated by Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and the Hospice Care Corporation, to staffers at the Kenyan hospice, which often runs completely out of supplies. Medicines, including those to control pain, are at a premium in the east African nation. Diseases, infections, and injuries that pose mere inconveniences here in America can be a matter of life and death in Kenya, where the average life expectancy is 46 years. Sines is available to speak about her trip to churches, groups, and other organizations, and persons may call Hospice Care at 1-800-350-1161 for further details.

"The Kenyan hospice nurse spent time with the patient's mother, teaching her how to care for her daughter and providing emotional support to both mother and daughter. The girl was very quiet, speaking one-word answers in Swahili. Before we left, [the nurse] gave the mother four small packages of 4x4 gauze dressings.

[The nurse] explained [to me] after we left that she did not change the dressing to assess the wound due to lack of supplies to re-dress it. She lamented "We have no more gauze left at the office." When they run out of clean supplies, they wash out the gauze and re-use it. The nurse was overjoyed to find dressing supplies in the container of medical supplies which I had taken for them."

Sines's activities also included providing first aid at the mission compound, baking wedding cakes (one of which she had the honor to cut), walking to town each day to get the mail, and near-constant cleaning due to the stream of people visiting for help. She was also provided a tour of the local hospital estimated to be 40 years behind us in care.

Sines partook of the Kenyan diet during her stay, sharing meals of fresh fruits and vegetables — and goat, the staple meat of the countryside — with her hosts. She also saw a great deal of the countryside and its natural wonders, including the zebras and baboons that grazed along the roads, as well as giraffes, water buffaloes, wart hogs, deer, monkeys, and ostriches.

Besides seeing a new country, the trip gave Sines the opportunity to spend valuable time with her children, who work as missionaries at Kapenguria.

"Americans do not comprehend how well their lifestyle is," Sines observed upon her return home. "We are blessed beyond measure."

Groups, organizations, and churches interested in scheduling Sines for a speaking engagement about her trip may contact Hospice Care (which serves Preston, Tucker, Barbour, Randolph, and Taylor counties) at 1-800-350-1161.

EPIDS Program Receives World Health Award

The Eastern Panhandle Integrated Delivery System (EPIDS), Petersburg and Martinsburg, W.Va., recently received a Leadership Award from the American Association for World Health at the World Health Day 2002 awards ceremony. The ceremony was held in April.

The EPIDS Rural Health Outreach Grant Program was recognized as one of four U.S. and three international programs for outstanding achievement in building awareness about the importance of physical fitness.

"A coalition was formed by Grant Memorial Hospital as lead agency, the Potomac Highland Guild, Grant County Health Department, and Region 8 Support Services to develop programs, projects, and services to implement the seven grant goals," said Frances Welton, grant coordinator.

"The Rural Health Outreach Grant goals have been implemented through the health departments; Committee on Aging and Family Services; mental health groups that provide services to the six counties, the Hardy County Health and Wellness Center; and Grant Memorial Hospital," added Welton.

The Rural Health Outreach Grant Program promotes physical activity and mental health services for the medically under-served elderly, age 55 and older, in Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Morgan, Pendleton, and Tucker counties.

The program provides exercise physiologists at Grant Memorial Hospital and the Hardy County Health and Wellness Center to provide nutrition education, supervised exercise and educational programs focusing on weight loss, cardiovascular health, and stress reduction.

"When we put grants together and implement them, we don't always know and can't always see if we truly are making a difference," said Robert L. Harman, Grant Memorial Hospital CEO.

"This award, as well as preliminary reports, indicates that we are being successful with this grant program," continued Harman. "We can have healthier communities because of the efforts and programs that have been provided in the past two years by our grant partnership agencies who have worked so diligently on this grant."

The program also distributes a published resource directory of health care providers in the six-county area to service agencies, libraries, churches, and other meeting places.

Additionally, health fairs in each county that provides cost-effective health care screenings and educational prevention information on physical and mental health issues are sponsored by the program.

It also focuses on support groups focusing on diabetes, heart disease, and cancer for patients and their families.

Grant Memorial Hospital is the lead agency for the EPIDS Rural Health Outreach Grant.

Alpine Lake Group Slates Annual Tour

The Alpine Lake Property Owners' Committee will host its annual Leisure Living House Tour on Sunday, June 23, from 1 until 5 p.m. at the Alpine Resort Community in West Virginia. Alpine Lake is located along Alpine Lake Road off W.Va. Rt. 7 between Oakland and Terra Alta, W.Va.

Surrounding the 148-acre lake in this recreational community are a 18-hole golf course, lodge, boathouse, beach, and more than 350 homes. During the Leisure Living House Tour, three of these homes and one garden will be open for visitors.

"Although each of the open homes is distinctive in style," said Joan Evans, spokesperson for the committee, "they each feature designs that harmonize with their natural settings and provide spectacular views of the surrounding forests and lake."

In conjunction with the tour, there will be an arts and crafts show featuring creations by Alpine Lake residents. Paintings, photographs, and quilts will be among the items on display at the lodge during the tour.

Tour participants are also invited to stop at the Boathouse, where refreshments will be served. Additionally, at each stop on the tour, participants will have the opportunity to purchase chances to win a handmade item created by an Alpine Lake resident.

Tickets for the home tour cost $5 and may be purchased at the Alpine Lake Lodge. Proceeds from the event and raffle will benefit beautification projects at the lake and in Terra Alta.

ALPINE LAKE HOSTS HOME TOUR — The summer residence of Jim Murtha, Baltimore, is one of three homes and a garden that will be open during the annual Leisure Living Home Tour to be held at Alpine Lake, W.Va., on Sunday, June 23, from 1 until 5 p.m. See story for more details. Murtha's house, shown above, is located on Lakeview Drive and was built in 2000 by Grove Construction Company. The three-level cedar siding home features a stone fireplace, vaulted wood paneled ceiling, hardwood floors, and wrap-around deck.

Sam Roth of Horse Shoe Run was a recent patient at Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown.

Returning to Aurora for their grandmother's funeral were Tina Pint of Bellingham, Wash., and Carla Fint of Parsippany, N.J. Also here for the funeral was Mrs. Fint's son Alvin, of California.

Two area residents and Preston High students, Kari Harsh and Ashley Baehtell have been chosen to attend Mountaineer Girls' State, and are spending this week at Jackson's Mill. Kari is the daughter of Ronnie and Delores Harsh, and Ashley is the daughter of Bill and Diana Bacntel.

Sunday's guest minister at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren was Glenn Nissley. This was Pulpit Exchange Sunday for the West Marva District. Glenn, his wife Joann, and their two sons are now residing at Camp Galilee, Terra Alta, where he is serving as caretaker. Recognized during Sunday morning's service were the children who attend Sunday School and the three graduates, Cathy Sisler, Lindsey Teets, and Allen Hartsell. A party for those honored followed the morning service.

Debbie Strawser of Eglon had out-patient surgery last week at Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Eligibility For Loan Deficiency Pymts. Extended

A provision in the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 extending eligibility for 2001 crop year loan deficiency payments (LDPs) should be welcome news to Maryland farmers in that the new regulations open the LDP payments program up to all producers, not just those with PFC contracts. Any producer of corn, soybeans, wheat, barley, grain sorghum, or oats who has not previously earned a LDP payment on the commodity before it was marketed may now be eligible for benefits.

"A special provision in the new farm bill extends 2001 crop year LDP eligibility to farmers who produced eligible commodities on non-Production Flexibility Contract farms or who lost beneficial interest in crops before applying for program benefits," said Steve Connelly, state executive director of the Maryland Farm Service Agency.

Connelly said subject to certain conditions, for crop year 2001 only, a producer who was previously ineligible for a LDP might now be eligible for benefits even if the commodity has already been marketed. The payment rate will be based on the date the producer marketed or lost beneficial interest in the commodity. To be eligible the producer must not have previously received a marketing assistance loan or LDP on the applicable commodity; the commodity must be eligible, and, the producer must not have exceeded 2001 crop year program payment limitations.

Producers who are eligible according to the special provisions must request a 2001 LDP using CCC-633 LDP on or before 30 calendar days after the publication of the regulations in the Federal Register. The date will be announced when the regulation is published. For additional information, contact your local USDA Service Center or visit our web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Md. To Conduct First Census Of Horse Numbers

The first official census of the horse population in Maryland is slated to begin in August, and all 21,000 horse owners and stable operators across the state are urged to respond to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service questionnaire when it arrives. The statistics service is currently testing the questionnaire, which was contracted through the Maryland Horse Industry Board.

The reason for gathering and developing accurate equine statistics is to measure the size and impact of the industry for public and private decision-making purposes, not to be part of any licensing, testing, or other regulatory activity, according to Maryland Department of Agriculture secretary Hagner R. Mister.

"We know that there are a lot of horses in Maryland and that the equine industry is economically important," Mister stated. "Getting an accurate count of equine animals is the first step in planning economic development, health, safety, and emergency activities and in understanding the breadth of the industry's economic impact."

"The horse industry has asked us to find out how many animals there are, the total amount of land associated with equine operations, and the economic scope and importance of the industry in Maryland," said state statistician Ray Garibay. "We look forward to working with horse owners and equine facility operators to get reliable answers to those questions."

Anyone who owns a horse or pony of any breed or a mule, donkey, or burro should receive a questionnaire. Any equine owner or stable operator who does not receive a survey in August should request one from the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service at 410-841-5740 or 800-675-0295. For more information about the MASS, persons may log on to www.nass.usda.gov/md.

The Maryland Horse Industry Board promotes the horse industry in Maryland and licenses boarding and rental facilities in the state. Further information about the board is available on its web site at www.marylandhorseindustry.org.

"It is important that everyone who receives a questionnaire respond," said Gregory W. Gingery, chairman of the Maryland Horse Industry Board and show horse owner. "Whether you own a single horse for your family's recreational use or run a large breeding or training facility, we need your input. Anyone concerned about submitting personal or financial information should know that by law, all such information is strictly confidential."

Storms Provide Relief From Dry Conditions

Thunderstorms moved through many areas of the state during the week, causing wind damage in some areas. Though these thunderstorms provided some much needed rain, subsequent winds coupled with the lack of existing soil moisture left many areas dry again after only a few days. Maryland farmers were able to spend an average of 5.6 days suitable for field work for the week ending June 9. Reports suggest an early barley and wheat harvest in some areas. Cucumbers, snap beans, cantaloupes, and sweet corn plantings continue.

Corn and soybeans continue to emerge, with the majority of both rated in fair to good condition. Soybeans are rated 1 percent very poor, 8 percent poor, 30 percent fair, 55 percent good, and 7 percent excellent. Corn is rated 8 percent poor, 30 percent fair, 55 percent good, and 7 percent excellent.

Topsoil moisture is currently rated 5 percent very short, 24 percent short, and 71 percent adequate. Subsoil moisture is rated 19 percent very short, 48 percent short, and 33 percent adequate.

Caring for Annual Flowers

Mulching

Most annuals benefit from applications of organic mulches to retain moisture in the soil and smother weeds. Grass clippings, shredded leaves or bark, compost, and other organic materials also improve the soil as they break down.

Watering

While some annuals are drought-tolerant, most need plenty of water. If the soil dries ont due to lack of rain, it's important to thoroughly soak the soil when you water, not just wet the surface. It's also important to keep the foliage and flowers as dry as possible to prevent disease. Soaker hoses and drip irrigation do this best. If you use sprinklers, run them in the morning so that the plants dry quickly in the sun. Watering individual plants by hand takes patience to supply enough water to thoroughly soak the soil.

Pinching

Some annuals respond well to pinching — removing the growing tips by pinching off the small, developing leaves at the ends of stems. This forces more lateral growth, making the plant bushier and shorter.

Staking

Some tall annuals tend to fall over, especially when they are heavy with flowers. To keep them upright, you can locate them so other plants help support them, or back them up against a fence or other structure and fasten them with twine. Another alternative is to insert stakes of wood, bamboo, or other unobtrusive material in the soil adjacent to the plants while they are still small and, as they grow, fasten the plants to the stake. Other commercial products are available to support plants.

Deadheading

Many annuals benefit from removing flowers once they begin to fade. A weekly walk through the garden deadheading spent blooms will keep many annuals flowering longer and more profusely. Some will stop blooming and die if not deadheaded. A few need to be cut back severely in midseason to encourage a new flush of growth and flowering in late summer and fall. Some annuals readily self-seed. If you want to prevent them from doing so, you need to deadhead faithfully. A few annuals, such as begonias, do not benefit from deadheading.

Fertilizing

Most annuals need fertile, well-drained soil for healthy growth. That's why it's important to incorporate organic matter when preparing beds. Some soils may also benefit from incorporating granular fertilizer before planting. (Check your soil test results to see how much you need.) Slow release sources of nitrogen applied at planting can meet nitrogen needs for the entire season. If annuals become short of nitrogen, often indicated by yellowing of younger leaves, you can sidedress granular fertilizer or apply liquid fertilizer.

Participants Sought for Woodland & Wildlife Management Program

Woodland owners and others who want to learn more about forests and the wildlife that live in them — in exchange for a commitment to share that knowledge with others — are invited to apply for training as "Coverts (pronounced kuh'-verts) Cooperators."

Named for thickets that provide shelter for wildlife, the Coverts Project is a woodland and wildlife management program sponsored by Maryland Cooperative Extension and the Ruffed Grouse Society. Since 1991, nearly 300 Maryland residents have been trained and taught thousands of other woodland owners about sound forest stewardship practices that can make wildlife healthier, more diverse and more abundant.

Thirty more Coverts Cooperators will be trained this year. They will attend a free, comprehensive, three-day seminar from September 26 - 30 in Washington County, Maryland. The seminar will feature indoor and outdoor instruction in general forestry and wildlife management principles. In return for the training, reference materials and follow-up seminars, the new Coverts Cooperators will develop or improve a forest stewardship plan for their woodlands and commit a year to sharing information with neighbors and others in their communities.

Applications are due by June 21. For information or an application, write to The Coverts Project, 18330 Keedysville Road, Keedysville MD 21756, or call 301-432-2767 x301. Information and an application form are also available on the web at http://www.naturalresources.umd.edu/Covert_Project.html

A BUG'S EYE VIEW — The farmland around Garrett County has taken on a definite green hue, as the corn and other grains of choice have broken through the earth's surface and are reaching skyward. While appearing rather tall, this corn is actually only 6 inches high, about halfway to the "knee-high" size expected by the Fourth of July. (Staff photographer John McEwen got down and dirty to snap this shot.) The weather on the whole has been frustrating for area farmers this spring, with lots of rain early on that delayed planting, and several very cold nights that frosted some tender crops. But unpredictable weather is nothing new to the mountaintop's seasoned growers, who press on in their difficult, often thankless work. Hats off to the Garrett County farmer!

Accident Readies For Annual July 4th Celebration

The town of Accident will celebrate its annual July 4 homecoming with a full day of activities with events starting at 9 a.m.

Opening festivities will begin at 9 a.m., with an ecumenical worship service at St. Paul's Church followed by the flag-raising ceremony and then the firemen's parade at 11 a.m. Dinners will be served beginning at noon.

A variety of musical entertainment will begin at noon and continue throughout the day until 8 p.m.

A variety of food and beverages will be available during the day. Food is sponsored by the Accident Volunteer Fire Department and will be served by Accident area residents. For further information, persons may call Accident town hall at 301-746-6346 any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday.

WYE OAK DESCENDANT THRIVING AT HICKORY — All things must pass, but despite the recent loss of the revered Wye Oak on the Eastern Shore, a tree grown from a sapling of the venerable white oak is well on its way to maturity at Hickory, Garrett County Schools' Environmental Education Center. Until toppled by a recent windstorm, Maryland's former state tree stood for an estimated 460 years in Talbot County. This 30-foot tall Wye Oak descendant was donated to Hickory by the Maryland Forest Service, and transplanted into its present location in 1976 when it was about the size of these local fifth graders who are participating in a current summer residential program at the center. Shown from the left are Accident Elementary students Daniel Beltzel, Chelsie Custer, Alex Smith, and Brian Brsmande, and Ariel Slagle and Ashely Calhoun of Friendsville Elementary, and in the background is Hickory coordinator Joe Winters, who was with the center when the tree arrived. The tree is temporarily surrounded by plastic fencing to provide protection from construction of the school system's new Planetarium, set to be completed by late fall. If this tree is as hardy as its forebearer, 16 generations of descendants of these local children could conceivably pose for this picture over the next 4½ centuries.

Rt. 219 Project Preview Draws Salisbury Crowd

A Monday night open house meeting in Pennsylvania introduced the proposed highway improvement project for U.S. Route 219 North from Interstate 68 that would connect with the existing four-lane bypass at Meyersdale, Pa. The cost of the eight miles of improvements is projected at $120 - $160 million, and the entire planning process could take as long as six years, with a two-year construction timetable to follow a proposed 2008 ground-breaking date.

As many as 250 people passed through the Salisbury, Pa., borough hall during the three-hour session to view display posters that outlined the most preliminary aspects of the project and the projected

Project HomeSafe Launched To Protect Children From Firearms

Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office are working together to promote gun safety in the home. Susan Athey-Oxford, president and CEO of Children and Families, and Sheriff Dick Sanders launched Project HomeSafe this week during the Garrett County commissioners' public meeting.

Project HomeSafe is a nationwide program of the National Shooting Sports Foundation (NSSF) which promotes safe and responsible firearm ownership and storage. The program distributes free firearms safety kits that include safety brochures and gun-locking devices. It is funded by the shooting sports industry, state and local partners, and a Bureau of Justice Assistance grant administered through the U.S. Department of Justice.

"Making sure kids are safe in their homes is very important," Athey-Oxford told the commissioners. "The sheriff's department and the Partnership for Children and Families are pleased to present the kick-off for Project HomeSafe."

She said that her agency and Sanders were planning a number of firearms safety activities and coordinating a countywide plan to implement the program. Currently, the local program has 400 firearm locks to distribute to residents, she said. But local partners are being sought to help purchase additional ones. Athey-Oxford gave each of the commissioners a sample of the cable-style locking devices that will be distributed.

The program will be just one of several components of the Partnerships' Healthy Communities/Healthy Youth safety projects, said Athey Oxford.

Sanders added that most firearm accidents involving children are the result of their curiosity about the weapons. "We want to prevent accidents with these gun locks," he said. The locks prevent children from firing the weapon or loading it with ammunition.

National Road Designated As "All American"

Governor Parris N. Glendening last week announced that the U.S. Department of Transportation selected the Historic National Road as an All-American Road. U.S. Secretary of Transportation made the official announcement at a ceremony held last Thursday at historic Union Station in Washington, D.C.

"Our roads reveal much about our state's history," said Glendening. "From the bustling city of Baltimore to the majestic mountains of western Maryland, the Historic National Road displays Maryland's diverse resources." He added that the All-American designation reflects "Maryland's commitment to Smart Growth and our aggressive efforts to preserve Maryland's unique heritage by investing in older, established communities."

According to a Governor's Office spokesperson, designation also "helps promote and inspire voluntary stewardship and preservation of the historic, agricultural, economic, cultural, and natural resources in the corridors, so that all can continue to benefit from their beauty and importance. All-American Roads provide visitors with a unique driving experience

Book Of Local World War II Oral Histories To Be Published

Despite the untimely death of retired Southern High School teacher Matt Novak three months ago, the Garrett County World War II oral history project will still culminate in a published book, according to a spokesperson for the Garrett County Historical Society. Garrett County, At Home and At War, a printed record of the lives of World War II veterans during their time in service, is in its final stages of preparation, and could be available for purchase by late summer.

"The oral history project, which Matt Novak founded as an way to record the memories of the war's veterans and those who lived through the homefront years, became not only his passion but an invaluable avenue connecting older county residents and many students from Southern High, as well as several from Northern High," the spokesperson said.

Beginning in 1999, while still a classroom teacher, Novak began encouraging Southern High students to accumulate the memories of family members and other local residents of the historical events that took place during World War II. He retired from teaching that same year, but began devoting a full-time effort to working with students who were recording oral interviews with the veterans. In May of 2000 and again in 2001, he organized a Students and Veterans Banquet at the Oakland American Legion Club to recognize the veterans and the students who had been working together in recording the experiences.

Novak's plans were to conclude the World War II veterans interviews at the end of 2001, and begin recording oral interviews

Late Evening Wreck Injures Two Teenagers

Two teenagers were involved in a car accident last night at approximately 11:15 p.m. along Sang Run Road, according to a report from the Maryland State Police McHenry Barrack. The youths were not identified in the report.

A 16-year-old was operating a 1993 Plymouth Duster westbound on Sang Run Road, east of Gleanings Drive, when he or she lost control, reportedly because of excessive speed. The car traveled off the road, hit two trees, and overturned.

A 14-year-old passenger was injured in the crash. Both individuals were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. Also responding to the scene was the Deep Creek fire department.

The driver was cited for driving the vehicle at a speed greater than reasonable, according to the report. Further information was not available.

Friday Night Bingo Canceled

The Southern High School Band Boosters has announced the cancellation of two of its upcoming Friday night bingo sessions at the Oakland Armory because of Armory activities. Bingo will not take place tomorrow night, June 21, nor July 5; however, the June 28 event will take place at planned.

MSP Logs Two DUI Arrests Over Weekend

Two local men were arrested last weekend by officers of the Maryland State Police for allegedly driving under the influence.

Fred Leroy Lewis, 51, was stopped by the MSP for driving 55 miles per hour in a 40 mph zone. An arrest for driving under the influence (DUI) followed the stop, according to the report. The driver was also charged for exceeding the speed limit, not wearing a seat belt, and having no driver's license.

Gilbert Antonio Masters, 40, was arrested at about 1 a.m. Saturday during a police investigation of a car wreck, according to the report. Trooper K.W. Whitaker arrived at the scene of the crash to find only evidence of the wreck. Parts of Masters's damaged Honda Accord apparently dragged in the road, however, and the officer was able to find the defendant a short time later.

Masters was charged with DUI and failure to drive right of center, according to the report.

Both defendants were released on their own recognizance following the arrests.

ENJOYING HER HOME IN KITZMILLER — Velma Anderson, 90, has lived in her Kitzmiller home since 1981, and thanks to community development programs administered by Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC), she can continue to do so. As a result of surgery, Anderson has had to use a walker and cannot access her second-floor bathroom. But by lavaraging funding sources through the Weatherization Program, Rural Housing Services, and Community Development Block Grant, GCCAC was able to install a handicapped bathroom on the first floor, install new energy efficient windows, update electrical service, apply new siding, and do minor repairs to her home. More than 200 other low-income and senior residents have benefited from GCCAC-administered rehab programs since 1994, according to Dawn Elchorn, program coordinator. Pictured above, left to right, are Anderson; Nancy Brady, former Kitzmiller mayor; Shirley Anderson, Velma's daughter; and Jim Browning, current Kitzmiller mayor. For more information on home repairs or other GCCAC programs, persons may call Elchorn at 301-334-9431, ext. 160.

Alleged Domestic Dispute Leads To One Arrest

An Oakland man was arrested for assault after authorities responded to a residence along Smith Drive in reference to a domestic situation, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Upon arrival, deputies and an Oakland City Police officer located the victim outside the residence with obvious signs of physical injury to both of her arms, police said. According to the victim, she was dragged out of the residence after she and her husband had an argument involving a vehicle.

Richard R. Smith, 53, was arrested without further incident, and was charged with second-degree assault, police said.

Smith is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail on $500 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

EXPANDING HORIZONS ASSISTS DOVE CENTER — The Dove Center is in need of informative and inspirational books for the use of women staying at the county's domestic violence and sexual assault resource center, and Expanding Horizons book store at Deep Creek Lake has joined the effort to provide such helpful literature. Store patrons have the opportunity through August to purchase a book that will be donated to the center. "With your help the women who utilize our services at the shelter will now have words of encouragement and information to help them learn and work through their situations," a Dove Center spokesperson observed. A list of suggested titles is available at Expanding Horizons and at the Book Mark'et in Oakland, which is also taking part in the campaign, as well as a sign-up sheet for anyone who would like recognition for their support. Pictured are Susie Mosser, left, an AmeriCorps volunteer who is employed at the Dove Center, and Expanding Horizons proprietor Rose Trucco.

Child Abduction Charge Placed On Stet Docket

A charge of abducting a child against a Vermillion, Ohio, man was placed on the stet docket in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Robert Carl Gaborko Jr., 23, was charged last October when the mother of a 3½-year-old child reported to authorities that Gaborko had failed to return their child after a period of court-ordered visitation. The alleged actions constitute a misdemeanor offense under family-law provisions.

Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch explained that the disposition of the case "is due to questions concerning technicalities in the charges and the resolution of the visitation issue since the charge was placed. Mr. Gaborko has been advised that he must continue to obey the existing court order or the charges will be re-scheduled for trial."

Friendsville Hydrants To Be Flushed

Alcohol, Drug Cases Heard In GC Circuit Court

A number of alcohol- and drug-related cases were heard last week in Garrett County Circuit Court by Judge Jim Sherbin.

A charge of operating a boat under the influence of alcohol against Donald Edward Kraft, 59, Munhall, Pa., was dismissed by Sherbin.

The State's Attorney's Office had advised the Circuit Court that no jury would be needed for the case because of a scheduling conflict, and no jury was available for Kraft's case, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney.

In an unrelated case also heard last week in Circuit Court, Benjamin Lewis Lower, 40, Oakland, pleaded guilty to possession with intent to distribute marijuana. Lower was sentenced by Sherbin to three years at the Department of Corrections, with six months of that sentence suspended. Lower will be on supervised probation upon his release.

He was charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in December. Lower was a passenger in a disabled vehicle that was found by Maryland Sate Police along Gorman Road (Rt. 560). While a trooper determined the sobriety of the driver, a certified drug-detection dog scanned the vehicle and gave a positive alert for drugs. Approximately 120 grams (¼ pound) of marijuana and a set of scales were found in Lower's jacket, located in the car, according to Thayer Welch.

In another case, Steven Calvin Barrett Sr., 44, Rowlesburg, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of phencyclidine (PCP) and to driving under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance. Sherbin sentenced Barrett to one year in the Garrett County Jail on the drug charge and to a concurrent 30 days on the DUI charge. A total of $700 in fines was also imposed.

Barrett was charged last August by Sheriff's Office deputies, who responded to a reported motor-vehicle accident along Maryland Highway near the Swanton Hill Road intersection. Deputies reportedly found Barrett leaning on his motorcycle, appearing disoriented and under the influence.

When he was arrested for the DUI, a quantity of liquid PCP was found in the saddlebags of his motorcycle. A negative alcohol breath test confirmed that Barrett was under the influence of narcotics, according to Thayer Welch.

Although originally charged also with possession with intent to distribute the PCP, various experts in the narcotics field informed the state that they could not definitively make that determination based solely on the quantity found, said Thayer Welch.

Also sentenced last week was Wesley Carl Jackson, 33, Morgantown, W.Va., Jackson was sentenced to 10 days in the Garrett County Jail and fined $500 for a possession of marijuana conviction. A $500 fine for driving on a suspended out-of-state license charge was also im-posed. Jackson pleaded guilty last month to the charge.

Jackson was charged by Maryland State Police in November after he was stopped on Maryland Highway for a speeding violation. Based on the actions of the vehicle's occupants, the trooper requested a drug-detection dog be brought to the scene, which led to the discovery of approximately 39 grams of marijuana and controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia in a briefcase, according to Thayer Welch.

In another case, Paul Xavier Spence, 18, Temple Hills, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and speeding. A charge of possession with intent to distribute was dismissed upon his plea. Sherbin sentenced Spence to 10 days in the Garrett County Jail on the drug charge and fined him $300 for the speeding violation.

Spence was charged by Maryland State Police in October when a trooper paced his vehicle traveling 90 miles per hour on Interstate 68. After stopping the vehicle, an odor of marijuana was detected from the interior. Approximately 44 grams of marijuana was found in a backpack located in Spence's car, said Thayer Welch.

In an unrelated Circuit Court case, charges of one count of second-degree burglary and one count of theft under $500 in value were not prosecuted against Donald Allen Warren.

The 45-year-old Oakland man was orginally charged by an officer with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation last September.

ZION LUTHERAN TO CELEBRATE 100 YEARS OF PRAISE AND SERVICE — Zion Lutheran Church of Accident will mark the 100th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the present church building with a special service set for 10:30 a.m. this Sunday, June 23, and a dinner to follow. The guest speaker will be Rev. Daniel Preus, first vice president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, who is traveling from his home in St. Louis to share in the celebration. The public is invited to both the service and the dinner. The first Zion Lutheran Church was built in 1851 at the present site of the Zion Cemetery. After serving as the congregation's home for half a century, that structure was destroyed by fire in August 1901. The cornerstone for the present church was laid on June 22, 1902, in the ceremony pictured above. The completed building, shown at the right, was dedicated on April 19, 1903.

Oakland Woman Injured Slightly In Sunday Crash

An Oakland woman sustained minor injuries in a Sunday morning vehicle collision near the Sheetz convenience store in downtown Oakland.

At 11:15 a.m. Karen Jean Bittinger, 42, was driving her Ford Tempo northbound on Third Street when she entered the intersection with Third Street and collided with a Ford Ranger pickup truck operated by James Ivan Fearer, 56, Terra Alta, W.Va., that was traversing the same intersection from westbound Center Street.

Bittinger was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Both drivers told Oakland police officers that they had the green light. No charges were filed.

Time Will Tell...

It usually takes decades to really put into perspective the accomplishments of any given president of the United States. The elapse of considerable time subsequent to the completion of their administrations is necessary in order to create that perspective and to be able to make some comparisons. Sometimes that assessment is surprising.

There was one president, for example, who to this day would be labeled as a staunch conservative. Yet with the exception of Lyndon Johnson, he led the greatest expansion of the federal government in the history of the nation. He initiated the Environmental Protection Agency, the Clean Air Act, the Endangered Species Act, the Water Pollution Control Act, the Occupational Health and Safety Administration (OSHA), the Office of Consumer Affairs, Amtrak, the war on cancer, and revenue sharing with local governments.

This conservative president provided unprecedented funding for the arts, proposed a major overhaul of the welfare program, endorsed employer-mandated national health insurance, and imposed wage and price controls on the economy. He pushed hard for affirmative action, approving hiring goals for minorities and women, and promoted funding incentives for minority-owned businesses. He poured federal funds into black colleges, and signed Title IX Legislation, which expanded women's access to higher education. He opposed cuts in agricultural and veterans' programs.

This Republican described the leaders of the right-wing Young Americans for Freedom as "nuts and second-raters." He also said, "The far-right kooks are just like the nuts to the left; they're doorbell ringers and balloon blowers... There is only one thing as bad as a far-left liberal, and that's a damn right-wing conservative." He said that right-wingers "don't really give a damn about people."

It was also in his administration that schools in the south were finally and legally desegregated, and it was 32 years ago this month that he signed into law a civil rights act that extended voting rights protection to minorities living in the north, Latinos, and 18-year-olds.

If you do the math, you will discover that the president with the aforementioned record was none other than Richard M. Nixon, who left the White House in disgrace in 1974.

Time and what happens tomorrow can indeed paint a radically different picture of the past than what we are apparently looking at today.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I have the following concerns and comments:

1) Why not have the summer concerts at the train station? Music sounds like thunder at the Grand Canyon at the farmers' market building. The market is an excellent place to sell produce.

2) Why are policemen or anyone at the store areas allowed to park on Third Street? There is inadequate room for trucks on Third Street and the police force could park in a restricted area on Alder Street and eliminate the meters there. The creation of a "park" at the corner eliminated greatly needed space also.

3) Why not repair the road adequately adjoining Third Street and Center Street? Any passenger car could injure a muffler at this area.

To the Editor:

We at the Dove Center are sponsoring our first "Stop the Violence" Walk & Rock on July 27, with registration beginning at 9 a.m. and the 2-mile walk beginning promptly at 10 a.m. at the Loch Lynn pavilion (beside the old Loch Lynn Elementary School). For those who feel they can't walk the 2 miles, we will supply them with a rocking chair and they can rock their way to the finish line.

If you would like to help the Dove Center with our walk, we encourage you to stop by the Dove Center office to pick up your sponsor sheets or call, and we'll be glad to mail them out to you. As soon as you receive your packet, you can begin contacting your family, friends, and co-workers and ask them to sponsor you. All money will need to be turned in the day of the walk.

Individuals who raise $150 or more will receive a free T-shirt. There will also be prizes for the top three who raise the most money, the youngest, and the oldest. Plus, there will be many more door prizes.

After the walk you can come back to the pavilion and relax and enjoy a picnic lunch. We will also have face painting for the children.

This is a great opportunity for all of us to get involved in helping the Dove Center to continue reaching out in our community with services. I encourage everyone to also get your kids and teens involved. As sad as it is, most of us, including our children, have all come across people who have been affected by domestic violence or sexual assault. We can all get involved and feel that we are making a difference by either walking, rocking, or sponsoring someone.

If you would like to help sponsor someone but do not know of anyone walking, call the Dove Center and we'll be glad to put you on one of the staff's sponsor sheets. For more information feel free to call the Dove Center at 301-334-9000 or 301-334-6255.

Sincerely,
Jill Holler

To the Editor:

Every time a tragic event happens that involves young people (like Columbine), people wring their hands and say: "What could we have done to prevent this?"

I recently accompanied a group of people (mostly kids) to a meeting with the commissioners, wherein the kids pleaded for a recreation building. I read a letter to the commissioners that was written 50 years ago by Hub Swartzentruber asking for the same thing. I sat there dumbfounded as the commissioners uttered every political phrase at their disposal while they turned the kids down. The one that really upset me was "We don't have the money." I jumped up and waved a letter dated May 21, 2002, addressed to the commissioners that indicated approval for an additional $3 million for the Adventure Sports Center that the commissioners requested. They would not (could not) respond.

These kids are totally disheartened by the lack of concern some people have for them; many have said they can't wait to move away from the county. No question about it; "There is a good reason why so many natives receive low wages because a large segment of our population lacks skills, education, and even vision to do otherwise," as a recent letter said. All the while, the commissioners pump millions upon millions of taxpayer dollars into such boondoggles as the $9 million kayak amusement ride at ASC.

Instead of criticizing those of us who are willing to fight on behalf of the kids (and the shamefully underpaid adults) in this county, I'd like to see those millionaire, second-home owners do something positive and lend a hand as we try to get the commissioners to understand that they are supposed to be representing all of the people in the county, not just the members of "The Club."

And by the way, I am a firm believer of free enterprise, but I am adamantly opposed to well-fare for wealthy business owners and the harebrained schemes that some of them have. I'd like to see them use "elbow grease and sheer determination" instead of our hard-earned tax dollars.

Tax dollars should be used for libraries, education, recreational opportunities for kids, and other necessities that benefit all of the people, not just The Club. This great country was founded on the idea of equal opportunity for all and has rewarded those willing to stand up to the "Robber Barons" and their accomplices who, like bad pennies, seem to show up from time to time. People who stand up for their rights have always been subjected to attempts to demonize them (the modus operandi in certain circles), but history usually eatches up with these visionaries.

ers in the late 1960s with Harry and their other brother, Tom Chapin. During the middle of the following decade the band metamorphosed into the Harry Chapin Band as Wallace, Fields, and other musicians joined Harry and Steve Chapin to gain mount a string of highly-acclaimed international recording and concert successes.

The music of the band's current incarnation is "hard to categorize," according to a reviewer, "for the simple reason that the songs of love and protest, discovery and rejection, encompass such a wide range. The band performs tunes that are almost folkish in their simplicity, then charge into other songs that have a street-like urgency to them."

While the trio performs mostly new original compositions, it also includes several favorites from the Harry Chapin years, highlighted by Wallace's haunting falsetto solo on "Taxi," which was an instant classic upon its release almost 30 years ago. "There are enough of Harry's classic songs in the band's shows to satisfy even the most nostalgic Chapin fan," the reviewer wrote. "There is a subtle dialogue between the vocal and the backing music, while the smooth quality of Steve's voice lets the music have a darker, harder edge than the original performances, giving them a fresh sensibility and energy that appeals to new generations of Chapin audiences."

The unique background of today's Steve Chapin Band gives the trio not only a sound of its own, but a vision uncommon to most performers, past or present. Long before the media blitz of last month's Bono/Paul O'Neil tour of poverty-stricken parts of Africa, the Chapin family was hard at work bringing attention to the societal responsibilities that go hand-in-hand with professional success.

"A piece of the Chapin tradition that goes along with the music has always been the concept of giving something back," Steve Chapin remarked. "It was an idea that Harry first put into action, that in a democracy performers have a responsibility to speak out and to effect change for the betterment of those less fortunate." In volunteering his time as a member of the board of directors of World Hunger Year, Chapin, and his band, have picked up that gauntlet, and challenge their audiences and fans to do the same.

Craig Miller, the evening's opening performer, comes from a music-loving family in Allegany County. His band, Velvet Jones, has played with such acts as Leon Redbone, Keller Williams, and the Derek Trucks Band. Miller's first compact disc, consisting of 14 original songs written, composed, and arranged by the artist himself, was released last summer. His musical stylings run the gamut from country through bluegrass, progressive, jazz, folk, and ragtime.

Rounding out the Little Yough Festival's summer slate are the following scheduled dates, each of which will be detailed in the preceding issue of The Republican:

- June 28: John Sebastian (founding member of the Lovin' Spoonful), with opening act Joan and Keith Pitzer.
- July 5: Naked Blue, with opening act Wild Carrot.
- July 12: The Jen Chapin Band, with opening act Modern Man.
- July 19: The Kennedys, with opening act Kitty Donahue.
- July 26: Cheryl Wheeler, with opening act Mustard's Retreat.
- Aug. 2, Susan Greenbaum, with opening act Kristin Callahan (of Garrett County).

Major sponsors of this year's Little Yough Summer Music Festival are the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA), the Oakland Main Street Program, the town of Oakland, the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils, F&M Bank, First United Bank, Dr. John Porcaro, the Oakland Elks Club, the Oakland Rotary Club, and Master Craft Printers.

For further information on the Little Yough Festival, persons may consult the event web site at www.littleyough.com or call festival coordinator Ken Perrin at 301-501-0201. Festival organizers are accepting additional sponsorships and donations throughout the summer music season to defray the cost of this year's series and ensure the festival can return next summer. Potential patrons may mail a donation to: GOBA, c/o Ken Perrin, P.O. Box 3, Oakland, MD 21550.

View from My Window

RAINY DAY REFLECTIONS

The misty drizzle opened up the ground. The rain began, steady, gentle, and straight down. I did not need to close a single window. The welcome flow from the heavens replenished the ground, and then came a pause. The thirsty earth drank up the water, and then the showers began again. The long looked-for rainy day had come.

The evening before a few of us from my congregation had been at work in the church garden. We cleaned out a row of radishes. We raked out rows of beans and beets which had extremely poor stands, and then replanted them. We mulched the tomatoes, cucumbers, and summer squash. It really began to look like a garden.

We also noted that the soil was dry down to a six-inch depth anyway. The rain was very timely. The ground-water deficit remains a concern, but with regular rains, at least it does not worsen. What does worsen are the consequences of a drought that has been long in the making. Ponds continue to decline even after fairly good spring rains.

Making garden with others has provided new insights for me. My congregation is almost entirely blue-collar. They are practical people who can carpenter and roof any structure you like. They are the people at the core of businesses who, whether in the office or out on the ground, make things go. To my surprise the two people who have worked most on the garden have been the one medical doctor in the congregation and me.

It puzzles me that the two over-educated and least practical people in the church have been the ones most interested in the project. Perhaps we have an appetite for manual labor because we spend our working hours in meetings and pushing the digits on computer keyboards.

Perhaps the lack of interest among others is because they are town people. Historically they bought their fruits and vegetables at farmers' markets. Country people raised food; city people bought food. That is only conjecture, but it does meet the facts. One committed member who has his own roofing business was quoted as having said, "I'm no gardener." We have a host couple at whose home the garden is located. The husband has had gardens over the years. Back surgery this spring has severely limited his physical activity, and at the same time has made welcome our regular visits to his yard. As his physical strength has returned, he has helped with the garden. His wife comes out and watches us work. They are curious about my insistence on mulching. Each of them has asked me multiple times the same question, "Why mulch?" This has less to do with the town and country divide, since they have had vegetable gardens. It is more of a generational issue, I think. A mulched garden looks dirty, cluttered, poorly tended to them. Their mental concept of garden has to do with rows clean of weeds, in which the soil is like a well-swept floor. Long-time readers of this column will know I like the technique of spreading at least three layers of newspaper, and covering it with grass clippings, hay, or straw.

"There are three and sometimes four reasons," I tell them, "for mulching." First, mulch conserves moisture, all the more critical in drought conditions. Second, mulch suppresses weeds. Third, mulch builds soil structure. Fourth, mulch very often produces nicer fruits and vegetables.

The last point is not always true, and is not always obvious. The fruit quality of caged tomatoes is probably not much improved by mulch, but any fruit or vegetable allowed to spread across the ground is kept nicer on mulch than on the bare earth. Even mulching a row crop like beans will produce at a higher quality because the rain does not splash dirt on the beans themselves. Straw mulch on potatoes helps to lessen the nitrogen on which Colorado potato beetles thrive.

The only disadvantage of mulch, to my knowledge, is when there are weed seeds present, which is more likely in hay mulch than in any other kind. Use of mulch year after year helps to mitigate even that negative effect.

So I am a preacher even in the garden.

In my own garden at home the pumpkin patch comes along well. That too is planned to play into the church project. Each October we have a fall outing. This year the kids should be able to claim their own pumpkins for jack o' lanterns. The adults should be able to claim winter squash for their pumpkin pies and other goodies.

The rains of the past day make all that more likely. As St. Paul observed, "I have planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase." (I Corinthians 3: 6). So it is with all our labors. We only do the work so that something can happen, but we cannot make it happen. We work as we are able, and we continue to look skyward.

economic benefits that highway promoters say would result from the work. Project team members representing the federal as well as the Pennsylvania and Maryland highway departments were on hand to answer questions, and a number of elected officials from both states and Garrett and Somerset counties, including Garrett County commissioners Fred Holliday and Wendell Beitzel, and Del. George Edwards.

Project team members said that the options under consideration range from a four-lane highway to a no-build option, as social, economic, and natural environmental impacts continue to be taken into account, along with public input. "We don't have any actual alternatives yet," said Jeremy Beck, project engineer for the Maryland State Highway Administration. Alternatives are expected to be put forth for public viewing this winter.

The proposed Rt. 219 North project is part of a larger overall project, the North-South Appalachian Corridor, which seeks to provide an interstate highway directly connecting Buffalo, N.Y., with West Virginia, and likely beyond by virtue of existing interstate highways. Economic development and business growth, especially through the facilitation of easier trucking and a more direct route from the manufacturing centers of Ontario, Canada, are the most common reason cited by project backers.

A completed corridor study has recommended a highway south of Interstate 68 along the approximate location of Route 220 in western Allegany County, to eventually connect with Corridor H in Grant County, W.Va. That portion of the project is a long way from moving ahead, officials have said, indicating that the Rt. 219 North project will likely be the first of the two to reach fruition if decisions are made to proceed.

The progression of the proposed Rt. 219 North project will be followed in these pages. Further information is also available directly to citizens who inquire through Maryland SHA Rt. 219 north project manager Jeremy Beck at 410-545-8518, or 1-800-548-5026, or by consulting the SHA road projects web site at www.marylandroads.com, or the project's promotional web site at www.us219.com.

water treatment plant and water upgrades. The water system is currently under the influence of surface water — storm water runoff that is polluting a local spring, the system's source water. Installation of filtration and disinfection equipment will address the problem.

"The Garrett County Sanitary District Inc. was pleased to hear that the board approved the grant money," said Ron Petrella, administrator for the Sanitary District. "We are very grateful for the state's assistance in this important project. Crellin residents are very happy with the MDE's support in assisting them financially."

Funds for the grant come from MDE's Water Quality Infrastructure Program. The total cost of the project is $240,000, of which $30,000 is the local share. The remainder will be made up from a previous $60,000 MDE grant, according to the MDE.

The design of the new system is expected to be completed by June and construction on the project should begin by October. Officials expect construction to end by next summer.

Charges Filed, Passengers Not Injured In Mishap

Two passengers escaped injury and the driver was charged in a single-vehicle accident along Herrington Manor Road early Sunday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The 1975 Ford truck operated by Robert Lee Miller Jr., Burlington, W.Va., was severely damaged after it struck a wooden fence and overturned, police said.

Miller was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), police said.

In another incident, Curtis Matthews, Lemont Furnace, Pa., was arrested by deputies Saturday evening along Maple Street, Friendsville.

When Matthews was stopped for speeding, deputies detected an odor of alcohol. He failed sobriety tests and was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), DWI, DWI per se, failure to drive right of center, and exceeding the posted speed limit.

Matthews was released after posting $500 bond.

In other police news, Barry Ray Livengood, 35, Oakland, was arrested for violating an exparte order on Sunday.

In a separate incident, Kathleen Louise Meyers, 40, Oakland, was arrested for trespassing and disorderly conduct after an incident at a residence along Smith Drive on Monday, police said.

and are considered destinations unto themselves."

The National Road, which generally follows the U.S. 40 corridor, begins in Baltimore and travels west to St. Louis, Mo. The first federally planned and funded highway in the United States, the road served as the nation's premier east-west artery for half a century, speeding development and communication across the growing nation and having immeasurable impact on American society.

"Today, the corridor has nationally significant historic, agriculture, economic, cultural, and natural resources," said a Governor's Office spokesperson.

"All-American Roads. . . define unique stories associated with America's heritage," said Senator Paul Sarbanes. "Travelers on these roads can get a true flavor of America and connect with the stories which have made America what it is today."

The designation also enhances access to resources from implementation of projects that promote and enhance the corridors. Under the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st century, approximately $25 million is available annually through the U.S. Department of Transportation's Federal Highway Administration for designated byways. Through this competitive grant program, states can receive an average of $500,000 annually for their byways, according to the governor's office.

Chamber Seeking Donations For Fireworks Display

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will again sponsor the annual Deep Creek Lake July 4th fireworks display. The fireworks, featuring the pyrotechnic expertise of Zambelli Fireworks Internationale, will be launched from atop the Bear Claw Tubing Park at Wisp Mountain Resort.

"We have both the residents and visitors looking forward to our annual fireworks display on July 4," said event coordinator Karen Meyers. "This year, the crowd will enjoy a closer look at the flying colors from the new launch site."

She added that good places to view the display would be from the Garrett County fairgrounds' parking area or from the parking lot of the Wisp.

Uno Restaurant, the major sponsor for this year's fireworks, has pledged $5,000 to defray costs. Meyers said, however, that the committee still needs about $4,000 more to make the annual event possible.

"Any donation is appreciated," she said, adding that special recognition will be given to those who donate $250 or more.

For more information on this or other events and activities in Garrett County, persons may call the Visitors Center at 301-387-4386 or 301-245-4400. Checks for fireworks donation may be made payable to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 15 Visitors Center Drive, McHenry, MD 21541.

tion's Wrap Around Program at the Outlook Center in Oakland read the Project HomeSafe Pledge to the commissioners. The children pledged not to handle firearms without permission; to never play with firearms; and to obey the rules of safe firearms handling. The also promised that if they found a firearm, not to touch it and to notify an adult immediately.

The Sheriff's Office has planned a safety program for sometime this summer at the Outlook Center for students and their parents, said Melanie Cooper, child-care manager.

Headquartered in Newtown, Conn., and established m Sept. 1999, HomeSafe, has been introduced in 21 states, according to Paul Erhardt, media spokesperson for the project. HomeSafe and the Maryland Sheriffs Association recently distributed approximately 15,000 gun locks during a statewide tour.

The tour featured a 16-foot mobile classroom, from which residents picked up safety kits, watched a safety video, and viewed a display of safe storage equipment. Though the van did not visit Garrett County, it did make a stop at the Country Club Mall in Allegany County.

Project coordinators hope to eventually distribute a total of 45,000 locks throughout the state. Nationally, their goal is to distribute 3,000,000 firearm safety kits this year, according to Erhardt.

The NSSF stresses, however, that in addition to the locks, firearms be "kept unloaded and safely stored, with ammunition secured in a separate location."

For more information about the program, persons may call the Partnership for Children and Families at 301-334-1189 or visit www.projecthomesafe.org. The gun locks are available through the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

with Korean War veterans in 2002. Following the conclusion of the WWII interviews he began to assemble the 350 pages of material into book form, hoping to have it printed and available for sale in time for another Students and Veterans Banquet in May 2002.

Despite failing health, Novak was able devote the necessary time to the revision and arrangement work necessary to get a final manuscript ready for printing. A week prior to his March 16 death from complications of pneumonia, he felt that he had sufficient promises of future sales to pay for publication of the book, and the Historical Society agreed to underwrite the publication costs.

Because the oral history interviews had been completed, and photos and artwork had been gathered by Novak, very little work has been needed on the manuscript. Several volunteers have undertaken the job of completing the unfinished work, and the Historical Society will be printing the book and making it available for sale in coming months.

For further information, persons may contact the Historical Society at 301-334-3226.

Gov. Wise Signs Chesapeake Bay Program Accord

West Virginia Governor Bob Wise has officially committed the state as a "headwaters partner" in the Chesapeake Bay Program — the federal-state partnership directing the protection and restoration of America's largest estuary — in order to better protect and restore local water quality in the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers and the Chesapeake Bay," the governor said.

At a recent signing ceremony at the Department of Agriculture's district office in Moorefield, Wise signed a Memorandum of Understanding committing the state to working with the Bay Program to improve water quality in the Bay and its tributaries, as detailed in Chesapeake 2000, the Bay-wide protection and restoration agreement signed in June 2000.

"With my signature on this memorandum, West Virginia officially becomes a partner at the table, joining the other states that have voluntarily agreed to maintain and protect the Potomac River watershed. Through this effort, we reaffirm our cooperative obligation to protect one of America's great natural treasures — the Chesapeake Bay," stated Wise.

"West Virginia's involvement in Bay restoration highlights the need for expanded partnerships between the Bay states and their upstream neighbors to reduce the amount of nutrients and sediment flowing into the Bay," said Donald S. Welsh, mid-Atlantic Regional Administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. "With West Virginia's assistance, we hope to improve the quality of the water flowing into the Shenandoah and Potomac Rivers, and further downstream into the Chesapeake Bay."

The Chesapeake Bay watershed covers 64,000 square miles, including parts of West Virginia, New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia. More than 3,500 square miles, or about 15 percent, of West Virginia drains into the Bay through the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers.

The Chesapeake Bay Program is an incentive-based voluntary partnership launched in 1983 by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, the District of Columbia, and the Chesapeake Bay Commission. In an effort to include pollution reduction efforts upstream, New York and Delaware officially joined the program as headwaters partners last year. As headwaters partners, West Virginia, New York, and Delaware have committed to participate in a new cooperative process aimed at improving Bay water quality by reducing nutrients and sediments entering the Bay through its tributaries.

"I'm pleased that West Virginia has now officially joined this program," said West Virginia Commissioner of Agriculture Gus R. Douglass. "The voluntary Best Management Practices (BMPs) made by our farmers during the past 10 years, along with the investment this state has made at our DNA water testing lab in Moorefield, are evidence of this state's commitment to clean water here and to wherever our rivers run."

For more information about West Virginia and the Chesapeake Bay, and efforts to protect the Bay and its rivers, persons may consult the Chesapeake Bay Program's web site at www.-chesapeakebay.net/press.-htm.

Heart Disease and Cholesterol Medicines

Coronary heart disease (CHD) is the leading cause of death in Americans. Risk factors include diabetes, obesity, high blood pressure, cigarette smoking, and high blood cholesterol. A desirable total cholesterol level is less than 200 mg/dl. LDL or "bad" cholesterol (part of the total cholesterol) should not exceed 100 mg/dl. HDL or "good" cholesterol should be above 40 mg./dl. It is reported that lowering LDL alone can cut risk of heart disease as much as 40%.

Cholesterol-lowering medicines such as ctoestipol absorb bile acids, reducing LDL and total cholesterol levels. The statins lower LDL levels and have been shown to prevent unstable angina and heart attacks. A new statin still in clinical trial has been reported to decrease LDL to an even greater degree while also boosting HDL levels.

Researchers are now testing a vaccine designed to keep cholesterol levels low. The vaccine, which may be several years away from commercial availability, is designed to coax the body to produce more protective HDL. Researchers report that the vaccine, if approved, would be given twice a year.

THE BOURNE IDENTITY

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:58 - Released 6/14/02

With the intelligent twists of a spy novel, the talented eye of director Doug Liman (Go), and actors like Matt Damon, Franka Potente, and Chris Cooper, The Bourne Identity is about as effective a thriller as you could want, especially if you don't want to think too hard. It does suffer from occasional lapses in credibility, probably brought on by the inability on the part of screenwriters Tony Gilroy and William Blake Herron to include all the intricate plot elements of Robert Ludlum's novel; what results is a rather formulaic (albeit enjoyable) story about a man who doesn't know who he is but figures he must be somebody, since people keep shooting at him.

Damon plays Jason Bourne (although, to be truthful, that's just one of the half-dozen or so identities he eventually discovers in his collection of international passports), who is found unconscious floating in the Mediterranean Sea by a boatful of fishermen. Upon closer inspection, Bourne finds that he has several things embedded in his skin, like a few bullets, a "Winona" tattoo (just kidding), and a small metal pellet with the account number for a safety deposit box in Switzerland. When he opens the box, he finds the several passports mentioned, many thousands of dollars, and a gun. He also finds that showing up at the bank sets in motion a complex international plot to assassinate him led by Ted Conklin (Cooper), who is actually his boss in a highly placed CIA operation. But he doesn't know that yet.

While evading the Swiss law enforcement and various other assorted snipers, thugs, and hit men, he meets a young woman named Marie Kreutz (Potente) who seems to have her own I.D. problems. The two of them vamoose to Paris, where, according to information from the box, Bourne keeps an apartment, but soon they find that they can't vamoose to anywhere without having bad guys waiting for them, since they are up against the most effective information-gathering network in the world. Luckily, Jason also possesses, for reasons unknown to him, the ability to think, act, and react like a master's student in the James Bond Academy, sensing when danger is imminent and effectively eluding it at every turn. You know, if you don't know who you are, it's at least good to know you can beat people up. Eventually he learns his connection not only to Conklin, but to an exiled African political leader (Adewale Akinnuoye-Agbaje), but not before fending off numerous assassination attempts and endangering the lives of Marie and several others who have the misfortune to ever be in his vicinity.

This is very much a meat-and-potatoes type thriller, a satisfying "guy movie" with all the requisite elements, including shootouts, car chases, and the lead character figuring out incredibly complex things while we all just watch in wonder. Damon is as reliable as ever, and Potente is cute, sexy, and has a nice accent. What else can I say? Oh, yeah—don't forget the popcorn. ★★★★

SCOOBY-DOO

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:27 - Released 6/14/02

Throughout the recent rash of TV-cartoon-to-film adaptations, the quality has ranged from marginally clever (The Flintstones) to cute but unnecessary (Rocky & Bullwinkle, Josie & The Pussycats) to abysmal (Mr. Magoo, Dudley Do-Right). Scooby-Doo, the latest entry in this genre, helmed by editor-turned-director Raja Gosnell (Big Momma's House), barely falls into the first category; while I never cared much for the original TV series, I must admit the film is reasonably funny and its source material well-researched. Blending the characterizations of the famous mystery-solving gang with the digital animation of the title dog, Scooby-Doo is watchable and mercifully short. Wow, what a ringing endorsement.

This film starts with a bit of tension among the members of Mystery, Inc. While fun-loving and highly ticklish Great Dane Scooby-Doo (voice of Scott Innes) and his hippy-dippy human soulmate Shaggy (Matthew Lillard) are just a couple of good-natured and perpetually hungry pals without a care in the world (except when they are being pursued by a ghost, goblin, or monster), the vain and handsome leader of the group, Fred (Freddie Prinze Jr.), comes under fire from vapid fashion-plate Daphne (Sarah Michelle Gellar) and brainy, glasses-wearing Velma (Linda Cardellini) for always taking credit for the group's mystery-solving success. The group breaks up, leaving the dejected Shaggy and Scooby in charge of the modly decorated "Mystery Machine" van until 2 years later, when they each receive a letter asking them to come to the Spooky Island amusement park to solve a mystery.

Each member thinks he or she has been summoned alone, but they all meet up at the airport. After briefly considering a reunion, they decide to compete against each other to solve the case. On the island, they meet Emil Mondavarious (Bean's Rowan Atkinson), the park's owner, who informs them that something strange is going on at his establishment. The college students who come there for rides and scary fun are all turning into angry zombies with superhuman strength. Sounds like PCP to me, but Fred, Daphne, and Velma all begin searching seperately for clues. With the help of a sweet girl named Mary Jane (get it?), even Shaggy begins putting the pieces together, while Scooby mainly just looks for something to eat. Soon they all meet inside a malfunctioning Haunted Castle ride and are forced by the circumstances to work together, finally discovering that teamwork is really the only way.

I like this movie's willingness to poke fun at itself, and its clever devotion to its source. In addition to the story by Craig Titley and screenplay by James Gunn (based on the Hanna/Barbera TV show), the actors have obviously gone to great pains to copy the characterizations of their cartoon alter-egos, especially Lillard and Cardellini, and of course Innes as the voice of Scooby. Also amusingly accurate are costume choices, with the mini-skirts, bell-bottom pants, and platform shoes, in each character's particular color scheme. Some elements that were definitely never seen on the show are the Scooby/Shaggy farting contest and a clever bit where all the group members trade characterizations, forcing Velma to act like Shaggy, Shaggy like Daphne, etc. This is but one of the examples where the movie adds some much-needed wit to the show's lackluster comic style.

While I wouldn't exactly hover in midair with my legs disappearing in a speedy blur to get to this movie, I can at least recommend it as a reasonably enjoyable diversion that will please SD devotees. Heck, it's better than the show ever was—but that isn't saying much. ★★★½

WINDTALKERS

Rated R - Running Time: 2:13 - Released 6/14/02

In Captain Corelli's Mandolin, Nicolas Cage played an Italian guy in World War II. He's at it again, except this time he's switched sides. In John Woo's Windtalkers, a story about the Native Americans whose language was the basis for an unbreakable code used in combat radio transmissions, Cage plays Italian-American Marine Sgt. Joe Enders, who is assigned to guard and protect one of these Navajo radio men. Director Woo, who made movies in his native China for nearly 30 years before breaking into American films, has a long-standing reputation for action-packed thrillers—his occidental entries include Broken Arrow, Face/Off, and Mission: Impossible II—and he certainly does not stray from his established style with this one. Windtalkers, while nicely filmed and ostensibly about race relations and the difficulty of following orders, is as brutal as they come, with a near-oversaturation of violent war footage, suffering, and death. While some may have used this fascinating subject matter to craft a serious drama with historical significance, Woo and his writers, John Rice and Joe Batteer, choose instead to stay with the high-octane action format.

The film begins on the Solomon Islands during a brutal 1943 battle against the Japanese, where Enders suffers the loss of his entire group, not to mention his equilibrium and the hearing in his left ear, thanks to a grenade that explodes at close range. Although he is not fit for return to combat, he enlists the help of a comely young nurse (Frances O'Connor) to help him fake his way back into action. His next assignment is to play bodyguard to newly-enlisted Pvt. Ben Yahzee (Adam Beach, Smoke Signals), with the coldly mercinary understanding that if Yahzee is ever in danger of being taken captive by the enemy, Enders is to execute him rather than risk having him divulge the secrets of the Navajo code language. "Your mission is to protect the code," his commanding officer tells him. While Yahzee and his Indian friend, Pvt. Charles Whitehorse (Navajo American and Gulf War veteran Roger Willie in his acting debut) are blissfully unaware of their superiors' deadly orders, Enders and fellow sergeant Peter "Ox" Henderson (Christian Slater), who is assigned as Whitehorse's guardian, discuss whether or not they could fulfill these orders if it ever became necessary. That is to say, Henderson talks and Enders rudely ignores him, as he does everyone in the movie, apparently suffering from the sort of "battle fatigue" that makes you rudely ignore everyone.

After this introductory period, the group is assigned to serve on Saipan, where they encounter 30,000 Japanese soldiers who have no intention of letting the island be taken, and the gruesome and deafening violence of the situation is played out in the most graphic terms, with soldiers being shot, burned, blown up, and/or decapitated, while doing the same to the Japanese. Meanwhile, Yahzee and Whitehorse endure the racial prejudice of some of the other men, like one particularly annoying corporal (Noah Emmerich), while Enders pops pills to counteract his vertigo and hears the voices of his fallen men echoing in his melted ear. And sure enough, there eventually, inevitably comes the time when the Indians are likely to be taken prisoner. What to do, what to do.

This is certainly an exciting movie; director Woo has little trouble executing the reality of the horror and racheting up the tension. I wish there had been more time spent on the Navajo code and less on graphic violence, and Cage's characterization was more annoying than sympathetic to me. But what are you gonna do—it's blockbuster season. ★★★★

WVPT Presenting Smokey Joe's Café Week Of June 25

West Virginia Public Theatre (WVPT), Morgantown, will present Smokey Joe's Cafe, a musical revue featuring the music of Jerry Lieber and Mike Stoller, June 25 through June 30. Smokey Joe's Cafe is directed and choreographed by Peggy Taphorn, with musical direction by Manny Moreira.

Smokey Joe's Cafe contains every Lieber and Stoller hit from the 1950s and '60s, including "Hound Dog," "Love Potion No. 9," "Yakety Yak," and "Stand by Me." According to a WVPT spokesperson, the songwriting team advanced Rock and Roll to new heights of musical sophistication from 1953 to 1963, and wrote for musical icons like the Drifters, as well as Elvis Presley, who recorded more than 20 Lieber and Stoller songs throughout his career.

The New York Daily News calls the show, "Two hours of pure musical joy!" NY1 News calls it "A whole lot of fun! Wildly infectious music!" Smokey Joe's Cafe opened on Broadway in March 1995, was nominated for seven Tony Awards, and in 1996 won the Grammy award for Best Musical Show Album. The show ran for five years, making it the longest running Broadway revue in history.

Director/choreographer Peggy Taphorn returns to Morgantown this season, having appeared as Rizo in Grease, Cleo in The Most Happy Fella, and Sally Bowles in Cabaret on the WVPT stage. She has also been part of the artistic/management team on such prestigious Broadway shows as Showboat and Smokey Joe's Cafe. The cast includes Morgantown native Trevor Nicholas, who appeared in the recent national tour of Big River as Jim. He was last seen on the WVPT stage in the 1999 production of Showboat.

Season subscriptions are still available for the seven remaining shows, as well as single tickets, with discounts for students and seniors. For tickets, persons may call 304-599-6785 (or 1-877-999-9878 outside the 304 area code) or visit the WVPT Box Office between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Baker Garden To Be Part Of Secret Country Tour

The garden of Dale and Susan Baker, located along Oakland-Sang Run Road, will be among those featured in the Secret Country Gardens Tour, sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club. The tour, which will feature five gardens, is slated for Saturday, June 29, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

From wilderness to logging, this Baker property has seen many changes. Lined with ferns, the woodland trail will take visitors through stands of hemlocks and the "Old Swallow Falls Ball Field," where a mountain meadow is being developed with native plants. A seat by the fish pond will offer sounds of a waterfall, and, nearby in the shade garden, varieties of ferns, hostas, and astilbes will be found.

The Baker's gardens reflect the natural setting of the landscape, offering blooms from early spring to late fall. While they have accomplished much in developing their garden, Dale Baker still considers the garden "a work in progress," he said.

Tickets for the garden tour, which will include coupons, maps, and written directions, are $5 and may be purchased in advance at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and Terra Alta, W.Va., and Deep Creek Pharmacy; or, on the day of the event, at the Gazebo in Oakland, which is located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of area communities as well as the encouragement of gardening and conservation through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society. The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

Oaks Drop Two Of Three To Tri-State In Pen Mar Play

The Oakland Oaks ran into a tough Tri-State squad over the weekend, and came away with just one win over the course of two Pen Mar Baseball League doubleheaders. Tri-State swept Saturday's pair with ease, 7-1, 7-3, then took a 6-4 opener win Sunday before Oakland redeemed itself with a hard-fought 3-2 win in the nightcap.

The Oaks were limited to just three singles by Tri-State's Brian Powell in Saturday's first game at Allegany College of Maryland. The Titan hosts took a one-run lead in the second inning, but the Oaks tied the score with a run in the third. Tri-State then exploded for six runs in the fifth to put the game on ice. Chris Smith started the game for Oakland, and Steve Harvey was summoned for relief duty in the fifth inning.

Oakland got off to a good start in the second outing by taking a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Mike Bowman and Joel Uphold drove home those scores, and the Oaks' lead held until the Titans erupted for seven runs in the fifth inning. Josh Bosley started the contest for the Oaks, and Chris Harvey took over in the fifth. Oakland improved its offense by rapping out six hits overall.

Sunday's first outing at Garrett Community College saw the Titans score one run in both the first and second innings, three runs in the third, and one in the fourth to take a 6-0 lead. Oakland pulled within striking distance with two runs in each of the fifth and sixth stanzas, but fell short of catching its guest.

The Oaks stroked 10 hits off the Titan hurler, and Seth Tressler had a big day by going 3-for-4 with a home run and two singles for two RBI. Bosley, Uphold, and Rob Thompson had two hits each. Thompson worked the first five innings for Oakland on the mound.

Oakland staved off another sweep by taking a one-run win in the nightcap. Dave Tranquilli scored an Oaks' run in the first inning, then both teams remained scoreless until the fifth, when the Titans grabbed a 2-1 lead with two scores of its own. The Oaks closed ranks, however, and scored twice in the bottom of the same stanza on RBIs by Bosley and Mike Shahan.

Bosley went 3-for-4 in the contest, ripping a double along the way. Shahan doubled in a run as well. Chris Fisher tossed the complete-game victory, striking out five and walking three.

Oakland (3-4) hosts Rosemont (4-3) in a 2 p.m. Saturday twinbill at GCC.

Garrett Racks Up Big Scores In Wins Over Post 13, Frostburg

Garrett Legion opened the floodgates this week to unleash a torrent of runs, as the local squad wiped out Fort Cumberland Post 13 by a 12-5 margin Monday, then downed Frostburg last night by a 15-13 tally. (Details of yesterday's contest were not available; see box score.) The action gives Garrett a 3-0 record in Mountain District American Legion baseball play.

Garrett's Tobi Stoner whiffed 14 Cumberland batters in his nine-inning, complete-game triumph, scattering five hits and walking just three batters along the way. The quartet of opposing pitchers who faced Garrett's batting lineup didn't have the same luck, however, as the local team exploded for 13 hits, including a three-run home run by J.J. Bolyard that highlighted a five-run Garrett ninth inning.

Visiting Garrett took a 2-0 lead in the top of the second, but the hosts answered with two runs of their own in the bottom of the inning, then scored two more runs in the fourth to take a 4-2 lead. Garrett knotted the score with a two-run sixth, then stormed into the lead with three runs in the next inning. Cumberland scored once in the bottom half of the seventh before the ninth-inning Garrett explosion.

Bolyard smacked a double and a single to add to his home run, and Billy Reams doubled and singled twice for two RBI. Stoner tallied two singles and had one RBI.

Wisp Steamrolls Rotary In Hot Stove Slaughter

The Wisp at Deep Creek squad continues to set the Hot Stove Baseball League on fire, as the local squad went into high gear for a convincing 18-4 triumph over visiting Rotary Monday at Northern High School. The Wisp batters exploded for 17 hits during the slugfest, while the unit's pitching duo held Rotary to just four hits.

Rotary got off to an early 2-0 start in the top of the first inning, but Wisp matched that tally with a pair of its own runs in the bottom of the stanza. Wisp exploded for seven runs in the second and four in the third to take an insurmountable 13-2 advantage. Rotary finally got on the board again with two runs in the fourth, but Wisp pushed five more runs across the plate in the bottom of the inning.

Corey Carr recorded four Wisp RBIs, three of which came on a double. Michael Wolf had four singles and scored four times. Preston Sisler stroked three singles for two RBIs, and Robert Stark drove home another pair with two singles of his own. Derrick Lowdermilk tripled for two RBIs, and John Thorp singled twice.

Lowdermilk started the game on the mound, and tossed the first three innings to net the win. Carr was summoned for relief duty in the fourth and pitched the rest of the way.

Wisp (9-1) is slated to play Barton Mining tomorrow afternoon at Westmar.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

WET, RAW, AND HOWLING
by Dan Muss

Yes, that's the way it was on Saturday, spitting rain, cold, and the wind about 10 to 15 knots with gusts coming from every which way up to 25. Flying Scot C Fleet decided quickly not to go and there weren't many that did decide to race. Those that went out had a tough time, but they reported that they had a good time.

In the second race Meredith Dodd, in second place in the Flying Scot A Fleet, was less than a boat length away from the finish line with her sister Ashley as her middle crew and George Davison as her forward crew. Ashley, who was hiked out hard, suddenly lost her grip and fell out of the boat. Thinking quickly, Meredith jibed around, came back upwind while George plucked Ashley from the water. Dodd hardened up and crossed the finish line just ahead of John Frank to hold second. That was an impressive display of seamanship. The amazing thing about the day's racing was that only one Flying Scot capsized.

When our son James was about 7 years old he was crewing for me in a race. Going downwind with a spinnaker up something got fowled up forward and I sent him up to untangle it. He did, but as he was coming back he fell off the boat, fortunately to windward. As he came by I reached out and picked him up by his lifejacket — he only weighed about 50 pounds back then.

Dave Bertsch and crew Ronn Downey were waiting to start when their mainsheet came completely out of the mainsheet cleat, the mid-boom turning block, and the block at the end of the boom. He sailed into the shelter of Poland Run on his jib and was able to rethread the sheet, but he failed to get it through the mid-boom block. He started two minutes late, but with the mainsheet coming directly from the end of the boom to the mainsheet cleat on the centerboard trunk every time he tacked in this heavy air the mainsheet threatened to take his head off.

Let me remind you sailors that while we let out the mainsail first when sailing close-hauled in heavy air in order to avoid heavy weather helm, there comes a time when that will produce a strong leeward helm — and that is dangerous. At the point you start to feel a leeward helm, have your crew let out on the jib a little, pull the main in a little and bear off somewhat. That will keep you going and avoid a capsize.

Sunday was not as raw as Saturday, but the wind was even stronger. Race commander Gary Schubert measured just under 30 knots at the end of the Deerhaven dock. It was even stronger out in the slot. Gary wisely decided to cancel.

Oral Cancer Can Be Prevented; Awareness Week June 23 To 29

by Cynthia Heselbach, RDH, Garrett County Health Department

In observance of Oral Cancer Awareness Week — June 23 to June 29, the Garrett County Health Department would like to inform residents about this dangerous disease.

Oral cancer accounts for 4 percent of cancers diagnosed annually in the United States. The survival rate for this disease is around 50 percent.

The overall survival rate for oral cancer in the U.S. has not improved during the past 16 years, unlike the rates for breast, prostate, and colorectal cancers. More people die from oral cancer than from cervical cancer or melanoma of the skin.

"The good news about oral cancer is that it can be prevented in most cases," said Rodney Glotfelty, health officer. "According to the American Cancer Society, 90 percent of the people diagnosed with oral cancer use tobacco products of one kind or another. Eliminating the use of tobacco can reduce significantly the possibility of developing this disease."

At least 75 percent of those with oral cancer are also heavy consumers of alcohol. The disease is six times more prevalent in drinkers of alcohol than in non-smokers.

Prolonged exposure to the sun is another contributing factor. More than 30 percent of patients with lip cancers have outdoor occupations associated with increased exposure to sunlight.

Additionally, men are twice as likely to develop oral cancer as women. African-American men are particularly at risk for developing oral cancer and dying from it. Only one out of three African Americans who are diagnosed with this disease survive for five years or more, compared with more than half of whites who are diagnosed.

Signs and Symptoms

If any of the following signs and symptoms is prevalent for more than two weeks, a physician or dentist should be consulted:

- A white or red patch in the mouth.
- A sore, irritation, lump, or thickening of the mouth.
- Difficulty moving the tongue or jaw.
- Numbness of the tongue or other areas of the mouth.
- Swelling of the jaw that causes dentures to fit poorly or become uncomfortable.

Persons should ask their dentists or physicians to do a annual head and neck exam on them. For more information on oral exams and oral cancer prevention, persons may call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7660.

Molly Thayer Gets Scholarship

Oakland native Molly Grey Thayer recently received an Effective Leader Scholarship from Cedarville University, Cedarville, Ohio. The university awards these scholarships to first-year students who have high SAT/ACT scores, a cumulative high school grade point average of 3.0 or higher, outstanding character and recommendations, and extensive extracurricular leadership and service involvements.

Thayer, a 2002 graduate of Southern High School, was a member of the National Honor Society, and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

A distinguished honor roll student, she was also a member of Minds in Motion, the School Improvement Team, and the student council. She received first place in the training level of the Bassett Highlands Dressage Show.

She is the daughter of Stuart and Vivian Thayer, and plans to major in biology.

Cedarville is an accredited Baptist university, and offers 100 areas of study to approximately 3,000 students.

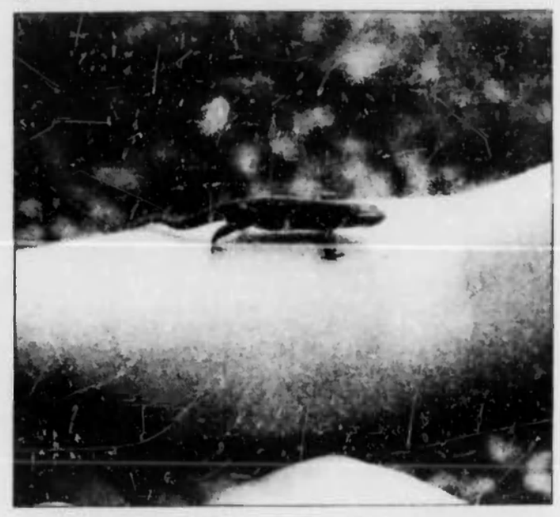
GCC Grads Reveal Variety Of Plans For Study, Work

Fifty recent Garrett Community College graduates responded to a college-sponsored survey about their future plans recently, and the majority indicated that they are planning to transfer to another college or university to complete their education. The survey does not represent the entire class of graduates, but only those who responded, a college spokesperson pointed out.

As in previous years, Frostburg State University is the college of choice for most of the graduates. Fifteen are planning to attend FSU in the fall to pursue academic programs such as education, psychology, art, recreation, and business.

Three students plan to attend Fairmont State College and three others are on their way to University Maryland Baltimore County. Two will enroll at West Virginia University, and one plans to return to GCC. Other colleges where a GCC graduate will enroll are University of Maryland College Park, Salisbury



State University, Ohio State University, Rocky Mountain College, and Western State College. One graduate plans to complete a bachelors degree by taking online courses, and one will attend the Talinn Pedagogical University in Estonia.

Eighteen graduates indicated that they will seek employment or continue in their present positions at accounting offices, banks, medical offices, the Garrett County Community Action Committee, and GCC. Three graduates of the Adventure Sports Program and three of the Natural Resources Wildlife Technology Program will be shunning office jobs to find employment in their chosen fields. One graduate plans to enter the U.S. Coast Guard, and one will do volunteer service.

Although these responses show the majority of graduates planning to continue their education, students who graduated in transfer programs represent only about 35 percent of the total number of graduates. The majority of GCC students received degrees and certificates in career advancement programs that prepare them for entry into the work force.

Johnson Assumes Co-Ownership Of Coldwell Banker

Scott B. Johnson has joined Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty as a co-owner and sales associate, the company has announced. Johnson will co-manage the company along with co-owner and general manager Ruth Seib, while Robert Huebner, who has been an owner/broker with the company since 1985, will step down from ownership and management responsibilities.

Johnson brings 35 years of sales and marketing experience with Honeywell to his new post. Primarily based out of Pittsburgh, he has held the positions of market manager, account executive, national account sales manager, and burner boiler control specialist. He earned a degree in economics from St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn.

Johnson and his wife Beth have been part-time residents at Deep Creek Lake since 1980, and moved to the area fulltime in 1996. He serves on the board of directors of the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association, is church council president at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, is a member of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, and is a "lunch buddy" volunteer mentor with Big Brothers Big Sisters. The couple have three children: Kristin Weight of Medina, Ohio; Sarah Ohm of Zumbrota, Minn.; and Ben Johnson of Pittsburgh.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce UPDATE

Home of Deep Creek Lake

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors held its monthly meeting July 13, attended by both newly elected and outgoing board members. Board chair Jonathan Kessler welcomed new members Judy Devlin, Denny Glotfelty, and Jimmy Railey, who were beginning their three-year terms of service. He thanked outgoing members Sandy Major, Brenda McDonnell, and Jim Murray for their contributions to the Chamber on behalf of the community. Kessler told board members that a $1,000 donation from ClosetMaid, presented at the annual dinner on June 6, would be used to defray the cost of July 4 fireworks.

In the absence of board president Ken Wishnick, Deb Clatterbuck introduced the new staff administrative assistant Amy Custer and presented two brochures: Travel by Boat and Visit Our Working Farms.

Kessler reported on behalf of the Recreational Trails task force chair, Steve Green, that the state will soon begin work on the section of trail along Route 219 between Thayerville and the Visitors Center.

Karen Meyers, chair of the Special Events Task Force, reported that plans for the Autumn Glory Kick-off Dinner are under way and include a band and dancing. She also said that the Annual Dinner was a success with the largest attendance recorded for that event.

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain Jr. reported that the Little Yough Summer Music Festival, sponsored by Oakland businesses and free to the public, begins June 21. The town is developing a new brochure for visitors and has made the historic B&O station available to a model railroad club, which started recently.

Elections were held for new board officers, who form the executive committee. The votes were tallied with the following results: chair- Steve Green of High Mountain Sports; first vice chair - Jerry Geisler of the Wisp Resort; second vice chair- Bill Meagher of Lakeside Creamery and Copper Kettle Popcorn Factory; secretary - Marta Schroyer of Deepcreektimes.com; and treasurer - Jeff McCauley of F&M Bank.

Following the election, the first board meeting for FY 2003 convened, presided over by Geisler in the absence of Green.

The board reviewed the designs submitted for consideration as chamber logos. Several modifications will be requested with the issue revisited at a later meeting.

Geisler raised the issue of the search for a candidate to replace Wishnick, who has submitted his resignation as president of the Chamber, effective July 12. Discussion among the members led to the formation of a task force consisting of Railey, Geisler, Umbel, and Kessler and chaired by Meagher. The task force will review the resumes of candidates, select the top five candidates to interview, and present the three most qualified people to the board for final decision.

The following new members approved: Elements of Design owned by Ellen Housely, Accident, Interior Design; Sacred Ground owned by Bob Feeney, Deep Creek Lake, Southwest Jewelry & Pottery; and Gap Run Farm, Inc., owned by George, Joyce, & Bill Bishoff, Friendsville, Dairy Farm.

The next meeting was scheduled for Thursday, July 18, at 8 a.m. in the conference Room of the Visitors Center, McHenry.

Let's Get Down To Business!

Savage River Log Manufacturing

Savage River Log Manufacturing, located along Dry Run Road, has started production of its new and innovative log for the log home building industry.

The logs it produces are 10" in diameter with a Swedish cope and a half notch design. They are made from premium grade spruce lumber, which has been run through a moulder and then laminated to form the logs' diameter. This unique and innovative process forms the log with a 7" hollow core into which insulated foam is inserted.

The advantages of this type of log are a higher R-value, lighter weight, controlled moisture content, no checking, and a savings on transportation delivery charges, since the log is produced locally.

This log process was developed over a period of two years by the company's owner, Ken Bock, local entrepreneur, who also designed and manufactured a hot dog push cart known as Dyna Cart.

Savage River Log Manufacturing plans to market its product factory direct and on the Internet. Its logs will be available in three forms: hollowcore for decorative beams; foam filled for walls; and structural for roof trusses and floor beams.

The cost structure of its logs is competitive with solid logs and comparably has more advantages.

Savage River Logs will not be in the log home construction business, although it does plan to sell a small one room log cabin kit (16'x24').

Persons interested in its log products can call 301-245-4440. Tours of its log manufacturing facility may also be made by calling this number.

Ken and his wife Susan own the Savage River Inn Bed and Breakfast.

NEW AND INNOVATIVE LOGS HAVE BEEN CREATED by Savage River Log Manufacturing for the log home building industry. Ken Bock, owner, has spent two years developing the unique logs. Persons interested in these logs or a tour of the Dry Run Road factory may call 301-245-4440. See story for more details.

Country Extra Publishes Item

Sharon Kight of Oakland has authored an item that appears in the current (July 2002) issue of Country Extra magazine. Her submission, "When mowing an embankment, to keep from slipping and falling use a pair of golf shoes," was accepted for publication in the magazine's regular "Short Cut" suggestion section.

The local resident credited an unidentified friend of hers with the original idea. "The shoes work great to prevent a fall," Kight explained.

INTERSTATE 79
by Cheryl Baker-Stasiak

Torrential rain and storms on Thursday evening and Friday morning forced yet another cancellation at Interstate 79 Speedway last weekend. Promoter Steve Baker said that the track was very soft and rocks had covered the racing surface. The Kids' Bike Races have been rescheduled for Friday evening, June 21. Also on the schedule will be the AMRA Road Warrior tour sponsored by Racersmate. The modified division will be joined by the Late Models, Semi Lates, and Pure Stocks.

On Friday, June 28, the West Virginia State Championship Series by Kendle returns with race number 3. Also on the card will be the Semi Lates, AMRA Modifieds, and the Pure Stocks. Mike Balzano of Parkersburg, W.Va., is the current point leader in the Series. Following closely is Weston, W.Va.'s, Tim Hitt and Clarksburg, W.Va.'s, Paul Wilmoth Jr.

With the Shinnston Plumbing Mid-Season Championship coming up on Friday, July 5, all regular point battles are very close. Double points will be awarded in all divisions. Butch McGill (1,110) is leading Robbie Scott (1,100), and Paul Wilmoth Jr. (1,060) in the Late Model division. In the Semi Lates it is Jeff Kesling (1,600) over Steve Wilmoth (1,550), and M.T. Hall (1,420). Vic Vandergrift (1,580) has the largest lead in any division. Louie Krushanky (1,370) and Deck Defibaugh (1,300) are second and third, respectively. The Pennsylvania Posse is dominating the Pure Stock division as Chuck Bloom (1,495) leads over 2001 Champ, Jim Byers (1,450), and John Redshaw (1,440).

Oakland Man Handed 13-Week Incarceration

An Oakland man was handed a total 13-month sentence as a result of two Garrett County District Court hearings recently, with all but 13 weeks of that term suspended. The defendant had been arrested twice in a less than a two-week span by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who had charged him with a variety of offenses.

Steven Clark Rader, 42, was initially arrested for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and driving while impaired and driving while under the influence (DUI), after a March 13 traffic stop on George Washington Highway near Wilson-Corona Road.

Rader was jailed again less than two weeks later when the investigation of an early-morning March 24 vehicle accident led deputies to conclude that he had wrecked his vehicle along Hutton Road and immediately fled the scene. He was taken into custody the following day at his home and charged with DUI, leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving, negligent driving, failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision, failure to drive right of center, and driving an uninsured vehicle.

After Rader pleaded guilty to marijuana possession, driving while impaired, DUI, and failure to remain at the scene, he was handed the jail term and was fined $1,500 and placed on two years of supervised probation by Judge Ralph M. Burnett. The remainder of the charges were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

In other district court news, David Allen Evans, 40, Bayard, W.Va., pleaded guilty to drug charges, and was handed a two-month jail term and two years of supervised probation. Additional charges of obtaining a controlled substance with a forged prescription and prescription forgery were not prosecuted.

Evans's April arrest by Garrett Bureau of Investigation detectives stemmed from a probe initiated by the suspicion of an alert Oakland pharmacist employed at Gregg's Pharmacy. Concerned about the appearance of a written prescription for Oxycodene that Evans had submitted, the pharmacist contacted the local doctor's office that had apparently issued the prescription and learned that no such order had originated in that office.

Evans was arrested in the McDonald's parking lot across from Gregg's immediately after he picked up the filled prescription. Several Oxycodene pills were found in Evans's car at the scene, and a quantity of marijuana was discovered in his pocket during a routine search at the jail.

Kevin Lee Hartman, 29, Elk Garden, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a felony charge of uttering a bad check and was handed a one-year sentence, all but two months of which was suspended, and was placed on two years of supervised probation. Hartman's February arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he wrote a worthless check to the Oakland Wal-Mart Supercenter for $633. He was ordered to pay the store full restitution.

Ricky Shawn Bowman, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to two separate charges of violating an ex parte order and was handed a total sentence of four months, all of which was suspended, and was fined $50 and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Sheriff's deputies had jailed Bowman twice in April. One of the arrests ensued after he was observed on Southern High School property apparently watching the victim, who had already obtained a court order banning him from contacting her and from being on SHS property. The other arrest occurred after he had allegedly telephoned a relative of the victim and made threats concerning her safety, also while the court order was in effect.

Danny Lee Arbogast, 35, Oakland, pleaded guilty to second degree assault and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $50, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 20 hours of community service.

Arbogast's April arrest by Department of Natural Resources rangers stemmed from an incident of inappropriate touching of an adult, a fellow employee at Herrington Manor State Park. While on duty and riding with the victim in a state vehicle, Arbogast placed a hand on her thigh and put his arm around her shoulder in incidents witnessed by a third employee. Alcohol was believed to be a factor in his behavior. An additional charge of driving on a suspended license was not prosecuted.

Michelle Shayann Hornsby, 26, Keyser, W.Va., pleaded guilty to one count of misdemeanor theft scheme, while prosecutors declined to prosecute five counts of misdemeanor theft and six counts of uttering bad checks.

Hornsby was handed a six-month suspended sentence, placed on three years of supervised probation, and ordered to pay restitution to each of the five Garrett County businesses she had victimized with checks ranging from $58 to $85. GBI investigators arrested Hornsby in March after completing their probe of the October incidents.

David Ryan Wampler, 19, Accident, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) and a 30-day sentence, all but 30 hours of which was suspended, fined $200, placed on one year of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Maryland State Police troopers jailed Wampler following a March traffic stop along National Highway near Keyser's Ridge. The arresting trooper noted the odor of burnt marijuana emanating from Wampler's vehicle and observed marijuana leaves and seeds lying in plain view on the car's floor. A subsequent search uncovered a bag of marijuana and rolling papers in his pocket.

Susan Marie Warner, 43, Oakland, was handed a PBJ, a $510 fine, and one year of supervised probation after he pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of property and driving while impaired. Additional charges of second degree assault on a jail staffer, DUI, and negligent driving were not prosecuted. Visiting Judge Timothy Finan presided at the hearing.

The charges were filed by sheriff's deputies who had arrested Warner in December after a DUI traffic stop along Hutton Road. After being booked into the jail, she grew unruly and used her hand to break the plexiglass cover to the ceiling light in her cell. She then used a piece of broken plexiglass as a weapon to inflict a minor cut to the arm of a jail guard. The report noted that Warner had to be subdued with the use of pepper spray.

Dennis James Thorp Jr., 18, Accident, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a PBJ, fined $205, and was placed on one year of unsupervised probation. Additional charges of possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

Thorp's March arrest came after a traffic stop by sheriff's deputies along Garrett Highway in McHenry. After a drug detection canine alerted for the possible presence of drugs, Thorp gave permission for a search which revealed that WELLNESS BLOOD SCREENING A SUCCESS — Garrett County Memorial Hospital held its annual Wellness Blood Screening at Garrett Rehab recently. Participants were given a comprehensive blood screening, which included a complete chemistry series, liver function, thyroid function, coronary risk assessment, hematology, and diabetes management. An optional prostate function test was offered to male participants. More than 550 local residents participated in the screening, which also included an oral cancer screening, sun damage screening, and body mechanics screening. "These tests would normally cost over $200. This screening offered individuals, especially those without health insurance, the opportunity to receive these tests at a reduced price," said Deana Closter, GCMH wellness coordinator. Linda Stresky, nurse practitioner with Garrett Medical Group said, "I talk with patients about the Wellness Blood Screening all year long. It's an affordable way to help monitor their overall wellness." Pictured above is Stresky, on the right, discussing test results with her patient, Patricia Bowser, Oakland.

ELCA Women Meeting Held

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church recently.

The study was from a three-session Bible study "Listen, God is Calling," which is the theme of the Women of the ELCA triennial convention to be held in July. The first section, "Gifted and Called," was led by Leota Baker. Each person was challenged to find her unique place in God's plan as she learned ways in which God calls and gives gifts for ministry.

Devotions closed with singing the hymn "Jesus Calls Us; O'er the Tumult."

A gift offering has been received from Viola Meyers, a former member of Zion's unit.

A special offering was received from the family of Dorothy Burow, as a gift of appreciation for having served lunch after her funeral. A portion of this offering and the offerings received from individuals in memory of Mrs. Burow will be forwarded to Women of the ELCA — Churchwide. Missionary support was the specific ministry chosen to receive this gift.

The names of Ruthella Resh and Dorothy Burow have been submitted to be remembered in the memorial service during the West Virginia/Western Maryland synodical convention of Women of the ELCA in August.

Head Start Gets Local Support For Events

Friendsville Head Start received various donations from local supporters, who helped enhance the students' end-of-the-school-year field trip, celebration, and ceremony.

Each year, community support plays an important role in the success of the efforts of Head Start parent groups "to provide their children with fun and lasting memories," said a spokesperson for Head Start.

This year, because of last-minute mechanical problems, Roger Zbel of Precision Rafting, Friendsville, arranged and provided a school bus and driver to transport students and parents to Storybook Forest in Pennsylvania for their field trip.

Robin Bittinger of Jeweltones Screen Printing donated printed T-shirts for the class trip.

The class's trip and a celebration luau were funded by the Friendsville Head Start Parent Group through fund-raising efforts and donations.

For example, a raffle was held for various prizes. The first-prize winner of a hope chest was Robin Kisner. The chest was crafted by Ken Hardesty from wood donated by Wood Products. Second-prize was $50 and was won by Bonnie Sines. Norma Frazee won the third-prize, a gift certificate donated by Uno Resturant.

The town of Friendsville also donated the use of the community park stage and bleachers for the students' year-end ceremony.

by Kearstin Clay

A former resident of Garrett County captured a major honor recently in her current home state of Pennsylvania.

Renelda Thomas, 68, Uniontown, formerly of Friendsville, was crowned Ms. Senior Pennsylvania on Friday, May 24. The pageant, held in Philadelphia at the Pennsylvania Convention Center, was a preliminary contest for the Ms. Senior America pageant, which will be held November 10-16 in Biloxi, Miss. Peggy Savadeck, a Monongahela woman, was named second-runner-up.

Thomas said she can't explain exactly what she was feeling when she was crowned Ms. Senior Pennsylvania. "I couldn't even attempt to tell you what it was like...I just can't explain the feeling. I don't know," she said.

The competition is an all-day event, beginning at 7 a.m. and finishing around 8 p.m. "It was so fast-paced. Everything tumbled over another, then next thing you know it was show time," Thomas said.

Contestants begin their day with a morning rehearsal, followed by a personal interview in the afternoon, and finally the pageant itself, which is composed of three segments: a presentation on their "philosophy of life," a talent portion, and eveningwear.

Women who have reached the "Age of Elegance" (60 years of age and older) are eligible for entry and to be judged on a combination of talent, inner beauty, elegance, and individual fulfillment. "... The pageant seeks to draw attention to the achievements of senior women," according to the Senior America Pageant web site. "It is a search for the gracious lady who best exemplifies the dignity, maturity, and inner beauty of all senior Americans."

Thomas, who once taught school in Aurora, W.Va., is certainly not lacking in achievements. A talented writer, painter, and musician, she combined all three for the talent portion of the competition. While reciting her poems "Life" and "My Rainbow" through word and song, she displayed several paintings and other poems. However, according to Thomas, her six children are her greatest accomplishments; that is what she told the judges when asked during the "philosophy of life" presentation. "Losing a beautiful child (Anna Lynn, 7) at a tender age is devastating, but raising five to successful adulthood is triumph over tragedy," Thomas said.

Her children, Nancy Otto, Lois Stasulis, and Craig Frazee, of Virginia; Brenda Bryner of Smithfield, Pa.; and Lori Frazee of Maryland, are happy about the crowning of their mother, but were unable to attend the competition. Thomas did not announce her participation in the pageant until the last minute. "I didn't want to tell anyone in case I chickened out at the last minute," she said.

Subsequently, Thomas traveled across the state alone to compete against the eight other women vying for the Ms. Senior Pennsylvania crown. Because she travels frequently to visit her children, Thomas had no quahns about making the lengthy trip unaccompanied. Her long-time motto has been "have car, will travel."

Judges smiled upon hearing her saying during the interview portion of the competition. Thomas said, "They seemed to like that. I guess since I will be traveling a lot. They told me to expect to be very busy."

Ms. Senior Pennsylvania will travel and make public appearances throughout the state as part of her duties.

Thomas currently works part time with the Governor's Institute of West Virginia, but is excited about the new title and its duties. She plans to make many visits to local nursing homes and senior centers, and is looking forward to meeting new and different people.

Living up to her motto, the newly crowned Ms. Pennsylvania made her first appearance with her new title when she visited a nursing home in York, Pa., where her brother-in-law, Bennie Pook, also formerly of Friendsville, resides. Before heading for home she stopped at a family barbecue, also in York.

When Thomas finally made it back to Uniontown she was warmly welcomed by friends and neighbors who had brightly colored posters and large yellow banners hanging from her garage and front door boasting her success.

According to Thomas, the reality of it all hasn't "sunk in yet." "I can't believe I will represent the state in this national competition. We're talking the whole country here," she said with a smile.

Thomas expects the national competition, which is scheduled for November, to be more challenging. "I hear the competition is tough, that a lot of showbiz people participate," she said.

But in keeping with her "philosophy of life," Thomas says she will remain optimistic, and added, "To succeed against adversities one must have faith in God and self."

Carr To Attend Junior Leaders Conference

Caitlin Carr has been selected to attend the 2002 National Junior Leaders Conference in Boston, Mass., this summer. Carr, a student at Northern Middle School, was selected as a student who has demonstrated academic excellence, extracurricular involvement, and strong leadership potential.

Approximately 800 middle school students from around the country will attend the NJLC in Washington, D.C., Boston, or Houston, Texas. Through special interactive workshops and activities, they will learn and practice leadership skills, including effective communication, problem solving, conflict resolution, team building, and time management.

"They'll develop confidence and maturity while gaining skills that will help them achieve success in high school, college, and life," said Dr. Gilbert Morris, NJLC director of academics.

At this year's conference, students may choose from two academic focuses: law and justice; or defense, intelligence, and diplomacy. "They will be immersed in their chosen area of study and engage in real-world simulations," said a spokesperson for NJLC.

The students will also attend special briefings and field trips, and meet and talk with prominent leaders, such as judges, members of Congress, ambassadors, White House staff, and other government and military officials. Through discussions and debates, they will share ideas and be challenged to think in new ways.

Carr, the daughter of Skip and Linda Carr of Friendsville, just completed the seventh grade at NMS. There she participates in the band, and is a member of the Notables — an a capella singing group. She attends Zion Lutheran Church in Accident and is a member of its youth choir and youth group.

Pocket Map Published For Garrett County

ADC has just published its new Garrett County Maryland Pocket Map. The first map for the area to delineate accurate zip codes for the entire county, it also gives special information that relates to many special aspects of Garrett County, which has more parks and recreation venues and a higher elevation than any other county in the state.

"We knew it was important to finally provide users in the area with accurate zip code information on a map, " said Mark Turcotte, chief operating officer for ADC. "This information, published in this helpful and accurate format, has never been made available to the public before by any other publisher."

ADC has gone out of its way to make certain that its map for Garrett County addresses the unique characteristics of the county. said a spokesperson. For example, the map features marinas and ramps, which will be especially helpful to its users around Deep Creek Lake. Since Garrett County has the highest elevation in the state, the map indicates mountain elevation, and indexes its mountains. And since Garrett County has more state park property than any other county in Maryland, the map details their locations and even shows campsites.

"Garrett County recently went to a 911 emergency response system, and with that every house, store, etc., had to be given an address rather than any P.O. Boxes for an address, and every street had to be named rather than rural routes," said Turcotte. "Our new map features countywide addressing, which refers to the new 911 addressing system."

Other features include block numbers and a detailed enlargement of Oakland. The map provides numbered streets, route numbers, place names, airports, bridges, business parks, campsites, cemeteries, colleges and universities, community and recreation centers, fire companies, police stations, golf courses, hospitals, information centers, islands and points, lakes and streams, libraries, military and federal features, park-and-ride locations, places of worship, post offices, 5 digit ZIP Code boundaries, schools (public and private), shopping centers, and state, county and municipal features.

The ADC Garrett County, Maryland Pocket Map measures 27" x 39", has a suggested retail price of $3.95, and is available in bookstores, convenience stores, and wherever maps are sold. For further information about where to purchase ADC products, persons may contact ADC, 6440 General Green Way, Alexandria, VA 22312; call 1-800-ADCMAPS; or visit ADC on the World Wide Web: www.adcmap.com.

HBO's 'Married Man' due back in fall

By Taylor Michaels

Ivana Milicevic

Q: What ever happened to the HBO series "The Mind of the Married Man," and what can you tell me about the actress who played Mickey's assistant? –Erik K., Warwick, N.Y.

A: Mike Binder's testosterone-driven sitcom returns to HBO for a new season of episodes this fall, with Ivana Milicevic expected back in her role as Missy, Mickey's (Binder) assistant.

Born in Sarajevo, Milicevic came to the United States with her family at age 5 and grew up in Michigan. She took an accelerated course of study in high school to allow her to finish early and pursue her twin dreams of acting and modeling. A foray into stand-up comedy at The Comedy Store led to a guest role on "Seinfeld" as the wife of a Russian tennis player.

Now 23, Milicevic made her movie debut in "Jerry Maguire" under the name Ivana Marina (she also has used the surname Milavich), followed by feature film roles in "Crazy Six," "Postmortem," "Enemy of the State," "Kiss the Sky," "Head Over Heels," "Impostor" and "Vanilla Sky," among others. She was a regular on the short-lived WB Network sitcom "The Army Show"; had a recurring role on "Felicity"; and guest starred on "Nash Bridges," "Buffy the Vampire Slayer," "The Nanny" and "Unhappily Ever After."

Milicevic has a featured role in the coming film "Four Reasons."

Q: What can you tell me about Chris Larkin, who portrayed Darwin in PBS' "Evolution" and artist George Marston in A&E's "Shackleton"? –Jessica Wilson, Monroe, Mich.

A: While he is perhaps not as well-known as his younger brother, Toby Stephens (A&E's "The Great Gatsby"), Larkin, 35, is likewise the son of thespians Maggie Smith and Robert Stephens.

Trained at the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art, the actor took the surname of a favorite poet, Philip Larkin, when he discovered there already was a Christopher Stephens registered with Actor's Equity in Britain.

Larkin's previous credits include "Tea With Mussolini," in which his mother starred; a 1996 "Jane Eyre"; and the kinky 1995 "Angels & Insects," as well as a British TV series called "Roger Roger" and a miniseries called "Bliss." He also guest starred in an episode of "Highlander" called "Forgive Us Our Trespasses."

State, County Jobless Rates Fall In April

Maryland's unemployment rate dropped .02 of a percentage point to 5.0 percent in April, well below the national rate of 5.7 percent. In addition, the number of Marylanders employed in April set a record high for the month.

Garrett County's jobless rate dropped slightly more than two full points, from 9.5 percent in March to 7.4 percent in April. The rate for April of last year was 7.2 percent.

"Maryland's economy remains fundamentally strong, and our unemployment rate continues to be well below the national rate," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "Maryland is well positioned to prosper as the country's economy begins to rebound. Our highly educated workforce, world-class research institutions, and high quality of life are the primary factors businesses take into account when deciding where to relocate or expand their operations."

During April, unemployment rates either declined or held steady in 23 of the state's local jurisdictions. Half of the jurisdictions recorded unemployment rates below the statewide average. The lowest levels were 3.0 percent in Calvert County, 3.1 percent in Charles and Montgomery counties, and 3.2 percent in Talbot, St. Mary's, and Carroll counties. The number of Marylanders employed in April reached 2,751,371, a new record for the month.

Employers continued to hire workers to fill seasonal positions in April. Services and retail trade led the expansion, with noteworthy upturns reported in amusements, agricultural services, hotels, business services, food stores, restaurants, and home improvement stores. The construction industry continued to show strength, advancing for the third consecutive month.

4-H Club News

SNOWY CREEK
Will Gallagher, reporter

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held its June meeting recently. Members named a woodworking skill as the roll was called, and club president Jennifer Lowdermilk brought the meeting to order.

In old business, the Snowy Creek 4-H Club received first place in the Old Pike's festival, winning $100 in prize money. The club voted that June's activity would be building paddle boats, with Rick Lowdermilk in charge of the project. Members have started their boats and will finish them at a later date. It was also decided that July's activity would be the annual campfire and cookout.

In new business, the club discussed June's Adopt-a-Highway project, the spring weigh-in, and 4-H camp. The meeting was adjourned, and the next meeting will be held Thursday, July 11, at Nancy House's cabin.

DCL Discovery Center Slates Kids' Programs

The Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park is repeating two of its popular children's programs from last summer, the Park Pals and the Junior Rangers programs, both of which will get under way early next month.

The Park Pals program is open to children ages 3 through 7, and will take place over five consecutive Mondays from 1 to 2:30 p.m. beginning July 8. The program will introduce youngsters to the natural world through interactive programs, hikes, stories, crafts, and other activities. Parents must remain with their child and are encouraged to participate in the activities.

The Junior Rangers program, which also provides a "hands-on" education in nature knowledge and skills, is open to participants from ages 8 through 14, and will meet for five consecutive Tuesdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m., beginning July 9. The park's new Junior Ranger Station will serve as a base for the program, a statewide offering that provides an introduction to Maryland's state parks, the work of park rangers, and the natural resources of the state. Participants attend sessions and complete a workbook in order to earn the Junior Ranger patch, and can continue each year to obtain other patches until the entire program is completed.

Space for both the Park Pals and Junior Ranger programs is limited, and early registration is encouraged. The cost for each program is $20 per child and $15 for each additional sibling. For further information, or a registration form, persons may call the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

W.Va. Woman Sentenced For Theft Counts

A Terra Alta, W.Va., woman was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last week for four theft counts. Judge Jim Sherbin accepted 39-year-old Valerie Marie Shoemaker's guilty plea to the charges last month.

The 18-month periods run consecutively to each other, for a total of 36 months. Of that sentence, all but 60 days was suspended.

Following her release from the Garrett County Jail, Shoemaker will be on supervised probation for two years, with conditions including the payment of restitution to the businesses within the first year of her probation.

Prime Time

Those experienced in television programming know that there is a time when individuals and families are least distracted and most receptive to the presentation of information and entertainment. Dinner and chores are finished and it is not yet time for bed. The focus is on peace of mind and recharging for the day ahead. This window of time is known as "prime time".

Suppose one night, instead of "channel surfing", which may not contribute to peace of mind at all, you gather your family together and take this prime time to enrich your lives together. Some relaxed communication and family prayer could relieve those cycles of stress found in some homes. What a great way to improve your reading! In Hosea 10:12, we read... "for it is time to seek the Lord."

Additionally, you may seek the Lord as a family at your local church or synagogue. Won't you begin this week? You could make it a part of your weekly programming schedule.

Medicines Evaluated for Colorectal Cancer

Risk factors for developing colorectal cancer include a sedentary lifestyle, smoking, and a family history of colorectal cancer. Dietary risk factors include high levels of fat, red meat, and alcohol, as well as low levels of dietary folic acid, fiber, and vegetables.

Researchers recently reported that people who regularly take aspirin or other nonsteroidal antiinflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) such as ibuprofen, have less risk of several cancer types. Chronic use of NSAIDs reduced the risk for cancer of the colon, esophagus, rectum, and stomach by 18%, 26%, 33%, and 52% respectively. Medicine side effects, including inflammation of the stomach lining and ulcer formation, may limit their use.

The first NSAID approved for reducing intestinal polyps associated with hereditary colorectal cancer was celecoxib) (Celebrex). The recommended dose is 400 mg twice daily, which is higher than the arthritis dose. Other NSAIDs and aspirin are being evaluated. A multivitamin that contains lutein and at least 400 mcg/day of folic acid also may reduce colorectal cancer risk.

JUSTICE & JUDGEMENT

June 23, 2002

Background Scripture: Psalms 72; 82; 113.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 72:11-19.

"When are Americans going to wise up to the fact that lots of poor people are lazy, worthless and they don't deserve our help?" It wasn't so much a question as an affirmation. "Put them in decent housing and they will turn it into a pigpen. Put them in a nice neighborhood and they will trash it. Give them jobs and they'll loaf or just not show up. Give them money and they will spend it on booze or drugs." I walked away quickly and I was sorry I had overheard these remarks, because they were uttered in church!

I suppose that is not so surprising as it once might have been for, over the past 30 years in particular, I have noted a growing mood in our society that encourages people to despise the poor. This has been during a period in our economy when the gap between the rich and the poor has grown alarmingly and during which justice leans heavily in the direction of those who can afford it.

Archibald Rutledge has written about the widow of a black preacher who was always doing something for the poor. He was so impressed by her dedication that he built for her in his own backyard an immaculate little house. Shortly after the widow moved in, she invited a most disreputable woman in to visit. The widow's benefactor was irate: "How could you have invited that creature into your pretty new home?" Softly, the widow replied: "Jesus would."

Worthy of Compassion?

It is your privilege to believe that the poor do or may not deserve our help, but not as a follower of Jesus Christ, for he made it very clear how he regarded the poor and expected us to act toward them. He never taught his disciples to help only those who "deserved" help. Like the great prophets, he understood that God had a very special interest in and compassion for the poor—whether or not they were worthy.

Jesus taught that the quality of God's judgment would depend upon the quality of our compassion for others: "Depart from me, you cursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels; for I was hungry and you gave me no food, I was thirsty and you gave me no drink, I was a stranger and you did not welcome me, naked and you did not clothe me and in prison and you did not visit me" (Mt. 25:41-43). Response to the needy, whether deserving or not, is essential, not rituals nor doctrines.

No Exemptions

In Psalm 82 we have a scene that disturbs some readers because it depicts God taking "his place in the midst of the gods" (82:1). But, before we become embroiled in the specter of the existence of other gods, let us accept this image as simply an imaginative device used to demonstrate the sole sovereignty of the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. In verse. 2 the Lord castigates these gods for the injustice they tolerate and promote in the world: "Give justice to the weak and the fatherless; maintain the right of the afflicted and the destitute. Rescue the weak and the needy; deliver them from the hand of the wicked" (82:3,4). In Psalm 113 God is praised because: *"He raises the po

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Add to the list of ridiculous headlines: "Plane Too Close to Ground, Crash Probe Told."

• When figured on a per-participant basis, pole vaulting has the highest mortality rate of any sport. Between 1982 and 1998, there were 16 reported deaths among about 25,000 athletes.

• The name "Hong Kong" comes from the local "heang-keang," which means "fragrant waters."

• Before they became successful, the Beatles were turned down by four record companies. A spokesperson for the Decca Recording Company is quoted as saying in 1962, "We don't like their sound. Groups of guitars are on the way out."

• For the most populous nation on Earth, it may seem strange that China has only one billionaire. With 246, the United States has more billionaires than any other country.

• In 1982, David Grundman was killed by a cactus in the desert near Phoenix. For reasons unknown, he decided to shoot a giant saguaro cactus measuring 23 feet tall. After firing two shots at it, the plant fell over on top of Grundman and crushed him to death.

• Do you remember the song "Pop Goes the Weasel" from when you were a child? Did you have any idea what it was about? Well, most people don't — it has nothing to do with animals at all. It is thought to have originated with hat makers in London. To a hat maker, a "weasel" was one of the tools of his trade, and "to pop" once meant "to pawn." Whenever a hat maker needed some extra cash, he would "pop his weasel."

• In 1897, Typhoon II won that quintessential event in the horseracing world, the Kentucky Derby. Oddly, though, he ended his career by pulling milk wagons in Indianapolis.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have a number of original 45 rpm records by such artists as Elvis, the Beatles, Frank Sinatra and Barbra Streisand. They seem to be in excellent condition. Do these recordings have a value? — *Chris, Blanco, Texas

A. There are several excellent reference books that can help you find out the value of vintage recordings. My personal favorite is the Official Price Guide to Records compiled by Jerry Osborne and published by House of Collectibles. It generally sells for about $20 and is updated frequently.

It lists every charted hit single and album beginning in 1950, is indexed by artist for quick access and separates the truly desirable recordings from the trash. It is comprehensive. For example, more a dozen pages are devoted to the output of the Beatles, while the list of Elvis Presley recordings covers more than 30 pages and includes both the Sun and RCA labels.

As with most collectibles, values depend on several factors, including scarcity, desirability and condition. Just because a recording is old doesn't necessarily mean that it is valuable. For example, most pre-1920 recordings are worth only about a dollar each. The Beatles on the Swan label usually command several hundred dollars each. As with everything, there are exceptions. Also published by Osborne are reference books listing the recordings and collectibles of both the Beatles and Presley.

If you'd like to contact Osborne about your collection, contact him at Osborne Enterprises, P.O. Box 255, Port Townsend, WA 98368; jpo@olympus.net; and http://www.jerryosborne.com. There is a nominal charge for each title.

Expert Advice on Feral Cats

Q. I saw your columns on feral cats and knew I had to reach you immediately.

Please tell your readers to contact Alley Cat Allies (ACA), THE national feral cat resource. There are active programs to help ferals across the United States.

With ACA's quarterly newsletter, Alley Cat Action; its newsletter for feral cat caretakers, "Feral Cat Activist"; and its Web site, www.alleycat.org; they have done so much across our nation to stamp out all the mistaken ideas people have about feral cats and how to deal with them.

The best answer is the humane answer: Trap, Neuter and Return (TNR). Then the ferals can live out their lives and the population explosion halts. Our organization, Operation Topcat, has used TNR since our first spay/neuter clinic in 1996. It works!

That's why I'm begging you to go to ACA! They offer help for the people on the front line dealing with colonies of cats. Thanks! — *Sue Tuman, president, Operation Topcat

A. Thank you for writing, Sue! You've explained the issue of stray cats and feral cat colonies much more clearly than I, and have provided a real resource for readers dealing with feral cats.

Readers, at Sue's prompting, I contacted Alley Cat Allies. What a great organization! It can help you find a rescue organization in your area (like Operation Topcat), and it also offers books and videotapes on rescuing feral cats. Write to ACA at 1801 Belmont Road NW, Suite 201, Washington, D.C., 20009. You can also find out more by visiting its Web site, www.alleycat.org, or calling them at (202) 667-3630.

Oakland Man

he was carrying a bag of marijuana and a bag of suspected cocaine, along with two dissembled Bic pen bodies that bore residue traces of suspected cocaine.

Judge Burnett placed several cases onto the stet docket for future trial should the state deem necessary.

Terra Alta, W.Va., residents Timothy Lee Meadows, 27, and Edward Lee White, 43, each faced charges of second degree assault and disorderly conduct that were stetted. The pair were arrested by sheriff's deputies after an April domestic-related incident at a McHenry home. They allegedly forced their way into the residence and began striking the homeowner in a dispute over Meadows's estranged wife, who was on the scene with her children.

George Henry Keller, 47, Gratton, W.Va., was handed a stet ruling and an order to complete 20 hours of community service in connection with a second degree assault charge filed in April by state troopers. Keller's arrest stemmed from a domestic altercation at the Friendsville home he had been sharing with a girlfriend, as the victim alleged that Keller had struck her during an altercation.

Robert Kent Arrowhead, 32, Terra Alta, faced charges of second degree assault, false imprisonment, and malicious destruction of property, each of which was placed on the stet docket. Sheriff's deputies jailed Arrowhead after he reportedly assaulted a girlfriend at the Spring Glade Road house the pair were sharing.

Timothy David Hare, 30, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling on charges of second degree assault and DUI, and several related traffic offenses. His February arrest by state troopers came after a traffic stop along Garrett Highway near Accident. Immediately after bringing his vehicle to a stop, Hare jumped out and began running back toward the police cruiser while waving his arms and yelling. When Hare was ordered to place both his hands on the police car in plain sight, he refused, and when troopers were executing the arrest he pushed one of them away.

Todd William Riley, 27, Oakland, faced charges of cocaine and drug paraphernalia possession that were placed onto the stet docket. Narcotics Task Force detectives had jailed him in February after receiving a tip that a specific vehicle would be transporting drugs into Garrett Highway. When the car was stopped near Friendsville, traces of suspected burnt crack cocaine residue were located in the backseat where Riley had been seated.

Allan Clifford Colegrove Jr., 36, Middle River, was handed a stet ruling in connection with a felony theft charge. An arrest warrant obtained by the GBI accused Colegrove of defrauding an Oakland couple as they tried to refinance their home. Claiming he represented a mortgage lending company, Colegrove obtained a $770 check from the victims that he reportedly cashed for his own purposes. The probe revealed that Colegrove had been fired by the company six months prior to his dealings with the couple.

Douglas Gene Wilburn, 34, Grantsville, was handed a stet ruling on a violation of ex parte charge. His March arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he called a home where the victim was staying and cursed another resident. The court order was already in effect banning him from attempting to contact the victim.

Charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession were not prosecuted against Melvin Lee Minnick, 22, Terra Alta, who had been arrested by GBI detectives in March on an unrelated burglary charge. A bag of suspected marijuana seeds was found in his pocket as he was being transported to the jail, and a relative turned in a pipe with suspected marijuana residue, rolling paper, and scales that hand been discovered in his residence.

Timothy Wayne Walden, 25, Accident, had faced charges of felony theft and malicious destruction of property that were not prosecuted. Sheriff's deputies jailed Walden in April on a warrant charging him with the theft of a motorcycle from a Mtn. Lake Park residence.

Patricia Louise Ahern, 40, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second degree assault charge that stemmed from her April arrest by sheriff's deputies. She had allegedly punched her boyfriend in the nose during a domestic altercation.

Nolan Retires, Passes On DARE Responsibilities

by Beth L. Bowers

"You're special" and "I don't like you, I love you" are two of the many lessons that Garrett County sheriff's deputy Chuck Nolan has been trying to teach area sixth graders for the past 4 years through the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program.

After spending 26 years as a police officer, Nolan is retiring from the sheriff's office and the DARE program. Although, he said he will miss the students tremendously, right now he is pleased to be able to wear anything he wants when he wakes up in the morning.

"I have spent my entire adult life in a uniform, usually some shade of brown," Nolan said. He entered the U.S. Marine Corps immediately after graduating from high school and served for more than one year in Vietnam. "I was a punk as a kid," he said. "I have no right to wear this uniform. I really needed straightened out."

A native of New Mexico, Nolan met his wife of 28 years, Jane, a native of Garrett County, while in the Washington, D.C. area. Before joining the sheriff's office, he worked for the Oakland City Police and as an undercover police officer with the Maryland State Police.

But, Nolan said that teaching the DARE program is his love. "It's the best job I've ever had," he said. "I love every one of those kids, and they know it."

Sheriff Dick Sanders encouraged him to get involved in the program in 1998. DARE is a national program that is officer-led to teach children how to resist peer pressure and live productive and drug-and-violence-free lives. The program was developed by the Los Angeles Police Department and the Los Angeles Unified School District.

"Sheriff Sanders has a way of knowing what you (the deputies) would be best at," he said. "He encouraged me to do the DARE program and as soon as I started it I fell in love with it."

Sheriff Sanders noted that Nolan "cares deeply for the well-being of the youth in Garrett County."

"Chuck has made a favorable impact upon the lives of the youth in our county and has been a valuable asset to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office," he said.

The program consists of 17 lessons. Nolan adds an extra lesson, which is a field trip through Simon Pearce or WKIJ Radio Station, the 911 call center, the jail, and the sheriff's office. After the tour the students walk to McDonalds for a hamburger with Nolan.

Nolan works with Dawn Panther's sixth grade health class at Southern Middle School. He also makes a point to work with Linda Booth's class at SMS. He has also worked with the sixth graders at Northern Middle and Bloomington. This past year, he turned over the duties at NMS to Deputy Rob Corley, who will continue now that Nolan is officially retired. Deputy Dan Duggan will be taking Nolan's place at SMS and Bloomington.

Of the many lessons taught in the program are improving self esteem, learning ways to say "no," and playing traffic cop. He starts out every class with

SURROUNDED BY WARM AND FUZZY MEMORIES — Chuck Nolan suited up in his Garrett County sheriff's deputy uniform one last time since retiring to pose with some of the special Daren DARE mascots he has had over the last four years of teaching DARE to local sixth graders. Each class gets its own lion to represent them. The lion in the top left is the first Daren from Nolan's first class in 1998. Darens are on display at the Elks Lodge and at the GCSO booth at the fair. Below, Nolan's students get their "blood pumping" as they warm up with the "YMCA" at the recent DARE graduation at Southern Middle School. Students received a diploma, medal, and other rewards from Nolan. Nolan was presented with a handmade banner, clock, and plaque from the students and staff of SMS at his final DARE graduation. Nolan also worked with students at Bloomington and Northern Middle schools. See story for more details.

Brown Joins Staff Of Savage River Inn As New Chef

Chef Stephen Brown, a native of Hagerstown, has joined the staff of the Savage River Lodge, near Frostburg.

Brown started his college years studying the performing arts and music at Hagerstown Community College. He then moved to the Culinary Institute of America (CIA) in Hyde Park, N.Y., to hone his interest in the art of food and the performance of the cooking arts.

While at the CIA-NY, which is the top-rated culinary school in the country, he externed at the Washington Spy restaurant in Hagerstown. Upon graduation in early 2000, Brown became executive chef for Aramark Corporation, working at the Citicorp Credit Services facilities in Hargerstown. While at Aramark, he worked under Certified Executive Chef Frank Ganassa, who coincidentally, designed the kitchen at the Lodge.

Since coming on board at the Lodge in early May, Brown has been busy organizing the kitchen to suit his work style, training the staff, and devising delicious specials. He will soon be sharing his kitchen with another CIA graduate.

"We have another CIA trained chef starting in July. That's when we will begin redesigning the menu," Brown said. "We're going to offer the best quality food around that will also reflect the variety of local products. We can be creative with the local items as well as obtaining the best, more exotic items shipped in overnight. Our guests will be seeing more wild items on the menu, things like antelope and elk, wild mushrooms, and specialty vegetables."

Savage River Lodge owner Mike Dreisbach said he is especially happy to have Brown working at the Lodge. "I have known Steve for years as his wrestling coach at Williamsport High School," he said. "He had an interest in cooking back then and had the wisdom to follow his dream. He is a talented and creative chef. His skills and love of cooking are a perfect fit for the restaurant. It's exciting to see someone from Hagerstown leave the area and come back to western Maryland to fulfil their dreams and satisfy guests' appetites."

The Savage River Lodge is a unique upscale resort in the heart of the Savage River State Forest with luxury accommodations and gourmet restaurant.

Be a Certified Nutrient Management Consultant!

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) will be giving the examination for obtaining the Nutrient Management consultant certification on August 2, 9 a.m., Room 314, Continuing Education Building, Garrett Community College. There is a real need for additional consultants particularly farmers who can write their own nutrient management plan. There is a one-time cost of $50 to take the exam except for Government employees.

To assist interested people in preparing for the examination I will be offering classroom training on July 17 and 24, 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Room 310, Continuing Education Building, Garrett Community College. I will have several instructors who will be covering information associated with the examination. Also, I have available upon request important study materials on which the examination questions are based.

Reservations must be made for the examination and classroom instruction by July 8 by calling my office at 301-334-6960.

Natural, Organic Foods Susceptible to Recalls

A study by the Food and Drug Administration and Health Canada revealed that organic and "all-natural" products are eight times more likely to be recalled for food safetyrelated problems than conventional products. The nonprofit Center for Global Food Issues conducted a ninemonth review of monthly food and supplement product recalls reported by the FDA and the Food Inspection Agency of Health Canada.

The reasons for various recalls and product warning rates included:

- Failure to label products with potentially dangerous allergenic ingredients
- Other labeling violations
- Microbial contamination
- Other food safety-related concerns

"An $8 billion-plus industry in North America, organic products still represent less than one percent of the total marketplace, yet they accounted for more than eight percent of all recalls," noted Alex Avery, research director for the Center for Global Food Issues. "This suggests that consumers have an eight-fold higher risk factor for safety-related recalls when they purchase organic products (instead of) conventional foods."

Vegetable Tips for the Home Gardener

Apply a soluble fertilizer, high in phosphorous, around transplants and emerging seedlings to promote strong root growth. Always follow label directions. Kelp, seaweed, and fish emulsion or compost tea fertilizers can also be used. Avoid using fresh manure in vegetable gardens at this time. Keep salad greens regularly watered and fertilized for optimum succulence and eating quality.

Apply a 2-4 inch thick organic mulch or grass clippings, straw or newspaper covered with straw, around vegetable plants. This helps keep the soil temperature even, reduces the evaporation of water from the soil and keeps weeds down.

Be prepared to protect young cucumber, and squash plants from cucumber beetles using an insecticide, repellent or row cover. "County Fair" is the only known cultivar with resistance to bacterial wilt disease spread by the beetle feeding. Hand-pick Colorado potato beetles and their orange egg masses on eggplant and potatoes and hand-pick harlequin bugs and their white and black, barrel-shaped eggs on brassica family members. Carefully inspect the upper and lower leaves of your plants for these pests and their egg masses.

Aphid numbers are high now on a wide variety of vegetable plants. It is usually not necessary to spray insecticides or release beneficials to control aphids. Populations of ladybird beetle, green lacewings and wasp parasites build up quickly to keep aphids in check. You'll see these predators and parasites at work if you observe the aphid colonies closely. Planting a wide variety of flowering plants around or within the vegetable garden that bloom throughout summer will help attract beneficial msects. If necessary, an application of insecticidal soap or ultra-fine horticultural oil will kill these soft-bodied pests.

Be patient with your squash, cucumber, muskmelon, watermelon and pumpkin plants. Male flowers are produced first on most types of cucurbit family members. As the plant matures female blooms will appear, which depend on bees to deposit pollen produced by the male flower. Be careful not to spray broad-spectrum insecticides during the bloom period to protect bees. Plants that require insect pollination may produce small, malformed fruits or fruits that drop prematurely. This is usually caused by low bee activity. Be aware that wild and domesticated bee populations are reduced at this time due to two mite pests that attack bees. This may contribute to poor production. Remove spent blooms from the end of summer squash fruit to avoid fruit rot.

Be sure to offer proper support to growing tomato plants. Pepper and eggplant also benefit from being supported by a low trellis or wire cage. The suckers or succulent shoots that develop from the tomato plants at the soil line should be removed throughout the season.

Do not spray pesticides in your garden unless you've observed a particular pest and serious damage caused by the pest. Always select the least toxic insecticide with the shortest residual, and follow all label directions. The wet weather we have experienced is encouraging many diseases. Early blight leaf spot disease on tomatoes is characterized by dark lesions with a bulls-eye pattern that start on lower leaves. The disease can progress through the season, defoliating plants and reducing yields. Snip off badly infected leaves and lay down organic mulch around your plants. A copper fungicide can also be used to help control early blight.

Perpetual spinach, Swiss chard, leafy amaranth, kale, mustard and Asian greens are all good heat tolerant salad greens for Maryland. "Grand Rapids," "Red Sails," "Deer Tongue," and oak-leaf type lettuces are some of the more heat tolerant loose leaf lettuce varieties that can be sown now. Keep them well fertilized and watered and covered with a shade cloth if possible.
